Carlo Rovelli: Loop Quantum Gravity, Relational Time - Carlo Rovelli: Loop Quantum Gravity, Relational Time by Theories of Everything with Curt Jaimungal 145,359 views 2 years ago 3 hours, 47 minutes - TIMESTAMPS: 00:00:00 Introduction 00:03:27 The relational interpretation of quantum mechanics 00:12:29 Why is there ...

Introduction

The relational interpretation of quantum mechanics

Why is there consistency in the world?

How can "relationships" be more fundamental than "things"?

Visualizing the relations

Philosophy and physics (why modern physicists are philosophic)

Definition of the "Universe" (does physical law stand "outside" the universe?)

The problems with the concept of "Universe"

Many Worlds (why Carlo doesn't like this interpretation)

Mathematics alone isn't sufficient ("between reality and math, there's a gap")

It's not false to say the Sun revolves around the Earth

An ecumenical approach to understanding the Universe and religions

Anti-foundationalism has taken over philosophy

Entropic Time / Thermal Time (illusion of time)

Lee Smolin's view on time (that time is the MOST real quantity)

Julian Barbour's theory of time

Thoughts on Wolfram's model

Thoughts on Sean Carole's Many Worlds

Donald Hoffman (and briefly Eric Weinstein)

What do we mean by "real"? (Wittgenstein's language games)

Does there exist what lies outside your knowledge?

Philosophy is a cure against wrong questions

Information paradox is like "falling in love with holography" (based in dogma)

Does learning math / physics get easier with age or harder?

What Carlo would have done differently in developing LQG?

[Stephon Alexander] How does time play into Quantum Gravity?

[Bernardo Kastrup] How does Carlo's view of "relations" not lead to an infinite regress?

Idealism vs Materialism (science doesn't presume a metaphysic)

Hard Problem of Consciousness is a "confusion"

Forget about Philosophical Zombies -- Think Philosophical Babies

[goodsirknight] Carlo's LSD experience and the satori moment's influence on LQG

[Aaron Heidari] Alfred North Whitehead

We don't need new ideas for quantum gravity
