The Trip of Le Horla

There was a nice little square basket to attach to the bottom of the balloon to carry passengers. Many people gathered to witness the take off of Le Horla.

The people were telling their opinions about the balloon and the balloon ride.

There were 6 men who were ready to travel in the balloon journey.

Guy de Maupassant, Captain Jovis, * Lieutenant Mallet *Etirine Beer * Paul Bessand *Patrice Eyries. But the basket with 6 men was too heavy for the balloon and considering the long trip to be taken, Patrice Eyries has to get out.

So there were 5 passengers in the balloon journey.

Guy de Maupassant, Captain Jovis, Lieutenant Mallet, Etirine Beer, Paul Bessand were the passengers

Lieutenant Mallet was on the aerial net between the basket and the balloon.

He was posted there as the officer on watch from there he could watch the movement of Le Horla across the sky.

They carried food, barometer, siren, trumpets, overcoats, raincoats, ballest etc.

Ballast is a substance such as sand, stone or metal that is carried in ships or large balloons to help them remain steady.

The balloon was tied to the ground with a rope.

When that rope was cut, the balloon took off.

Le Horla flew to the skyward.

They started their journey from Belgian frontier. La Villette in Paris.

Is Society Dead? Conceptual Fruit

To Sleep is a beautiful poem written by the famous poet William Wordsworth.

As the title suggests the main theme of the poem is sleep.

The poem tells the importance of sleep in our life.

Sleep is essential to keep both mental and physical fitness in our life.

The poet couldn't sleep for the last three days.

He prays and wishes that sleep should come to him that night.

He says 'sleep is the mother of all fresh thoughts and good health

He also says 'sleep is the blessed barrier between day and day.

The poem provides us with some of the finest sights, sounds and movements of nature.

The poet thinks of various things while he lies in bed without getting any sleep.

These are a flock of sheep slowly passing one after another the sound of rain and bees, fall of rivers, wind, sea, smooth fields, waterfalls and pure sky.

Then he hears the melodies of small birds from his orchard.
 Then he can also hear the melancholy cry of the cuckoo.
 These are the beautiful sights and sounds from nature
 They bring imagination in our mind.
 In the first two stanzas the poet describes the beautiful sights and sounds of nature.
 The poet sadly tells that even though he imagines these to get a sound sleep, he is unable to sleep.
 The poet knows that the time is moving quickly and soon it will be morning
 In the last two stanzas the poet describes the condition without sleep and the value of sleep in our life.
 He prays and wishes that sleep should come with its blessing
 The poet tells the reason why he desires to have a sound sleep
 Sleep brings fresh thoughts and joyful health
 He calls sleep as a "blessed barrier" between day and night
 To Sleep is a sonnet.
 A sonnet is a poem of fourteen lines.
 What is the title of the poem?
 What is the name of the poet?
 What is the theme of the poem?
 What does the poem tell?
 How many days couldn't the poet sleep?
 Why couldn't the poet sleep for three nights?
 What was the prayer of the poet?
 What are the various sounds that the poet hears while lying in bed?
 What is the value of sleep in our life?
