ANSWER C: Blood from infants under one year of age is collected by heel stick (lateral areas), as the child's veins are generally too small for venipuncture.

When collecting a sample of whole blood for testing using a lavender-capped Microtainer, how many inversions are needed to mix the blood with the additive?

ANSWER C: Microtainer tubes that contain anticoagulants require 10 inversions after the addition of blood to ensure that the additive and blood are mixed adequately.

Which government agency is responsible for laws governing the use of gloves when carrying out a venipuncture?

ANSWER D: The government agency responsible for laws governing the use of gloves when carrying out a venipuncture is OSHA under the Bloodborne Pathogen standards, with the current version part of the Needlestick Safety and Prevention Act (2000)

ANSWER C: The primary difference between plasma and serum is that only plasma contains fibrinogen, a protein that facilitates formation of blood clots. Plasma and serum are otherwise very similar, as they constitute the fluid portion of the blood.

ANSWER A: One of the reasons that serum is more often used for testing than plasma is that serum contains more antigens, so it can be used to carry out a wider variety of tests. Additionally, anticoagulants found in plasma may interfere with some tests.

ANSWER C: Wearing artificial nails especially increases the risk of harboring Gram-negative bacteria on the fingertips and may result in outbreaks of infection. The CDC recommends that artificial nails or long nails (which pose similar risks) should be avoided by healthcare workers who have direct contact with patients, especially in high risk areas such as in ICU or NICU.
