

Law In The Scientific Era The Theory Of Dynamic Positivism

#Dynamic Positivism #Legal Theory #Scientific Era Law #Jurisprudence #Philosophy of Law

Delve into the core tenets of Dynamic Positivism, a pivotal legal theory emerging from the scientific era. This concept critically examines the nature of law in a world increasingly shaped by scientific understanding, offering a contemporary perspective on jurisprudence and its philosophical underpinnings. Discover how this theory adapts traditional positivism to modern challenges.

Matter/ Mass is an experience in consciousness/ awareness

Experiences & concepts are activities in consciousness, occur in consciousness, are known in consciousness and are modifications of consciousness.

Energy is to ability to do work. It is the same as matter. As kinetic energy or motion, potential energy or position & rest mass ($e=mc^2$) is also an experience.

Neither matter nor energy can be created or destroyed

Since their source as concept & experience is consciousness, consciousness cannot be created or destroyed

Consciousness eternally modifies itself as experience in the form of concepts & matter/energy

The ground state of all modified states is pure consciousness

Beyond all states, at source, Reality is Pure Consciousness -- Infinite possibilities

10. When we stop identifying with transient modified states, we know ourselves as Pure/ Consciousness, Infinite Possibilities
