The Fat Cat

"It's official. That thing that classic art has been missing is a chubby reclining kitty." —The Huffington Post Internet meme meets classical art in Svetlana Petrova's brilliant Fat Cat Art. Featuring her twenty-two-pound, ginger-colored cat Zarathustra superimposed onto some of the greatest artworks of all time, Petrova's paintings are an Internet sensation. Now fans will have the ultimate full-color collection of her work, including several never-before-seen pieces, to savor for themselves or to give as a gift to fellow cat lovers. From competing with Venus's sexy reclining pose (and almost knocking her off her chaise lounge in the process) in Titian's Venus of Urbino, to exhibiting complete disdain as he skirts away from God's pointing finger in Michelangelo's Creation of Adam, Zarathustra single-handedly rewrites art history in the way that only an adorable fat cat can.

Fat Cat on a Mat

A very funny animal story from the award-winning writer Dick King-Smith Laurence Higgins, an enormously fat black cat, has breakfast with Mrs Higgins, lunch with the Normans, tea with old Mr Mason and supper with the Barclay-Lloyds. None of them know why he is so fat on just one meal a day! Lawrence is happy until he finds the walking from house to house tiring and begins to get indigestion.

His friends tell him to lose weight if he wants a girl friend so he begins to spend one day in four with all his owners. He gets thinner but the cat he fancies down the road tells him she doesn't like slim boys - she's lost her heart to an enormously fat black cat she used to see up the road! Triumphant Lawrence returns to his four meals a day, spurred on by the thought of meeting Bella when he's back to his normal size.

Fat Cats and Democrats

Madeleine Levy was diagnosed with Asperger's syndrome at the age of eight. This is a book about her life growing up and the education system as she experienced it. When she was asked by her nursery school teacher what she wanted to be when she grew up, Madeleine's reply was very different to all the other children's: she wanted to be a cat. Later she was bullied for being different - for being bi-sexual, for having autism, or just for being, as she puts it, a weird goth kid. When I Grow Up I Want to Be a Cat is not just a brilliantly frank memoir but also in part a supportive guide for youngsters with autism and their parents or carers, and in part a critique of the education system whose standardised support Madeleine found lacking. It is a book that genuinely gives the perspective from someone on the autistic spectrum - and not just Madeleine's own voice but the voices of nine other individuals with autism spectrum disorder whom she has interviewed for the book. Whatever your interest in autism or whatever your reason for reading it, When I Grow Up I Want to Be a Cat is an unforgettable read in which Madeleine addresses the highs and the lows of her life with compelling honesty, and which ultimately carries a hugely positive message for anyone who is facing struggles in life just for being different.

One Fat Cat

The world of cats is humorously depicted in this well-known collection of illustrations. World renowned cartoonist Ronald Searle has satirically but lovingly portrayed his feline friends in outlandish almost human entanglements. A remarkably hairy cat facing a dandruff problem, a vanity-stricken balding cat wearing an unsuitable wig, and a cat of a thousand disguises concealing itself as a rug are just some of the witty full-color illustrations that everyone, but cat lovers in particular, will find irresistible.

Fat Cat

A cat sits in the doorway and tries to decide whether to go inside where he might get fed again, go outside where he might have an adventure, or stay where he is.

NASA 1963 PROJECT GEMINI FILM "ALL SYSTEMS GO" PROJECT MERCURY 79934 - NASA

1963 PROJECT GEMINI FILM "ALL SYSTEMS GO" PROJECT MERCURY 79934 by PeriscopeFilm

79,365 views 7 years ago 26 minutes - Presented by NASA, ALL SYSTEMS GO is a 26 minute film that was created in March, 1963 about the construction, testing, and ...

The film opens up with a description of Gemini III's spacecraft, and how the rocket was ultimately designed to be fitted with 2 astronauts at the top of the rocket in the crew module (the module at the top of the rocket is Gemini III). Film footage can be seen of both Gus Grissom and John Young preparing to enter the capsules for flight. However the film at the minute mark pulls back to the scene at Cape Kennedy, showing people preparing to watch the rocket launch, and then to last-minute footage of training before the official launch can begin.

This also shows that at the time NASA, needed only the ...

The mark however is where the film truly gets it start in explaining the process that goes into the construction of the Gemini III module, starting with the majority supplier to NASA's space program when we view in on the "McDonnell Space Center" in St. Louis, which is owned at that point by the McDonnell Spacecraft Incorporate company. What follows after that small tour of the floor of the Space Center is a show that centers around the construction, testing, and inspection of the Gemini III module that's being developed for NASA as well as inspections to help improve the technology.

In fact, at mark, the film starts to show each separate component of the module being tested and developed as well as the technology behind it that went into the construction of the module. From there all the way to the minute mark you can see all that goes into the module fully, and how for 1963 some of the most advanced, and technology complicated feats of engineering went into the Gemini III.

While the film doesn't delve into all of the systems that go into the module fully, by though it does take a brief glimpse into just one system and shows fully the amount of work goes into making sure that it's constructed to meet or exceed NASA's qualifications. All of which includes documentation, leak testing, calibration of the system, more documentation of those calibration, and even more testing before it's fully prepared.

By all of that testing, calibration, and documentation is complete, and is slowly loaded onto an aircraft carrier to be delivered to the Kennedy Space Center in Florida, where it will currently continue to be tested and prepared for its eventual flight into Space. As soon as it lands though, NASA quickly gets to work in looking for any damages that might have occurred during the flight delivery before running the Gemini III module through its own battery of tests. The last Six minutes of the film (at the mark) continue to show the full construction of the Gemini III module atop the rocket, where NASA continues to make sure everything is put together fully well, and functional including tests on the spacesuits that the astronauts will be using on their flight to space. By the end of the film though, we see that all of that work that was put into the Module comes together for a success flight off into space.
