TOP 20 TIPS, TO GET BETTER AT MANAGING PEOPLE

Manage by exception. When things are going well. leave them alone. When a problem occurs, then help

When you are going to make a change, that affects others. get them involved, before making the actual change. This increases commitment to make the change work, after it is implemented.

Put key ideas on small posters, to hang around the office

When the environment and your sincerity permit give the person a hug or a touch.

Employees are the only organization resource that can, with training, appreciate in value. All other resources depreciate.

Consider sharing distasteful tasks, to reduce resentment and hard feelings.

Ask, "Will you please do this for me." instead of telling someone just to do it.

Eliminate private secretaries, in favor of shared secretaries, in order to make it easier to even out the work load.

If you give employees a basic employee handbook, you will not be interrupted with their questions.

Pay attention to small details, the big ones are obvious, and get taken care of.

Stay open in your thinking. Be open to all new ideas. Do this, and you will not be setting up barriers, that do not exist.

Avoid asking others, to do trivial personal items for you.

Say thank you, to those with whom you associate

A warm smile and strong handshake, break barriers.

Smile. It helps you feel better, and is contagious. The whole organization shudders, when the boss is frowning. Likewise, it smiles when the boss does

Keep things "light" and have fun, rather than being too serious. Seriousness blocks productivity

In order to fly with the eagles, you must "think lightly."

Work with each person, to create standard operating procedures, for their specific job. It will eliminate repetitious questions.
