Sustainability involves meeting the needs of the current generation without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their needs.

SUSTAINABILITY It is the process of accessing how to design products that will take advantage of the current environmental situation and enhancing how well a company's products perform with renewable resources.

RESOURCES Organizations use up resources in the course of their operations. Any resource that is used must be replenished or it disappears forever.

PRACTICES Sustainable practices require a strong commitment by companies in order to create the necessary follow-through at all levels of the company.

RESPONSIBILITY There is evidence that more than three-fourths of customers are concerned with sustainability and that more of them today are willing to avoid doing business with companies who do not pay attention to their social responsibility and sustainability.
