As You all Know as We all Know in the 20th Century this Country Made the Decision To Abolish Racial Segregation We Thought that Racial Segregation Was Wrong We Realized that It Was Immoral We Understood that It Did Great Harm to both African-Americans and Whites in this Country and We Understood It Was Unconstitutional as a Violation of Our Constitution To Separate the Country by Races and We Began in the 1930s First with Civil Rights Suits That Desegregated Law Schools and Then We Went On To Desegregate Colleges

And We Began in the 1930s First with Civil Rights Suits That Desegregated Law Schools and Then We Went On To Desegregate Colleges and Universities in the 1954 the Supreme Court Ruled that Segregated Elementary and Secondary Schools Were a Violation of the Constitution and Then the Civil Rights Movement Grew and the Result of that Civil Rights Movement in the 1960s We Abolished Segregation and Everything from Water Fountains to Buses to Lunch Counters to Public Facilities of all Kind and Yet Having Done that We've Left Untouched the Biggest Segregation of all Which Is that every Metropolitan in this Area

We Abolished Segregation and Everything from Water Fountains to Buses to Lunch Counters to Public Facilities of all Kind and Yet Having Done that We've Left Untouched the Biggest Segregation of all Which Is that every Metropolitan in this Area in this Country Is Segregated by Race I've Lived in Many of Them I've Lived in New York and Boston and Chicago and North Carolina and Denver and Los Angeles and San Francisco I've Moved There and a Lot every Metropolitan Area That I've Ever Lived in Had Clearly Defined Neighborhoods Where Whites and Only Whites Lived and Clearly Defined Neighborhoods Were African-Americans and Only African-Americans Lived with Rare Exceptions

But We Accept Residential Segregation as Sort of Part of the Natural Environment We're Aware of It All the Time It's Not that We've Tried To Undo It and Have Failed We've Never Even Tried It's Not Something That We Feel Obligated To Do Anything about We Feel Badly about It but We Don't Think It's Our Responsibility To Desegregate Neighborhoods and the Reason for that Is I May Be Not Hard To Understand You Know It's a Lot Harder To Desegregate Neighborhoods than To Desegregate Water Fountains

It's Not that We've Tried To Undo It and Have Failed We've Never Even Tried It's Not Something That We Feel Obligated To Do Anything about We Feel Badly about It but We Don't Think It's Our Responsibility To Desegregate Neighborhoods and the Reason for that Is I May Be Not Hard To Understand You Know It's a Lot Harder To Desegregate Neighborhoods than To Desegregate Water Fountains if You Pass a Law Saying that You Can't Have Separate Water Fountains for Blacks and Whites Well the Next Day People Can Drink out of any Water Fountain if You Pass a Law Saying that You Can't Have Separate Sections on Buses for Blacks and Whites the Next State People Can Sit Anywhere They Want on the Bus but if You Pass a Law Saying We Can't Have Separate Neighborhoods for Whites and Blacks

You Can't Have Separate Sections on Buses for Blacks and Whites the Next State People Can Sit Anywhere They Want on the Bus but if You Pass a Law Saying We Can't Have Separate Neighborhoods for Whites and Blacks Nothing Much Happens the Next Day and So It's a More Difficult Thing To Undo once We've Segregated the Country by Neighborhood by Race and by Neighborhood and So in Order To Rationalize to Ourselves Our Failure To Undo It We've Adopted the National Myth and that Myth Is Pervasive It's Pervasive across the Political Spectrum the Liberals And So in Order To Rationalize to Ourselves Our Failure To Undo It We've Adopted the National Myth and that Myth Is Pervasive It's Pervasive across the Political Spectrum the Liberals and Conservatives Hold It the Blacks and Whites Hold It We've Given a Name to that Myth the Name of that Myth Is We Have De Facto Segregation Not Something That Was Created by Government like All the Other Segregations That We Undid in the 30s 40s 50s and 60s but this Is Something That Sort Of Just Happened by Accident It Happened because People Like To Live with each Other of the Same Race or It Happened because Private Actors whether They Were Real Estate Agents or Bankers Were Private Citizens Discriminated and How They Sold or Rented Homes

And I Wrote about Many of these Conditions That Predict a Lower Average Achievement for Children Who Come to School with Social and Economic Challenges whether It's Lead Poisoning or the Lack of High-Quality Early Childhood Education or Coming from Homes Where the Parents Are Less Well Educated and Vocabulary Is Less Sophisticated or Being Exposed to Violence and Coming to School and Conditions of Stress or Coming to School from Conditions of Stress because of Parental Unemployment

The the Challenge of Overcoming Them Becomes Nearly Impossible You Know if You Have a Couple of Children in the School with these Disadvantages They Can Get Special Help and Special Attention but if every Single Child in the School It's Coming to School either with Asthma or Lead Poisoning or Lack of a High Quality Early Childhood Experience or Stress from either Violence in the Neighborhood or Economic Conditions at Home or Homeless if You Have every Child in the Classroom That in that Way Reinforcing Their Own Disadvantages the the Achievement Gap Is Inevitable and We Call Schools as You all Know that We Call Schools That Have Children with these Conditions Concentrated within Them We Call Them Segregated Schools

It Was because People Liked To Live with each Other the Same Race He Said and because Private Homeowners and Real Estate Agents and Banks Discriminated and because of Income Differences It Was Accidental Segregation What He Called De Facto Segregation and He Said if You Have De Facto Segregation Its Prohibited for the a School District To Take Account of a Child's Race To Try To Desegregate the School Only Chief Justice Roberts Said if You Have the Jury Segregation Segregation by Law Public Policy Regulation Government-Sponsored Government Created Government and Forced Segregation Only Then Not Only Is It Permissible To Desegregate It's Required that We Do So To Remedy the Constitutional Violation

Tried To Buy a Home in a Middle-Class Suburban Area no Real Estate Agent Would Sell a Home to Him or Show Him a Home in that Neighborhood so the White Homeowner Bought another Home for His Friend and Resold It to His Friend in this Suburb of Shively and the African-American the Navy Veteran Moved into the Home with His Family a Mob Surrounded the Home Protected by the Police They Threw Stones through the Windows They Firebombed and Dynamite at the House That the African-American Family Had Moved into and When the Riot Was over the State of Kentucky

But I Hadn't Understood It Was a Complete System That Created the Jury System of Segregation That Sounds Just As Unconstitutional as the Segregation of Buses and Water Fountains and Lunch Counters and Schools so I Began To Accumulate the Evidence and that's What Resulted in the I'M Talking about this Evening Called the Color of Law and Well I Demonstrate in this Book Is that as I Said the the Racial Segregation That Exists in every Metropolitan Area in this Country Is Not the Fact though the Notion of De Facto Segregation Is an Other Myth

Because in the Mid to Early 20th Century There Were Many Integrated Neighborhoods in Urban Areas in this Country That May Surprise You As Well but if You Think about It You'LI Realize that Almost all Jobs in that Period of Time Were Located in Downtown Industrial Areas Workers Didn't Have Automobiles To Get To Work So if You Had an Industrial Area Where African Americans and Irish Immigrants and Italian Immigrants and Jews and Migrants from Rural Areas We'Re all Working at Jobs in this Industrial Area without Automobiles They all Have To Live Close Enough To Be Able To Walk To Work So Sometimes There Were Street Cars They Took Structured Streetcar Rides but They Lived in Broadly the Same Neighborhoods

So if You Had an Industrial Area Where African Americans and Irish Immigrants and Italian Immigrants and Jews and Migrants from Rural Areas We'Re all Working at Jobs in this Industrial Area without Automobiles They all Have To Live Close Enough To Be Able To Walk To Work So Sometimes There Were Street Cars They Took Structured Streetcar Rides but They Lived in Broadly the Same Neighborhoods I Mean I'M Not Just Not Just in the North and the South As Well the South May Have Had Jim Crow and Water Fountains but Didn't Have Jim Crow and Residences African-Americans and Whites Lived in Many of the Same Neighborhoods Not all Neighborhoods but Many of the Same Neighborhoods some of You May Have Read the Autobiography of Langston Hughes the the Great African-American Poet Novelist and Playwright He Describes How He Grew Up in a Downtown Integrated Cleveland Neighborhood

I Mean I'M Not Just Not Just in the North and the South As Well the South May Have Had Jim Crow and Water Fountains but Didn't Have Jim Crow and Residences African-Americans and Whites Lived in Many of the Same Neighborhoods Not all Neighborhoods but Many of the Same Neighborhoods some of You May Have Read the Autobiography of Langston Hughes the the Great African-American Poet Novelist and Playwright He Describes How He Grew Up in a Downtown Integrated Cleveland Neighborhood We Don't Think of Downtown Cleveland as Being an Integrated Place but He Grew Up There He Says His Best Friend Was Polish He Dated the Jewish Girl

And so the Federal Government Was Building Housing for Working-Class Families Not for Poor People They Had They Paid the Full Cost of the of the Housing and Their Rents the Government Wasn't Putting Out any Money over the Long Term for these Houses of Course That To Advance the Construction Cost but It Got It Back on the Rents Not the Kind of Public Housing We Think of Today and Most of It Was for Whites

The Government Wasn't Putting Out any Money over the Long Term for these Houses of Course That To Advance the Construction Cost but It Got It Back on the Rents Not the Kind of Public Housing We Think of Today and Most of It Was for Whites There Were a Few Projects for African Americans but Always Segregated Even in Atlanta There Was a Downtown Area Called the Flats both African Americans and Whites Were Living There and Paths 60 / 40 Ratio so It's a Pretty Integrated Community but the Federal Government Demolished Housing There and Built a Segregated Project for Whites Only Forcing the African Americans Who Were Living in that Area To Find Housing Elsewhere To Double Up with Relatives

So It Built Segregated Housing It Built Housing for the African-Americans of Temporary Housing Not Well Constructed along the Railroad Tracks and in the Industrial Area near the Shipyards It Was Temporary because the City of Richmond Announced that at the End of the War any African-Americans Who Had Come There to Work Would Have To Leave and It Built Housing for the White Workers More Stable Housing in the Residential Areas East of the the Coast It Created Segregation Here Where It Hadn't Previously Existed There Was no Segregation because There Wasn't a Substantial African-American Population in in the Area in Fact throughout California in the Way Coasts

And President Truman Who Was Then President in 1949 Proposed a Vast Expansion of the National Public Housing Program To Accommodate these Returning War Veterans and Remember We'Re Not Talking about Poor People these Are People Who Had Jobs in the Post-War Boom in the Economic Boom after the War but There Was no Housing Available for Them the Government Wasn't Proposing To Build Subsidized Housing for Poor People Was Proposing To Build Housing for Returning War Veterans and Conservatives in Congress Wanted To Defeat the Expansion of Public Housing That President Truman Had Proposed for this Purpose They Wanted To Defeat that Not for Racial Reasons because It Was Segregated

And Conservatives in Congress Wanted To Defeat the Expansion of Public Housing That President Truman Had Proposed for this Purpose They Wanted To Defeat that Not for Racial Reasons because It Was Segregated and They Had no Problem with that They Didn't Want To Defeat It because They Didn't Like Poor People because this Wasn't for Poor People It Was for Returning War Veterans Who Had Jobs They Wanted To Defeat It Simply because They Thought that Public Housing Was Socialistic that the Government Shouldn't Be Involved in the Housing Market It Should Be the Private Market That Takes Care of the Needs of Returning War Veterans Even though the Private Market Wasn't Taking Care of Their Needs

Because this Wasn't for Poor People It Was for Returning War Veterans Who Had Jobs They Wanted To Defeat It Simply because They Thought that Public Housing Was Socialistic that the Government Shouldn't Be Involved in the Housing Market It Should Be the Private Market That Takes Care of the Needs of Returning War Veterans Even though the Private Market Wasn't Taking Care of Their Needs and so They Came Up with a Device To Defeat the the Program That President Truman Had Proposed It's a Device That Is Well Known to Observers of Politics

When the Entire Bill Came Up for a Vote That Would Be So Ridiculous that the Civil Rights Bill Would Go Down to Defeat and They Misjudged and that's Why We Have Non-Discrimination Provisions by Gender in the Civil Rights Bill They Didn't Succeed in Defeating the Final Bill after They Attach this Amendment to It but Going Back to 1949 Conservatives in Congress Had a Poison Pill Strategy They Proposed that an Amendment to the National Housing Act Be Added That Provided that from Now on all Public Housing Had To Be Integrated no More Discrimination in Public Housing Segregation Would Be Ended in Public Housing and They Propose this Amendment Cynically of Course Assuming that They Would Vote for It

Remember I See Enough Bald Heads and White Hair Here To Know that the some You Will Know Who You Birth Humphrey Was He Had the Year before He Had Led a an Effort at the Democratic National Convention To Add the Civil Rights Platform to the Democratic Civil Rights Closed the Democratic Platform so He Was the Leading Civil Right He Campaigned against the Integration Amendment He Persuaded All the Northern Liberals with Rare Exceptions To Vote against the Integration the Integration Men Went Down To Defeat the Full Public Housing Bill Came Up before Congress as an in Continuing Segregated Program It Passed

The Government Had To Open Up all Public Housing to African Americans Gradually They Became Predominantly African American about the Same Time Industry Left the Cities and There Were Fewer Fewer Jobs to Which Public Housing Residents Had Access We No Longer Industry Previously Was Dependent on either Deepwater Ports or Railroad Terminals but once the Highways Began To Be Built They Could Move Out to Rural Areas into the Suburbs and Have More Land and Not Have To Have Elevators and Dividing Up Their Assembly Lines so They Moved out of the Cities

Once They Became Subsidized Investment in Public Housing Decline the Maintenance Declined and Public Housing Became the Kind of Vertical Slums That We Came To Associate with Public Housing in the Late 20th Century That's Not How Public Housing Began but the Question That I Hope Is Arising in Your Mind because of the Rose in Mind When I Read this History of Public Housing Is Why Did All these Vacancies Develop in the White Projects and Not in the Black Projects these Were Returning War Veterans Blacks

But the Question That I Hope Is Arising in Your Mind because of the Rose in Mind When I Read this History of Public Housing Is Why Did All these Vacancies Develop in the White Projects and Not in the Black Projects these Were Returning War Veterans Blacks and Whites They all Had Jobs in the Postwar Boom the the African Americans Might Not Have Had the Better Jobs White's Monopolized those but They all Couldn't Afford Rent To Pay the Rent Why All these Vacancies and in the White Projects and Not the Black Projects and the Reason for that Is another Federal Program Which Was Even More Powerful in Creating Segregated Communities and that Was a Program That Was Run by the Federal Housing Administration

And the Reason for that Is another Federal Program Which Was Even More Powerful in Creating Segregated Communities and that Was a Program That Was Run by the Federal Housing Administration and It Was a Program That Was Designed To Segregate the Entire White Population into Single-Family Homes and the Suburbs It's Actually a Program That the Federal Government Began as a Propaganda Campaign and Right at the End of World War One after the Russian Revolution When some Geniuses and the Woodrow Wilson Administration Decided that the Way To Prevent White Workers from Becoming Bolsheviks Was To Get Them into Single-Family Homes and the Suburbs and Become Property Owners

In Urban Areas and Told Them that the Way To Avoid Racial Strife Was To Move to the Suburbs after I Published the Book I Came across a Poster that the Federal Housing Administration Had Produced and It Was a Poster the Picture Was of an African-American Man Being Led Away in Handcuffs by Police and the Headline Was Escaped Crime Moved to the Suburbs this Was a Federal Government Propaganda Campaign but It Didn't Have Much Effect because the Working-Class Families No Matter How Much They Wanted To Believe the Government Propaganda Didn't Have the Money To Afford Single-Family Homes in the Suburbs

If a Family Wanted To Own a Home in the Suburbs They Had To Buy some Land and Find a Builder To Construct It and Maybe There Was a Builder Occasionally Who Was Really a Risk-Taker and Was Willing To Build Three or Four or Five Homes

It's the Reason That Well We're the De Facto Theory Says that African Americans Just Can't Afford To Move into Middle-Class Communities Well It's True They Can't They all Have Money for Down Payments but that's a Federal Creation an Unconstitutional Federal Creation the Wealth Gap That Creates and Perpetuates the Segregation Is Responsible for the Concentration of the Most Disadvantaged Young People in this Country and Why We Have Riots like Ferguson and Milwaukee and St Paul and Other Places That We've Seen in Recent Years and Hundreds of Them

The Wealth Gap That Creates and Perpetuates the Segregation Is Responsible for the Concentration of the Most Disadvantaged Young People in this Country and Why We Have Riots like Ferguson and Milwaukee and St Paul and Other Places That We've Seen in Recent Years and Hundreds of Them Earlier in the the 20th Century It's the Reason Why as I Said at the Very Beginning We Have an Achievement Gap

Healthcare in the United States

And It Has in Place Today Mechanisms To Limit the Use of Expensive Drugs That Provide Only Modest Extensions of Life these Are Sorts of Examples That Raise Concern about Death Panels My Concern Is with the Nature of the Process What We Need Is Not a Process That's Focus Focuses Solely on How To Best Spend Our Healthcare Dollars What We Need Instead Is a Far Broader Process Based on a Democratic Dialogue about Our Values and How To Prioritize Them this Leads Us to a Very Different and Ethical Challenge the Question How To Design Such a Dialogue in Our Society and How To Implement Says Results as We Reflect on this Question

How Do We Prioritize among the Goods That We as a Society Are Prepared To Pay for and that's Not a Question That We Have Been Good at Thinking about because Once More We Have Had Too Much Hubris about Our Capacities To Do Everything That Is Good Now I Hope that no One Is Expecting that I Will Now Announce the Answer to this Question I Needed a Joke at this Book When I Was Younger I Actually Envisage Developing a Theory of Prioritization of Values in a Democratic Society this Next Remark Is Addressed to the Students and Not the Faculty Young People Are Entitled to Grandiose Goals

Many Affluent Countries Especially the United States Operated on the Seductive Assumption that We Could Have It all Disregarding the Finitude of the Human Condition this Was an Act of Theological Ubers the Growing Percentage of the Gross Domestic Product Devoted to Health Care Doing a Significant Degree to a Desire To Extend Precious Human Life Should Now Be Bringing Us to a Reminder of Our Limitations and Our Finitude once More this Is Not a Call To Change Values It Is Called To Adopt a More Nuanced Understanding of Our Values in a World in Which Prioritization That Would Provide a Basis for Saying as the Europeans Have It Is Morally Wrong To Allow Human Genes To Be Patented or Can We Not and if the Answer Is Yes Then We Better Have a Concept of Human Dignity in Our Bioethics so She's Got about a Dozen Examples of this Sort of Question and that's What She's Working Her Way through Her Thesis and with a Little Bit of Luck She'll Be Done a Year from June but that's What Thesis Advisors Always Say but You Asked of You Opened Up a Really Important Set of Issues

But I Urge You To Think about Them as Serious Possibilities Put that on a Side and Then We Come to the More Fundamental Question Which Is the Extent to Which Human Beings Should Be Given Control over Their Dying Now I Want To Put Aside Again another Question the Question of Killing Yourself That Raises Its Own Very Separate Moral Issues Huh I'M Focusing in Simply on the Question of the Extent to Which Human Beings Are Entitled To Say this Form of Life I Would Pass On Now

Let Me Say a Couple of Things about that and I'M Giving a Pretty Long Answer but You'Re Asked a Complex Question One Is You Need To Be Very Careful When You'Re Not in a Certain Condition To Ask Yourself How Would You Feel about Being Live in that Condition if You Ask Me Now Suppose I on the Way Home Yo to the Hotel Terrible Car Wreck and I Become a High Quad Brody Do You Want To Live that Way Here's My Quick Answer No although I'Ve Seen People Who Are High Quad You'Ve Made a Real Life for Themselves

The Breast Cancer Wars

Chronicles the various campaigns waged against breast cancer and its effects on women during the last century.

Nursing History Review, Volume 12, 2004

Nursing History Review, an annual peer-reviewed publication of the American Association for the History of Nursing, is a showcase for the most significant current research on nursing history. Regular sections include scholarly articles, over a dozen book reviews of the best publications on nursing and health care history that have appeared in the past year, and a section abstracting new doctoral dissertations on nursing history. Historians, researchers, and individuals fascinated with the rich field of nursing will find this an important resource. Highlights from Volume 12: Nursing in Nationalist China, John Watt Coronary Care Nursing Circa 1960s, Arlene Keeling A Memorial to Barbara Bates (1928-2002) Regulation of African-American Midwifery, Zeina Omisola Jones

Taking Charge of Breast Cancer

Vividly showcasing diverse voices and experiences, this book illuminates an all-too-common experience by exploring how women respond to a diagnosis of breast cancer. Drawing from interviews in which women describe their journeys from diagnosis through treatment and recovery, Julia A. Ericksen explores topics ranging from women's trust in their doctors to their feelings about appearance and sexuality. She includes the experiences of women who do not put their faith in traditional medicine as well as those who do, and she takes a look at the long-term consequences of this disease. What emerges from her powerful and often moving account is a compelling picture of how cultural messages about breast cancer shape women's ideas about their illness, how breast cancer affects their relationships with friends and family, why some of them become activists, and more. Ericksen, herself a breast cancer survivor, has written an accessible book that reveals much about the ways in which we narrate our illnesses and about how these narratives shape the paths we travel once diagnosed.

American Pandemic

"In 1918-1919 influenza raged around the globe in the worst pandemic in recorded history. Focusing on those closest to the crisis--patients, families, communities, public health officials, nurses and doctors--this book explores the epidemic in the United States"--

Pink Ribbons, Inc.

“Samantha King explains how, beyond being an all-too-frequent and still-too-lethal disease for many women, breast cancer is a corporate dream come true.” —Herizons “Fascinating. King’s deft and thoughtful interpretation of the pink ribbon phenomenon is an important wake-up call. Going against the grain, she takes a clear-eyed look at a trend that often seems to outshine the disease that put it on the map.” —Women’s Review of Books “King’s criticisms of breast-cancer philanthropy provide a new means of looking at one of our culture’s most celebrated causes. For anyone who has ever squirreled away yogurt lids for the cause, Pink Ribbons, Inc. is food for thought.” —Bitch “A fascinating read for anyone whose life has been touched by breast cancer.” —Curve “Breast cancer advocacy is being transformed from meaningful civic participation into purchasing products. To understand the personal, social, and political costs, read this book.” —Barbara Brenner, Executive Director of Breast Cancer Action In Pink Ribbons, Inc., Samantha King traces how breast cancer has been transformed from a stigmatized disease and individual tragedy to a market-driven industry of survivorship. Here, for the first time, King questions the effectiveness and legitimacy of privately funded efforts to stop the epidemic among American women. Highly revelatory-at times shocking-Pink Ribbons, Inc. challenges the commercialization of the breast cancer movement. Samantha King is associate professor of physical and health education and women’s studies at Queen’s University, in Kingston, Ontario

The History of Cancer and Emotions in Twentieth-Century Germany

Different people feel different emotions when they are diagnosed with cancer. Both today and a century ago, fear and hope, shame and disgust, sadness and joy are and were the emotions experienced by many cancer patients and their loved ones. But these emotions do not just have significance for the people who feel them. They have also exerted a surprisingly profound influence on how hospitals and laboratories dealt with cancer, how early detection campaigns portrayed it, and how doctors talked about it with their patients. Bettina Hitzer details the history of cancer and emotions in twentieth-century Germany and thus follows the cancer-associated transformations of emotional regimes, emotional politics, and emotional experiences through five different political systems. In doing so, the study underscores that political caesuras resonate in the immediate corporeality of the history of emotions.

The Palgrave Handbook of the History of Surgery

This handbook covers the technical, social and cultural history of surgery. It reflects the state of the art and suggests directions for future research. It discusses what is different and specific about the history of surgery - a manual activity with a direct impact on the patient’s body. The individual entries in the handbook function as starting points for anyone who wants to obtain up-to-date information about an area in the history of surgery for purposes of research or for general orientation. Written by 26 experts from 6 countries, the chapters discuss the essential topics of the field (such as anaesthesia, wound infection, instruments, specialization), specific domains areas (for example, cancer surgery, transplants, animals, war), but also innovative themes (women, popular culture, nursing, clinical trials) and make connections to other areas of historical research (such as the history of emotions, art, architecture, colonial history). Chapters 16 and 18 of this book are available open access under a CC BY 4.0 license at link.springer.com

Perspectives on Twentieth-century Pharmaceuticals

One of the most striking features of the twentieth century has been the rapid growth of the pharmaceutical industry and the large increases in the use and consumption of its products. This trend began in the first half of the century, but accelerated most sharply after the Second World War, when the creation of national systems of healthcare created mass markets for drugs. The industry then assumed a major economic, social and political significance, and became one of the most highly regulated sectors of the economy, attracting the attention of industry analysts as well as academics. This volume brings together a collection of papers exploring and reflecting upon some of the significant strands in the current studies of pharmaceuticals in the twentieth century. They touch upon many of the issues that are matters of concern and debate today, and their international and multidisciplinary approaches enrich our understanding of an object, of an industry, and of a process that are at the heart of our highly medicalized contemporary societies.

Women's Health and Medicine: Transforming Perspective

A vital collection of essays on women's health and women's health studies, edited by leaders in the field.

The Biopolitics of Breast Cancer

For nearly forty years, feminists and patient activists have argued that medicine is a deeply individualizing and depoliticizing institution. According to this view, medical practices are incidental to people's transformation from patients to patient activists. The Biopolitics of Breast Cancer turns this understanding upside down. Maren Klawiter analyzes the evolution of the breast cancer movement to show the broad social impact of how diseases come to be medically managed and publicly administered. Examining surgical procedures, adjuvant therapies, early detection campaigns, and the rise in discourses of risk, Klawiter demonstrates that these practices created a change in the social relations—if not the mortality rate—of breast cancer that initially inhibited, but later enabled, collective action. Her research focuses on the emergence and development of new forms of activism that range from grassroots patient empowerment to environmental activism and corporate-funded breast cancer awareness. The Biopolitics of Breast Cancer opens a window onto a larger set of changes currently transforming medically advanced societies and ultimately challenges our understanding of the origins, politics, and future of the breast cancer movement. Maren Klawiter holds a PhD in sociology from the University of California, Berkeley. She is currently pursuing a law degree at Yale University.

A History of Public Health

For seasoned professionals as well as students, A History of Public Health is visionary and essential reading.

Early Detection

Dispelling the common notion that American women became activists in the fight against female cancer only after the 1970s, Kirsten E. Gardner traces women's cancer education campaigns back to the early twentieth century. Focusing on breast cancer, but using research on cervical, ovarian, and uterine cancers as well, Gardner's examination of films, publications, health fairs, and archival materials shows that women have promoted early cancer detection since the inception of the American Society for the Control of Cancer in 1913. While informing female audiences about cancer risks, these early activists also laid the groundwork for the political advocacy and patient empowerment movements of recent decades. By the 1930s there were 300,000 members of the Women's Field Army working together with women's clubs. They held explicit discussions about the risks, detection, and incidence of cancer and, by mid-century, were offering advice about routine breast self-exams and annual Pap smears. The feminist health movement of the 1970s, Gardner explains, heralded a departure for female involvement in women's health activism. As before, women encouraged early detection, but they simultaneously demanded increased attention to gender and medical research, patient experiences, and causal factors. Our understanding of today's vibrant feminist health movement is enriched by Gardner's work recognizing women's roles in grassroots educational programs throughout the twentieth century and their creation of supportive networks that endure today.

Bathsheba's Breast

"... An absorbing narrative history of breast cancer told through the heroic stories of women who have confronted the disease."--Back cover.

Cancer Patients, Cancer Pathways

Eleven essays by historians and sociologists examine cancer research and treatment as everyday practice in post-war Europe and North America. These are not stories of inevitable medical progress and obstacles overcome, but of historical contingencies, cultural differences, hope, and often disappointed expectations.

Hope and Suffering

Gretchen Krueger's poignant narrative explores how doctors, families, and the public interpreted the experience of childhood cancer from the 1930s through the 1970s. Pairing the transformation of childhood cancer from killer to curable disease with the personal experiences of young patients and their families, Krueger illuminates the twin realities of hope and suffering. In this social history, each decade follows a family whose experience touches on key themes: possible causes, means and timing of detection, the search for curative treatment, the merit of alternative treatments, the decisions to pursue or halt therapy, the side effects of treatment, death and dying—and cure. Recounting the complex and sometimes contentious interactions among the families of children with cancer, medical researchers, physicians, advocacy organizations, the media, and policy makers, Krueger reveals that personal odyssey and clinical challenge are the simultaneous realities of childhood cancer. This engaging study will be of interest to historians, medical practitioners and researchers, and people whose lives have been altered by cancer.

How Cancer Crossed the Color Line

"Examining a century of twists and turns in anti-cancer campaigns, this path-breaking study shows how American cancer awareness, prevention, treatment, and survival have been refracted through the lens of race. As cancer went from being a white woman's nemesis to a "democratic disease" to a fearsome threat in communities of color, experts and the lay public interpreted these trends as lessons about women, men, and the color line. Drawing on film and fiction, on medical and epidemiological evidence, and on patients' accounts, Keith Wailoo tracks cancer's transformation--how theories of risk evolved with changes in women's roles and African-American and new immigrant migration trends, with the growth of federal cancer surveillance, economic depression and world war, and with diagnostic advances, racial protest, and contemporary health activism. A pioneering study of health communication in America, the book skillfully documents how race and gender became central motifs in the birth of cancer awareness, how patterns and perceptions changed, and how the "war on cancer" continues to be waged along the color line"--Provided by publisher.

Cancer in the Twentieth Century

This collection of essays explores efforts to control and prevent cancer in North America and Europe. On both sides of the Atlantic, control programs emerged in the early twentieth century, and most were focused on early detection and treatment. Yet, those initiatives took very different forms in different countries. Experts disagreed on how to persuade the public to go to their doctors, what should be the role of public education, how cancer services should be delivered, who should provide them, which forms of therapy were most appropriate to particular cancers, and where to draw the line between therapy and prevention. Focusing on the United States and Britain, this volume examines why these differences emerged, how they shaped national programs of control, and how control programs in the early twentieth century presaged and set the conditions for the emergence of prevention-oriented programs in the 1960s and 1970s. Featuring works by leading medical historians on subjects such as the portrayal of cancer in the movies, feminist surgeons, risk factors for breast cancer, and the emergence of clinical trials, Cancer in the Twentieth Century will engage historians of medicine and public health as well as health policy analysts, medical sociologists and anthropologists, and medical researchers and practitioners.

Breast Cancer Basics and Beyond

Having breast cancer can be devastating for the woman affected - and for her family and loved ones. It can also be confusing, because there are many variations of the disease and at least as many treatments. By bringing together comprehensive information on the subject, Breast Cancer Basics and Beyond helps women better understand their illness and participate in making decisions about all aspects of their treatment and care. In this book, award-winning medical writer Delthia Ricks tells you all about: common and rare types of breast cancer, their causes and symptoms, diagnosis, including mammography and different kinds of biopsies, treatment options, including lumpectomy, mastectomy, chemotherapy, radiation and hormone therapy, benefits and side effects of the most commonly used drugs, your risk factors, including ethnicity, genetics, hormones and diet, life after cancer, follow-up care and dealing with recurrence, reasons for hope: breast cancer research and treatments in development.

Medicine's Moving Pictures

Original essays by leading media scholars and historians of medicine that explore the rich history of health-related films. This groundbreaking book argues that health and medical media, with their unique goals and production values, constitute a rich cultural and historical archive and deserve greater scholarly attention. Original essays by leading media scholars and historians of medicine demonstrate that Americans throughout the twentieth century have learned about health, disease, medicine, and the human body from movies. Heroic doctors and patients fighting dread diseases have thrilled and moved audiences everywhere; amid changing media formats, medicine's moving pictures continue to educate, entertain, and help us understand the body's journey through life. Perennially popular, health and medical media are also complex texts reflecting many interests and constituencies including, notably, the U.S. medical profession, which has often sought, if not always successfully, to influence content, circulation, and meaning. Medicine's Moving Pictures makes clear that health and medical media representations are "more than illustrations," shows their power to shape health perceptions, practices, and policies, and identifies their social, cultural, and historical contexts. Contributors: Lisa Cartwright, Vanessa Northington Gamble, Rachel Gans-Boriskin, Valerie Hartouni, Susan E. Lederer, John Parascandola, Martin S. Pernick, Leslie J. The Voice of Breast Cancer in Medicine and Bioethics

Unlike any other volume focusing on women's health issues, this collection brings together a wealth of cross-disciplinary perspectives to bear on the intersection of breasts and medicine. Among other works on similar subject matters, the academic versatility of this volume is unparalleled. This collection can serve as a textbook in a wide range of courses including those in philosophy, women's studies, biology, psychology, literature, history, and medicine.

Toxic Exposures

Mustard gas is typically associated with the horrors of World War I battlefields and trenches, where chemical weapons were responsible for tens of thousands of deaths. Few realize, however, that mustard gas had a resurgence during the Second World War, when its uses and effects were widespread and insidious. Toxic Exposures tells the shocking story of how the United States and its allies intentionally subjected thousands of their own servicemen to poison gas as part of their preparation for chemical warfare. In addition, it reveals the racialized dimension of these mustard gas experiments, as scientists tested whether the effects of toxic exposure might vary between Asian, Hispanic, black, and white Americans. Drawing from once-classified American and Canadian government records, military reports, scientists' papers, and veterans' testimony, historian Susan L. Smith explores not only the human cost of this research, but also the environmental degradation caused by ocean dumping of unwanted mustard gas. As she assesses the poisonous legacy of these chemical warfare experiments, Smith also considers their surprising impact on the origins of chemotherapy as cancer treatment and the development of veterans' rights movements. Toxic Exposures thus traces the scars left when the interests of national security and scientific curiosity battled with medical ethics and human rights.

Governing the Female Body

A feminist and Foucauldian analysis of a variety of emerging gendered discourses.

The Emperor of All Maladies

Winner of the Pulitzer Prize and a documentary from Ken Burns on PBS, this New York Times bestseller is "an extraordinary achievement" (The New Yorker)—a magnificent, profoundly humane "biography" of cancer—from its first documented appearances thousands of years ago through the epic battles in the twentieth century to cure, control, and conquer it to a radical new understanding of its essence. Now includes an excerpt from Siddhartha Mukherjee's new book Song of the Cell! Physician, researcher, and award-winning science writer, Siddhartha Mukherjee examines cancer with a cellular biologist's precision, a historian's perspective, and a biographer's passion. The result is an astonishingly lucid and eloquent chronicle of a disease humans have lived with—and perished from—for more than five thousand years. The story of cancer is a story of human ingenuity, resilience, and perseverance, but also of hubris, paternalism, and misperception. Mukherjee recounts centuries of discoveries, setbacks, victories, and deaths, told through the eyes of his predecessors and peers, training their wits against an infinitely resourceful adversary that, just three decades ago, was thought to be easily vanquished in an all-out “war against cancer.” The book reads like a literary thriller with cancer as the protagonist. Riveting, urgent, and surprising, The Emperor of All Maladies provides a fascinating glimpse into the future of cancer treatments. It is an illuminating book that provides hope and clarity to those seeking to demystify cancer.

Health Care in America

A comprehensive history of sickness, health, and medicine in America from Colonial times to the present. In Health Care in America, historian John C. Burnham describes changes over four centuries of medicine and public health in America. Beginning with seventeenth-century concerns over personal and neighborhood illnesses, Burnham concludes with the arrival of a new epoch in American medicine and health care at the turn of the twenty-first century. From the 1600s through the 1990s, Americans turned to a variety of healers, practices, and institutions in their efforts to prevent and survive epidemics of smallpox, yellow fever, cholera, influenza, polio, and AIDS. Health care workers in all periods attended births and deaths and cared for people who had injuries, disabilities, and chronic diseases. Drawing on primary sources, classic scholarship, and a vast body of recent literature in the history of medicine and public health, Burnham finds that traditional healing, care, and medicine dominated the United States until the late nineteenth century, when antiseptic/aseptic surgery and germ theory initiated an intellectual, social, and technical transformation. He divides the age of modern medicine into several eras: physiological medicine (1910s–1930s), antibiotics (1930s–1950s), technology (1950s–1960s), environmental medicine (1970s–1980s), and, beginning around 1990, genetic medicine. The cumulating developments in each era led to today's radically altered doctor-patient relationship and the insistent questions that swirl around the financial cost of health care. Burnham's sweeping narrative makes sense of medical practice, medical research, and human frailties and foibles, opening the door to a new understanding of our current concerns.

Rest Uneasy

Tracing the Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS) diagnosis from its mid-century origins through the late 1900s, Rest Uneasy investigates the processes by which SIDS became both a discrete medical enigma and a source of social anxiety construed differently over time and according to varying perspectives. American medicine reinterpreted and reconceived of the problem of sudden infant death multiple times over the course of the twentieth century. Its various approaches linked sudden infant deaths to all kinds of different causes—biological, anatomical, environmental, and social. In the context of a nation increasingly skeptical, yet increasingly expectant, of medicine, Americans struggled to cope with the paradoxes of sudden infant death; they worked to admit their powerlessness to prevent SIDS even while they tried to overcome it. Brittany Cowgill chronicles and assesses Americans' fraught but consequential efforts to explain and conquer SIDS, illuminating how and why SIDS has continued to cast a shadow over doctors and parents.

Deliver Me from Pain

As American women make decisions about anesthesia today, Deliver Me from Pain offers them insight into how women made this choice in the past and why each generation of mothers has made dramatically different decisions.

The Routledge History of Disease

The Routledge History of Disease draws on innovative scholarship in the history of medicine to explore the challenges involved in writing about health and disease throughout the past and across the globe, presenting a varied range of case studies and perspectives on the patterns, technologies and narratives of disease that can be identified in the past and that continue to influence our present. Organized thematically, chapters examine particular forms and conceptualizations of disease, covering subjects from leprosy in medieval Europe and cancer screening practices in twentieth-century USA to the ayurvedic tradition in ancient India and the pioneering studies of mental illness that took place in nineteenth-century Paris, as well as discussing the various sources and methods that can be used to understand the social and cultural contexts of disease. Scientific Characters chronicles the contests over character, knowledge, trust, and truth in a politically charged scientific controversy that erupted after a 1994 Chicago Tribune headline: "Fraud in Breast Cancer Research: Doctor Lied on Data for Decade." Moving back and forth between news coverage, medical journals, letters to the editor, and oncology pamphlets, Lisa Keränen draws insights from rhetoric, literary studies, sociology, and science studies to analyze the roles of character in shaping the outcomes of the "Datagate" controversy.

Scientific Characters

This latest volume brings the project up to date, with entries on almost 500 women whose death dates fall between 1976 and 1999. You will find here stars of the golden ages of radio, film, dance, and television; scientists and scholars; civil rights activists and religious leaders; Native American craftspeople and world-renowned artists. For each subject, the volume offers a biographical essay by a distinguished authority that integrates the woman's personal life with her professional achievements set in the context of larger historical developments.

Notable American Women

Winner, 2011 Best Book in the History of Medicine, European Association for the History of Medicine and Health Modern scientific tools can identify a genetic predisposition to cancer before any disease is detectable. Some women will never develop breast or ovarian cancer, but they nevertheless must decide, as a result of genetic testing, whether to have their breasts and ovaries removed to avoid the possibility of disease. The striking contrast between the sophistication of diagnosis and the crudeness of preventive surgery forms the basis of historian Ilana Löwy's important study. Löwy traces the history of prophylactic amputations through a century of preventive treatment and back to a long tradition of surgical management of gynecological problems. In the early twentieth century, surgeons came to believe that removing precancerous lesions—a term difficult to define even today—averted the danger of malignancy. This practice, Löwy finds, later led to surgical interventions for women with a hereditary predisposition to cancer but no detectable disease. Richly detailed stories of patients and surgeons in the United States, France, and the United Kingdom allow Löwy to compare the evolution of medical thought and practice—and personal choice—in these different cultures. Preventive Strikes aims to improve our understanding of professional, social, and cultural responses to cancer in the twenty-first century and to inform our reflections about how values are incorporated into routine medical practices. The Proceedings of the Calgary History of Medicine Days can be seen as a Series in the History of Medicine and Health Care that publishes the work of young and emerging researchers in the field, hence providing a unique publishing format. The annual Calgary History of Medicine Days Conference, established in 1991, brings together undergraduate and early graduate students from across Canada, the United States, the United Kingdom and Europe to give paper and poster presentations on a wide variety of topics from the history of medicine and health care from an interdisciplinary perspective. The History of Medicine Days offers an annual platform for discussions and exchanges between participants over recent research findings, methodological perspectives, or work-in-progress descriptions of ongoing ing historiographical projects. This book brings together a number of reviewed and edited conference papers, comprising topics from the history of health care systems, medical sciences, psychiatry and neuroscience, public health, and historical issues of gender in medicine. Furthermore, it includes the paper given by the conference's internationally-renowned keynote speaker, Dr. Theodore M. Brown, Professor of History and Medical Humanities and Charles E. & Dale L. Phelps Professor of Public Health and Policy, University of Rochester, New York. It also comprises all of the abstracts of the conference for documentation purposes and is well illustrated with diagrams and images pertaining to the history of medicine.

Cancer is a transnational condition involving the unprecedented flow of health information, technologies, and people across national borders. Such movement raises questions about the nature of therapeutic citizenship, how and where structurally vulnerable populations obtain care, and the political geography of blame associated with this disease. This volume brings together cutting-edge anthropological research carried out across North and South America, Europe, Africa and Asia, representing low-, middle- and high-resource countries with a diversity of national health care systems. Contributors ethnographically map the varied nature of cancer experiences and articulate the multiplicity of meanings that survivorship, risk, charity and care entail. They explore institutional frameworks shaping local responses to cancer and underlying political forces and structural variables that frame individual experiences. Of particular concern is the need to interrogate underlying assumptions of research designs that may lead to the naturalizing of hidden agendas or intentions. Running throughout the chapters, moreover, are considerations of moral and ethical issues related to cancer treatment and research. Thematic emphases include the importance of local biologies in the framing of cancer diagnosis and treatment protocols, uncertainty and ambiguity in definitions of biosociality, shifting definitions of patienthood, and the sociality of care and support. Partners in Wonder revolutionizes our knowledge of women and early science fiction. Contrary to accepted interpretations, women fans and writers were a welcome and influential part of pulp science fiction from the birth of the genre. Davin finds that at least 203 female authors, under their own female names, published over a thousand stories in science fiction magazines between 1926 and 1965. This work explores the distinctly different form of science fiction that females produced—one that was both more utopian and more empathetic than that of their male counterparts. Partners in Wonder presents, for the first time, a complete bibliography of every story published by women writers in science fiction magazines from 1926 to 1965 and brief biographies on 133 of these women writers. It is thus the most comprehensive source of information on early women science fiction writers yet available and of great importance to scholars of women's studies, popular culture, and English literature as well as science fiction.

Partners in Wonder

This work provides a thought-provoking account of how medical treatments can be tested with unbiased or 'fair' trials and explains how patients can work with doctors to achieve this vital goal. It spans the gamut of therapy from mastectomy to thalidomide and explores a vast range of case studies.

Erwin H. Ackerknecht's A Short History of Medicine is a concise narrative, long appreciated by students in the history of medicine, medical students, historians, and medical professionals as well as all those seeking to understand the history of medicine. Covering the broad sweep of discoveries from parasitic worms to bacilli and x-rays, and highlighting physicians and scientists from Hippocrates and Galen to Pasteur, Koch, and Roentgen, Ackerknecht narrates Western and Eastern civilization's work at identifying and curing disease. He follows these discoveries from the library to the bedside, hospital, and laboratory, illuminating how basic biological sciences interacted with clinical practice over time. But his story is more than one of laudable scientific and therapeutic achievement. Ackerknecht also points toward the social, ecological, economic, and political conditions that shape the incidence of disease. Improvements in health, Ackerknecht argues, depend on more than laboratory knowledge: they also require that we improve the lives of ordinary men and women by altering social conditions such as poverty and hunger. This revised and expanded edition includes a new foreword and concluding biographical essay by Charles E. Rosenberg, Ackerknecht's former student and a distinguished historian of medicine. A new bibliographic essay by Lisa Haushofer explores recent scholarship in the history of medicine. -- Charles E. Rosenberg, Harvard University, author of Our Present Complaint: American Medicine, Then and Now

A Short History of Medicine

What are the conditions that foster true novelty and allow visionaries to set their eyes on unknown horizons? What have been the challenges that have spawned new innovations, and how have they shaped modern biology? In Dreamers, Visionaries, and Revolutionaries in the Life Sciences, editors Oren Harman and Michael R. Dietrich explore these questions through the lives of eighteen exemplary biologists who had grand and often radical ideas that went far beyond the run-of-the-mill science of their peers. From the Frenchman Jean-Baptiste Lamarck, who coined the word "biology" in the early nineteenth century, to the American James Lovelock, for whom the Earth is a living, breathing organism, these dreamers innovated in ways that forced their contemporaries to reexamine comfortable truths. With this collection readers will follow Jane Goodall into the hidden world of apes in African jungles and Francis Crick as he attacks the problem of consciousness. Join Mary Lasker on her campaign to conquer cancer and follow geneticist George Church as he dreams of bringing back woolly mammoths and Neanderthals. In these lives and the many others featured in these pages, we discover visions that were sometimes fantastical, quixotic, and even threatening and destabilizing, but always a challenge to the status quo.

Dreamers, Visionaries, and Revolutionaries in the Life Sciences

In the 1960s University of Cincinnati radiologist Eugene Saenger infamously conducted human experiments on patients with advanced cancer to examine how total body radiation could treat the disease. But, under contract with the Department of Defense, Saenger also used those same patients as proxies for soldiers to answer questions about combat effectiveness on a nuclear battlefield. Using the Saenger case as a means to reconsider cold war medical trials, Contested Medicine examines the inherent tensions at the heart of clinical studies of the time. Emphasizing the deeply intertwined and mutually supportive relationship between cancer therapy with radiation and military medicine, Gerald Kutcher explores post-World War II cancer trials, the efforts of the government to manage clinical ethics, and the important role of military investigations in the development of an effective treatment for childhood leukemia. Whereas most histories of human experimentation judge research such as Saenger's against idealized practices, Contested Medicine eschews such an approach and considers why Saenger's peers and later critics had so much difficulty reaching an unambiguous ethical assessment. Kutcher's engaging investigation offers an approach to clinical ethics and research imperatives that lays bare many of the conflicts and tensions of the postwar period.
