Making a High-Power Electric Scooter - Making a High-Power Electric Scooter by Maciej Nowak Projects 18,873,920 views 3 years ago 10 minutes, 16 seconds - 1000W chain drive scooter. Brush motor, Li-ion battery. A quite simple construction, but the whole took me about 2 weeks of work.

Intro

Next I welded 2 crossbars to strengthen the frame and the rear wheel hooks

The scooter will be driven by a brush motor through a chain

I made the motor holder from a piece of scrap

The oblong holes allows the motor to move and the chain tension

The front wheel from the old scooter was ok, I just refreshed it

For the rear, I used the wheel from the children's bike because of the drive sprocket

I changed the sprocket to a much larger one

To control the motor, I used an ordinary throttle, similar to motorcycles

Time to make a battery. I used Sanyo li-ion cells with a capacity of 3500mAh

The battery has 36V voltage and 10.5Ah capacity

The motor will be powered by a controller with a maximum power of 1000W

I made the bottom cover of stainless steel
