#Portland Vase #Roman cameo glass #ancient Roman artifact #British Museum exhibit #historic glass artwork

The Portland Vase is an iconic Roman cameo glass vase, renowned for its exquisite craftsmanship and ancient beauty. Dating back to the early Imperial Roman period, this deep blue glass artifact features intricate white cameo relief carvings depicting mythological scenes. Housed in the British Museum, it stands as a celebrated masterpiece of ancient art and a testament to Roman luxury.

How was it made? An Agate Teapot - How was it made? An Agate Teapot by Victoria and Albert Museum 1,270,504 views 10 years ago 6 minutes, 51 seconds - In this video Michelle Erickson recreates an 18th-century agateware teapot in the V&A's collection. Michelle Erickson was ...

Agateware uses different coloured clays to create a pattern that imitates agate stone.

To make the moulds it is necessary to investigate how the original model used for the moulds was formed.

I'm throwing a thick shape that can be marked, carved and modelled into the main body of the teapot.
I'm experimenting with how the form might have been originally made.

I'm marking the cast shell with a compass so I can model it to recreate the exact shape I need.

Ornamental relief on the lid and the finial is carved directly into the plaster moulds.

A slab of coloured clays needs to be created to press into the moulds.

an iron clay are layered with white earthenware to create the alternating layers.

The layered slabs are turned into rolls and cut.

The block is sliced into layers and pressed into a thick slab

A rolling pin is used to thin the slab.

Based on my research it became clear that the patterned slab of clay was sliced

I'm carefully pressing the patterned slab into the shell teapot mould...

The edges are scored in preparation to joining the two halves of the mould together.

A tool is used to seal the seams on the interior.

Now that the clay is leather-hard I'm removing it from the mould.

I'm going to clean the seams and assemble the sections to make the teapot.

The clay is rolled into a tapered coil to make the handle.

An incised plaster 'sprig mould' is used to create the eyes of the dolphin.

I'm piercing the holes that will let the tea flow from the body of the teapot into the spout.

I'll now leave the pot to dry before bisque firing.

After the bisque firing the teapot is dipped in glaze

When the glaze firing is complete the final colours are revealed.
