Después del fin del arte

En alguno de sus textos, Arthur Danto ya había situado el fin del arte exactamente en los años sesenta. Sin embargo, y a pesar de esta afirmación radical, ha continuado efectuando una crítica radical de la naturaleza del arte en nuestro tiempo. Después del fin del arte presenta la primera reformulación a gran escala de esa intuición de Danto y muestra cómo, tras el eclipse del expresionismo abstracto, el arte se ha desviado irrevocablemente del curso narrativo que Vassari definió para él en el Renacimiento, de modo que lo que debe hacerse es señalar el camino hacia un nuevo tipo de crítica que resulte capaz de ayudarnos a entender el arte en esta era posthistórica: un tiempo en el que, por ejemplo, las teorías tradicionales no pueden explicar la diferencia entre una obra de Andy Warhol y el producto comercial en el que se inspira. Se trata, pues, de plasmar una serie de consideraciones, tan rigurosas como amenas, sobre los más relevantes temas estéticos y filosóficos con respecto al arte que, a su vez, reflejan a la perfección el pensamiento de uno de los observadores más atentos de la escena estética actual. En este libro, pues, se reúnen, entre otras muchas cosas, el pop, el B+arte del puebloB; , el futuro de los museos y la contribución teórica de un hombre como Clement Greenberg -que hace ya mucho tiempo explicó el sentido de la modernidad sobre una base crítica fundamentada en la estética- para esbozar una nueva historia del arte que va desde la tradición mimética (la idea de que el arte es una fiel representación de la realidad) hasta los manifiestos de la época moderna (en los que el arte se define como la filosofía del artista). La conclusión es que ya no es posible aplicar las nociones tradicionales de la estética al arte contemporáneo, sino que hay que centrarse

Después Del Fin Del Arte

Después del fin del arte recoge las "Mellone Lectures in the Fine Arts" pronunciadas por Arthur C. Danto en el año 1995. En alguno de sus textos, Arthur Danto ya había situado el fin del arte exactamente en los años sesenta. Sin embargo, y a pesar de esta afirmación radical, ha continuado efectuando una crítica radical de la naturaleza del arte en nuestro tiempo. Después del fin del arte presenta la primera reformulación a gran escala de esa intuición de Danto y muestra cómo, tras el eclipse del expresionismo abstracto, el arte se ha desviado irrevocablemente del curso narrativo que Vassari definió para él en el Renacimiento, de modo que lo que debe hacerse es señalar el camino hacia un nuevo tipo de crítica que resulte capaz de ayudarnos a entender el arte en esta era posthistórica: un tiempo en el que, por ejemplo, las teorías tradicionales no pueden explicar la diferencia entre una obra de Andy Warhol y el producto comercial en el que se inspira. Se trata, pues, de plasmar una serie de consideraciones, tan rigurosas como amenas, sobre los más relevantes temas estéticos y filosóficos con respecto al arte que, a su vez, reflejan a la perfección el pensamiento de uno de los observadores más atentos de la escena estética actual. En este libro, pues, se reúnen, entre otras muchas cosas, el pop, el «arte del pueblo», el futuro de los museos y la contribución teórica de un hombre como Clement Greenberg que hace ya mucho tiempo explicó el sentido de la modernidad sobre una base crítica fundamentada en la estética para esbozar una nueva historia del arte que va desde la tradición mimética (la idea de que el arte es una fiel representación de la realidad) hasta los manifiestos de la época moderna (en los que el arte se define como la filosofía del artista). La conclusión es que ya no es posible aplicar las nociones tradicionales de la estética al arte contemporáneo, sino que hay que centrarse en una filosofía de la crítica de arte que pueda arrojar luz con la que quizá sea la característica más sorprendente del arte contemporáneo: que todo es posible.

Después del fin del arte

Danto propone una definición de la obra de arte como "símbolo encarnado" que pretende dar cuenta del carácter unitario de la historia del arte desde sus comienzos hasta nuestros días, evitando considerar el argumento vanguardista clásico, de carácter estético y formal, como el único capaz de dar sentido a la producción artística. Según Danto, nos encontramos en una época posthistórica, resultado de la evolución del arte hasta su autoconocimiento como actividad conceptual, más allá del modo formal o estético de representación, donde habría estado encastillado por las teorías filosóficas hasta el momento. Esta compilación de artículos aborda la crítica de Danto a lo estético como definitorio de lo artístico, central en su concepción global del arte, de su producción, interpretación y crítica, y de su carácter histórico y su relevancia para la vida humana. Diversos autores, Danto entre ellos, se aprestan a buscar un nuevo lugar para lo estético en nuestra comprensión de lo artístico, una formulación diferente de conceptos que siguen siendo valiosos, como estilo, procedimiento, crítica o experiencia, y una aproximación diferente a la relación entre arte y naturaleza o arte e historia.

Después del fin del arte

Examen de algunas claves procedentes del debate surgido en la estética romántica e idealista en torno al concepto de ironía, que ha continuado hasta la actualidad. Se presenta un entramado complejo de líneas de conexión entre la estética romántica y el arte moderno, mostrando las interferencias entre planteamientos, autores, teorías, filósofos o artistas, que imposibilitan cualquier análisis puro de la estética y el arte actuales.

Estética después del fin del arte

La Restauración de arte es una disciplina joven desarrollada a partir de teorías que suelen poner el foco en determinado "tipo" de prácticas según el relato del arte. Este libro propone un enfoque desde la filosofía basado en la sustancia de la obra de arte, como objeto de Restauración. Este punto de vista permite analizar los problemas de tipificación lógica que surgen de las "teorías" así como posibles soluciones. En Después del fin de la Restauración se define la Restauración como una disciplina inmanente al arte, su objeto. En este contexto se hace necesaria una re-definición del arte en términos de un relato diferente, dado por la sustancia de la obra de arte y no por su cronología histórica; definición que abarca hasta la proclamación del fin del arte y determina el fin de la Restauración; ambos fines simbólicos, conceptuales, operativos. La sustancia de la obra de arte, no es un todo homogéneo; tiene tanto de físico, como de metafísico y la obra de arte puede ser tratada como un «objeto», una «cosa», de carácter sistémico. Esto que es menos relevante para el relato del arte, sí lo es para el relato de la Restauración. ¿De qué hablamos cuando hablamos de arte? ¿De qué hablamos cuando hablamos de Restauración? ¿De qué hablamos cuando hablamos de autenticidad, originalidad, valor? ¿Cuál es la relación entre Restauración, autenticidad, originalidad y valor del arte? ¿Es necesario hablar de una filosofía de la Restauración y no de una teoría de la Restauración? ¿Es conveniente este enfoque sistémico, holístico? ¿Por qué? Estas son solo algunas de las preguntas claves de esta primera parte.

La ironía estética. Estética romántica y arte moderno

En momentos en que las ciencias sociales hallan difícil explicar los logros y los fracasos de la globalización, cuando el arco que va de la caída de las Torres Gemelas al derrumbe del mundo de las finanzas ha hecho del inicio de este siglo el gran territorio de la incertidumbre, una nueva mirada sobre el arte puede ayudar a comprender las grandes encrucijadas de la sociedad. ¿Qué dicen sobre esta época los desplazamientos de las prácticas artísticas basadas en objetos a prácticas basadas en contextos, hasta llegar a insertar las obras en los medios de comunicación, los espacios urbanos, las redes digitales y las formas de participación social?

Filosofía de la Restauración

The classic and provocative account of how art changed irrevocably with pop art and why traditional aesthetics can't make sense of contemporary art. A classic of art criticism and philosophy, After the End of Art continues to generate heated debate for its radical and famous assertion that art ended in the 1960s. Arthur Danto, a philosopher who was also one of the leading art critics of his time, argues that traditional notions of aesthetics no longer apply to contemporary art and that we need a philosophy of art criticism that can deal with perhaps the most perplexing feature of current art: that everything is possible. An insightful and entertaining exploration of art's most important aesthetic and philosophical issues conducted by an acute observer of contemporary art, After the End of Art argues that, with the eclipse of abstract expressionism, art deviated irrevocably from the narrative course that Vasari helped define for it in the Renaissance. Moreover, Danto makes the case for a new type of criticism that can help us understand art in a posthistorical age where, for example, an artist can produce a work in the style of Rembrandt to create a visual pun, and where traditional theories cannot explain the difference between Andy Warhol's Brillo Box and the product found in the grocery store. After the End of Art addresses art history, pop art, "people's art," the future role of museums, and the critical contributions of Clement Greenberg, whose aesthetics-based criticism helped a previous generation make sense of modernism. Tracing art history from a mimetic tradition (the idea that art was a progressively more adequate representation of reality) through the modern era of manifestos (when art was defined by the artist's philosophy), Danto shows that it wasn't until the invention of pop art that the historical understanding of the means and ends of art was nullified. Even modernist art, which tried to break with the past by questioning the ways in which art was produced, hinged on a narrative.

La sociedad sin relato

Essays by Fernando Francés and Jürgen Schilling.

After the End of Art

En El fin del arte Donald Kuspit sostiene que el arte ha llegado a su término porque ha perdido su carga estética. El arte ha sido sustituido por el «postarte», un término inventado por Alan Kaprow como una nueva categoría visual que eleva lo banal por encima de lo enigmático, lo escatológico por encima de lo sagrado, la inteligencia por encima de la creatividad. Remontando la desaparición de la experiencia estética hasta las obras y la teoría de Marcel Duchamp y Barnett Newman, Kuspit sostiene que la devaluación es inseparable del carácter entrópico del arte moderno y que el antiestético arte posmoderno constituye su fase final. A diferencia del primero, que expresaba el inconsciente humano universal, este último ha degenerado en una expresión de estrechos intereses ideológicos. Como reacción a la vacuidad y el estancamiento del postarte, Kuspit señala el futuro estético y humano que traen los Nuevos Viejos Maestros. Amplio e incisivo repaso del desarrollo del arte a lo largo del siglo XX, El fin del arte señala a las artes visuales el camino hacia el futuro.

"Desartización" (Entkunstung), es el término acuñado por T.W. Adorno a fines de los años 50 para referirse al proceso dialéctico por el que el arte va perdiendo progresivamente sus cualidades y rasgos tradicionales -la autonomía que mantuvo desde Diderot a Kant, Schiller y Hegel- para convertirse en otra cosa: en producto de la industria cultural, en víctima de las fuerzas ideológicas que dominan la sociedad administrada y en mera mercancía, es decir, en un producto cosificado que deja de ser un modo esencial de pensar el mundo. El autor entiende el "arte sin fin" como arte sin finalidad, objeto o función, en oposición a las doctrinas ilustradas y románticas, e intenta dar una explicación de la lógica conceptual que rige su planteamiento y su conexión con la evolución cultural.

Exit

El autor toma como hilo conductor el trabajo de dos de los artistas más relevantes del siglo XX: Marcel Duchamp y Joseph Beuys, y los pone en relación con el pensamiento de dos de los filósofos clave del mismo periodo: Martin Heidegger y Theodor W. Adorno. De este modo, Cereceda plantea algunos de los problemas fundamentales del arte contemporáneo en su relación con las distintas concepciones de la historia, la verdad, la belleza, los problemas de la creación y la recepción del arte. (Fuente: CENDEAC).

El fin del arte

Danto responde a la pregunta "¿Cuándo se produce el arte?" proponiendo la metáfora del lugar común y su paradójica aplicación al arte: "¿por qué los objetos más banales quedan transfigurados al ser convertidos en obras de arte? ; ¿en qué se diferencian a pesar de ser materialmente indiscernibles? ; ¿qué estrategia utiliza el arte de hoy para lograr estos fines?" Para responder a estas cuestiones, el autor relativiza el juicio subjetivo del gusto y nos invita a participar en los juegos de lenguaje y los ámbitos institucionales propios del arte moderno.

Humanidades para un siglo incierto

Son muchos los historiadores, filósofos y estudiosos del arte que afirman que el arte ha muerto. Arthur Danto en su obra EL FINAL DEL ARTE también hace la misma aseveración. Alrededor de esta afirmación han surgido muchas interpretaciones todas tratando de reforzar la idea de un supuesto fallecimiento de aquello que por siglos deslumbró al mundo como modelo de belleza y pericia creativa. Danto define los movimientos del arte contemporáneo como la expresión de un cadáver totalmente exánime. EL ARTE HA MUERTO, LARGA VIDA AL ARTE es una investigación que intenta descubrir, profundizar y resolver un cúmulo de incógnitas que surgen de esta afirmación: ¿EL FIN DE LA MUERTE DEL ARTE? ¿De verdad el arte está muerto? ¿Quién lo mató? ¿Cómo murió? ¿De qué murió? ¿Cuándo murió? ¿De verdad ha muerto o todavía agoniza? Los contemporáneos atestiguan que está muerto, los clásicos afirman que aún vive, ¿cuál es la verdad? Y... ¿Si el arte está muerto, entonces, que es aquello que se produce actualmente y se vende en las galerías con el nombre de arte? Y... ¿Si contra todos los pronósticos el arte contemporáneo si fuera arte? ¿Qué pasó en verdad? ¿Murió o no murió? ¿Lo mataron? Y si lo mataron hay que investigar ¿quién lo mató? ¿Está vivo? Si está vivo hay que buscar donde se encuentra. Así dijo Arthur Danto en su obra EL FINAL DEL ARTE: "El arte ha muerto. Sus movimientos actuales no reflejan la menor vitalidad; ni siquiera muestran las agónicas convulsiones que preceden a la muerte; no son más que las mecánicas acciones reflejas de un cadáver sometido a una fuerza galvánica." Arthur Danto, "El final del arte," en El Paseante, 1995, núm. 22-23. ¿Galvánica? ¡Suenan como a monstruo de Frankenstein! Los más osados y quizás los más culpables del crimen que se investiga son:

Desartización

Este libro es parte de El arte del arte. Como el resto del 'arte del arte', tampoco tiene principio ni fin. A diferencia del resto del 'arte del arte' es una especie de 'juego del juego'. Como en cualquier juego, solo juegan al juego los que conocen sus reglas. Lea o sáltese las páginas que considere. Si no hay más imágenes es por respetar los derechos de autor. Puede leer en vacaciones o en días de trabajo, cualquiera día es bueno o no; será igual de divertido o aburrido. Las páginas no están numeradas. Le deseo, como siempre, mucha suerte; hay muchos modos de ganar o perder. Lo escrito aquí no es un manual [sino un conjunto fragmentado de modos que quizá le ayuden a encontrar alguno]. No son los principios de Groucho Marx pero, si no le gusta, tengo otros.

Historia y gráfica

Leading art critic and philosopher Arthur Danto here explains how the anti-beauty revolution was hatched, and how the modernist avant-garde dislodged beauty from its throne. Danto argues not only that the modernists were right to deny that beauty is vital to art, but also that beauty is essential to human life and need not always be excluded from art.

Problemas del arte contemporáneo@

La autora analiza cuál es la percepción social del arte y del artista contemporáneo. El objetivo es determinar si ésta influye en el consumo de las producciones artísticas actuales bajo la sospecha de que existe actualmente un distanciamiento entre público y artistas. Para ello, adoptando una metodología cualitativa, se plantea un estudio de caso de carácter instrumental. Una vez analizados los datos publicados sobre el consumo cultural del Ministerio de Cultura, se pretende conocer, por una parte, la actitud de la sociedad actual frente al arte y al artista contemporáneo mediante la realización de encuestas; y por otra, la visión de los profesionales del sistema del arte acerca de la problemática del consumo de las actuales producciones artísticas, mediante la realización de entrevistas. El marco conceptual busca conocer el origen histórico de la actual relación entre arte, artistas y sociedad, con especial atención al siglo XX, momento crítico de redefinición del arte y de ruptura dramática entre público y artistas, teorizado por autores como Ortega y Gasset, Danto, o Mayratta. También se exponen las principales aportaciones de Benjamin, Dorfles, García Canclini o Bourdieu, autor de importante referencia en este trabajo, en las que se exploran las nuevas relaciones de consumo cultural entre el público y las artes plásticas surgidas en el siglo XX. Finalmente se hace una breve evolución histórica del coleccionismo en nuestro país, presentando también la situación actual del mercado del arte en España. Aunque hay estudios sobre el consumo cultural de las artes plásticas, no existen trabajos que investiguen la problemática a partir de las opiniones de los principales implicados. Esta investigación pretende suplir el vacío existente exponiendo y confrontando la visión de las dos partes afectadas: la del público y la del propio sistema del arte, para diagnosticar así la naturaleza de las posibles barreras existentes, primer paso necesario para trabajar en la ampliación del público del arte contemporáneo.

"The first exhibition to offer a critical assessment of the artistic experimentation that took place in Mexico during the last three decades of the twentieth century. The exhibition carefully analyzes the origins and emergence of techniques, strategies, and modes of operation at a particularly significant moment of Mexican history, beginning with the 1968 Student Movement, until the Zapatista uprising in the State of Chiapas. The show includes work by a wide range of artists, including Francis Alys, Vicente Rojo, Jimmie Durham, Helen Escobedo, Julio Galán, Felipe Ehrenberg, José Bedia, Guillermo Gómez-Peña, Francisco Toledo, Carlos Amorales, Melanie Smith, and Alejandro Jodorowsky, among many others. The edition is illustrated with 612 full-color plates of the art produced during these last three decades of the twentieth century reflect the social, political and technical developments in Mexico and ranged from painting and photography to poster design, installation, performance, experimental theatre, super-8 cinema, video, music, poetry and popular culture like the films and ephemeral actions of 'Panic' by Alejandro Jodorowsky, Pedro Friedeberg's pop art, the conceptual art, infrarealist and urban independent photography, artists books, the development of contemporary political photography, the participation of Mexican artists in Fluxus in the seventies and the contribution of Ulises Carrión to the international artist book movement and popular rock music, the pictorial battles of the eighties and the emergence of a variant of neo-conceptual art in 1990. The exhibition is curated by Olivier Debrouse, Pilar García de Germeño, Cuauhtémoc Medina, Álvaro Vázquez Mantecón"--Provided by vendor.

The lead essay by Arthur Danto "addresses the possibility that art as it has been enshrined in the museums, galleries, and other canonizing institutions of modern culture has reached an end, that it has nothing more to do or say." The other essays in the book are reactions to the lead essay.

Updated and revised, the Second Edition of Danto and His Critics presents a series of essays by leading Danto scholars who offer their critical assessment of the influential works and ideas of Arthur

C. Danto, the Johnsonian Professor Emeritus in the Department of Philosophy at Columbia University and long-time art critic for The Nation. Reflects Danto's revisions in his theory of art, reworking his views in ways that have not been systematically addressed elsewhere. Features essays that critically assess the changes in Danto's thoughts and locate Danto's revised theory in the larger context of his work and of aesthetics generally. Speaks in original ways to the relation of Danto's philosophy of art to his theory of mind. Connects and integrates Danto's ideas on the nature of knowledge, action, aesthetics, history, and mind, as well as his provocative thoughts on the philosophy of art for the reader.

The edition is probably the more comprehensive book on Alberto Greco (b. Argentina 1931-1965) that has been published to date, comprising texts from different authors, letters, photographs, unpublished documents and a series of drawings made by artist Alberto Passolini, that recreate Greco's ephemeral artworks of which they are no records. Although in an attempt to clarify some aspects of his life, through the contribution of new documentation, we did not intend to distinguish to the extreme reality from fiction, myth from reality, but more precisely - to respect the rules of the game, we tried to "stretch" the legend and include more information about some episodes from imaginative strategies. We understand that, for certain, the interpretations proposed by the drawings of Passolini provide a new perspective that enriches what is so far known." (HKB Translation) --Page 22.

This revised edition features ten new articles and is fully updated to take account of new critical approaches to post-war American art.

Estetica de la incertidumbre

At the height of the controversy over government funding for "obscene" works of art, internationally renowned conceptual artist Joseph Kosuth created "The Brooklyn Museum Collection: The Play of the Unmentionable," an exhibit about censorship at The Brooklyn Museum. His installation, one of the best-attended, most widely reviewed (and most controversial) of the year, juxtaposed works of art from throughout history that had been deemed politically, religiously, or sexually objectionable, with statements about the role of art in society by writers as diverse as Oscar Wilde, Adolf Hitler, and Jean-Jacques Rousseau. Using artworks drawn from the permanent collection of The Brooklyn Museum, "The Play of the Unmentionable" showed graphically how public and institutional ideas of obscenity and artistic value have changed throughout history - and continue to change today. This handsome book documents the exhibit with twenty-one pages of color and more than a hundred duotone photographs, and is designed to recapture the installation's juxtapositions of artworks and texts. In a major essay, art historian David Freedburg offers a detailed analysis of the installation, setting it in both the context of America's "culture wars" of the late 1980s, and of Kosuth's career. The Brooklyn Museum's director, Robert Buck, and its creator of contemporary art, Charlotta Kotik, also add critical perspectives; and Kosuth himself articulately describes his objectives in an interview. The result is a book that both represents the work of a major contemporary artist and boldly steps into the middle of the most controversial arguments about art and culture in America today. -- from dust jacket.

Arte Contemporáneo y Público: una Historia de Amor Entre la Queja y el Reproche

Danto writes about the contemporary art to be seen in museums and galleries, placing it in the context of the history of modern art and of current debates about essential ideas in our society.

El malestar de la modernidad

The first major survey of photography's place in recent art history.

Wake of Art

"Art history after modernism" does not only mean that art looks different today; it also means that our discourse on art has taken a different direction, if it is safe to say it has taken a direction at all. So begins Hans Belting's brilliant, iconoclastic reconsideration of art and art history at the end of the millennium, which builds upon his earlier and highly successful volume, The End of the History of Art?. "Known for his striking and original theories about the nature of art," according to the Economist, Belting here examines how art is made, viewed, and interpreted today. Arguing that contemporary art has burst out of the frame that art history had built for it, Belting calls for an entirely new approach to thinking and writing about art. He moves effortlessly between contemporary issues—the rise of global and minority art and its consequences for Western art history, installation and video art, and the troubled institution of the art museum—and questions central to art history's definition of itself, such as the distinction between high and low culture, art criticism versus art history, and the invention of modernism in art history. Forty-eight black and white images illustrate the text, perfectly reflecting the state of contemporary art. With Art History after Modernism, Belting retains his place as one of the most original thinkers working in the visual arts today.

Age of discrepancies

An anthology of writings on exhibition practice from artists, critics, curators and art historians plus artist-curators. It addresses the contradictions posed by museum and gallery sited exhibitions, as well as investigating the challenge of staging art presentations, displays or performances, in settings outside of traditional museum or gallery locales.

Tipu Sultan was a ruler of the Kingdom of Mysore renowned for his bravery in the wars against the British East India Company. Well known for his valor and courage, he is regarded as the first freedom fighter of India for his fierce battles against the British who tried to conquer the territories under the sultan's rule. This book gives complete details of his life as a ruler and his military campaigns.

This book argues that the role of the British East India Company in transforming warfare in South Asia has been overestimated. Although it agrees with conventional wisdom that, before the British, the nature of Indian society made it difficult for central authorities to establish themselves fully and develop a monopoly over armed force, the book argues that changes to warfare in South Asia were more gradual, and the result of more complicated socio-economic forces than has been hitherto acknowledged. The book covers the period from 1740, when the British first became a major power broker in south India, to 1849, when the British eliminated the last substantial indigenous kingdom in the sub-continent. Placing South Asian military history in a global, comparative context, it examines military innovations; armies and how they conducted themselves; navies and naval warfare; major Indian military powers - such as the Mysore and Khalsa kingdoms, the Maratha confederacy - and the British, explaining why they succeeded.

The East India Company at Home, 1757–1857 explores how empire in Asia shaped British country houses, their interiors and the lives of their residents. It includes chapters from researchers based in a wide range of settings such as archives and libraries, museums, heritage organisations, the community of family historians and universities. It moves beyond conventional academic narratives and makes an important contribution to ongoing debates around how empire impacted Britain. The volume focuses on the propertied families of the East India Company at the height of Company rule. From the Battle of Plassey in 1757 to the outbreak of the Indian Uprising in 1857, objects, people and wealth flowed to Britain from Asia. As men in Company service increasingly shifted their activities from trade to military expansion and political administration, a new population of civil servants, army officers, surveyors and surgeons journeyed to India to make their fortunes. These Company men and their families acquired wealth, tastes and identities in India, which travelled home with them to Britain. Their stories, the biographies of their Indian possessions and the narratives of the stately homes in Britain that came to house them, frame our explorations of imperial culture and its British legacies.

When Siraj, the ruler of Bengal, overran the British settlement of Calcutta in 1756, he allegedly jailed 146 European prisoners overnight in a cramped prison. Of the group, 123 died of suffocation. While this episode was never independently confirmed, the story of "the black hole of Calcutta" was widely circulated and seen by the British public as an atrocity committed by savage colonial subjects. The Black Hole of Empire follows the ever-changing representations of this historical event and founding myth of the British Empire in India, from the eighteenth century to the present. Partha Chatterjee explores how a supposed tragedy paved the ideological foundations for the "civilizing" force of British imperial rule and territorial control in India. Chatterjee takes a close look at the justifications of modern empire by liberal thinkers, international lawyers, and conservative traditionalists, and examines the intellectual and political responses of the colonized, including those of Bengali nationalists. The two sides of empire's entwined history are brought together in the story of the Black Hole memorial: set up in Calcutta in 1760, demolished in 1821, restored by Lord Curzon in 1902, and removed in 1940 to a neglected churchyard. Challenging conventional truisms of imperial history, nationalist scholarship, and liberal visions of globalization, Chatterjee argues that empire is a necessary and continuing part of the history of the modern state.

Devotional Sovereignty: Kingship and Religion in India investigates the shifting conceptualization of sovereignty in the South Indian kingdom of Mysore during the reigns of Tipu Sultan (r. 1782-1799) and Krishnaraja Wodeyar III (r. 1799-1868). Tipu Sultan was a Muslim king famous for resisting British dominance until his death; Krishnaraja III was a Hindu king who succumbed to British political and administrative control. Despite their differences, the courts of both kings dealt with the changing political landscape by turning to the religious and mythical past to construct a royal identity for their kings. Caleb Simmons explores the ways in which these two kings and their courts modified and adapted pre-modern Indian notions of sovereignty and kingship in reaction to British intervention. The religious past provided an idiom through which the Mysore courts could articulate their rulers' claims to kingship in the region, attributing their rule to divine election and employing religious vocabulary in a variety of courtly genres and media. Through critical inquiry into the transitional early colonial period, this study sheds new light on pre-modern and modern India, with implications for our understanding of contemporary politics. It offers a revisionist history of the accepted narrative in which Tipu Sultan is viewed as a radical Muslim reformer and Krishnaraja III as a powerless British puppet. Simmons paints a picture of both rulers in which they work within and from the same understanding of kingship, utilizing devotion to Hindu gods, goddesses, and gurus to perform the duties of the king.

India's rich heritage of jeweled artistry is expressed in extravagant and opulent creations that range from ornaments for every part of the body to ceremonial court objects such as boxes, daggers, and thrones. Treasures from India presents more than sixty iconic works from the renowned Al-Thani collection, including pieces created for the imperial Mughals in the seventeenth century, others made for the nizams of Hyderabad and the maharajas of the Rajput courts from the eighteenth to the twentieth century, Indian-inspired jewelry fashioned by Cartier and other Western firms, and contemporary designs. The lucid text discusses the significance of these objects within the history of Indian jeweled arts, demonstrating how they stand among the highest expressions of Indian culture.

This book examines the reasons behind the Great Divergence. Kaveh Yazdani analyzes India's socio-economic, techno-scientific, military, political and institutional developments. The focus is on Gujarat between the 17th and early 19th centuries and Mysore during the second half of the 18th century.

India, Modernity and the Great Divergence

In May 1853, Charles Dickens paid a visit to the "savages at Hyde Park Corner," an exhibition of thirteen imported Zulus performing cultural rites ranging from songs and dances to a "witch-hunt" and marriage ceremony. Dickens was not the only Londoner intrigued by these "living curiosities": displayed foreign peoples provided some of the most popular public entertainments of their day. At first, such shows tended to be small-scale entrepreneurial speculations of just a single person or a small group. By the end of the century, performers were being imported by the hundreds and housed in purpose-built "native" villages for months at a time, delighting the crowds and allowing scientists and journalists the opportunity to reflect on racial difference, foreign policy, slavery, missionary work, and empire. Peoples on Parade provides the first substantial overview of these human exhibitions in nineteenth-century

Britain. Sadiya Qureshi considers these shows in their entirety—their production, promotion, management, and performance—to understand why they proved so commercially successful, how they shaped performers' lives, how they were interpreted by their audiences, and what kinds of lasting influence they may have had on notions of race and empire. Qureshi supports her analysis with diverse visual materials, including promotional ephemera, travel paintings, theatrical scenery, art prints, and photography, and thus contributes to the wider understanding of the relationship between science and visual culture in the nineteenth century. Through Qureshi's vibrant telling and stunning images, readers will see how human exhibitions have left behind a lasting legacy both in the formation of early anthropological inquiry and in the creation of broader public attitudes toward racial difference.

This book is an introduction to a new branch of archaeology that scrutinises landscapes to find evidence of past human activity. Such evidence can be hard to detect at ground-level, but may be visible in remote sensing (RS) imagery from aerial platforms and satellites. Drawing on examples from around the world as well as from her own research work on archaeological sites in India (including Nalanda, Agra, Srirangapatna, Talakadu, and Mahabalipuram), the author presents a systematic process for integrating this information with historical spatial records such as old maps, paintings, and field surveys using Geographic Information Systems (GIS) to gain new insights into our past. Further, the book highlights several instances where these insights are actionable -- they have been used to identify, understand, conserve, and protect the fragile remnants of our past. This book will be of particular interest not only to researchers in archaeology, history, art history, and allied fields, but to governmental and non-governmental professionals working in cultural heritage protection and conservation.

The Central Thesis Of This Book, On The History Of The Calcutta Jute Millhands Is That The Evolution Of The Industrial Labour Force In India Exhibited Features Which Require An Atypical Theoretical Framework. The Author Refuses To Privilege One Identity (That Of Class) Over The Other (That Of Community) And Argues That The Coexistence Of These Identities Within The Working Class In India Did Not Imply Any Weakening Of The Oppositional Sentiment Towards The Colonial State.

Country houses and the British empire, 1700–1930 assesses the economic and cultural links between country houses and the Empire between the eighteenth and twentieth centuries. Using sources from over fifty British and Irish archives, it enables readers to better understand the impact of the empire upon the British metropolis by showing both the geographical variations and its different cultural manifestations. Barczewski offers a rare scholarly analysis of the history of country houses that goes beyond an architectural or biographical study, and recognises their importance as the physical embodiments of imperial wealth and reflectors of imperial cultural influences. In so doing, she restores them to their true place of centrality in British culture over the last three centuries, and provides fresh insights into the role of the Empire in the British metropolis.

A fresh perspective on British history from award-winning broadcaster Fatima Manji Why was there a Turkish mosque adorning Britain's most famous botanic garden in the eighteenth century? How did a pair of Persian-inscribed cannon end up in rural Wales? And who is the Moroccan man depicted in a long-forgotten portrait hanging in a west London stately home? Throughout Britain's museums, civic buildings and stately homes, relics can be found that reveal the diversity of pre-twentieth-century Britain and expose the misconceptions around modern immigration narratives. In her journey across Britain exploring cultural landmarks, Fatima Manji searches for a richer and more honest story of a nation struggling with identity and the legacy of empire. Elizabeth Gwillim (1763–1807) and her sister Mary Symonds (1772–1854) produced over two hundred watercolours depicting birds, fish, flowers, people, and landscapes around Madras (now Chennai). The sisters' detailed letters fill four large volumes in the British Library; their artwork is in the Blacker Wood Natural History Collection of McGill University Library in Canada and in the South Asia Collection in Britain. The first book about their work and lives, Women, Environment, and Networks of Empire asks what these materials reveal about nature, society, and environment in early nineteenth-century South India. Gwillim and Symonds left for India in 1801, following the appointment of Elizabeth's husband, Henry Gwillim, to the Supreme Court of Madras. Their paintings document, on one hand, the rapidly expanding colonial city of Madras and its population and, on the other, the natural environment and wildlife of the city. Gwillim's paintings of birds are remarkable for their detail, naturalism, and accuracy. In their studies of natural history, Gwillim and Symonds relied on the expertise of Indian bird-catchers, fishermen, physicians, artists, and translators, contributing to a unique intersection of European and Asian natural knowledge. The sisters' extensive correspondence demonstrates how women shaped networks of trade and scholarship through exchanges of plants, books, textiles, and foods. In Women, Environment, and Networks of Empire an interdisciplinary group of scholars use the paintings and writings of Elizabeth Gwillim and Mary Symonds to explore natural history, the changing environment, colonialism, and women's lives at the turn of the nineteenth century.

The Sunday Times Top 10 bestseller on India's experience of British colonialism, by the internationally-acclaimed author and diplomat Shashi Tharoor 'Tharoor's impassioned polemic slices straight to the heart of the darkness that drives all empires ... laying bare the grim, and high, cost of the British Empire for its former subjects. An essential read' Financial Times In the eighteenth century, India's share of the world economy was as large as Europe's. By 1947, after two centuries of British rule, it had decreased six-fold. The Empire blew rebels from cannon, massacred unarmed protesters, entrenched institutionalised racism, and caused millions to die from starvation. British imperialism justified itself as enlightened despotism for the benefit of the governed, but Shashi Tharoor takes demolishes this position, demonstrating how every supposed imperial 'gift' - from the railways to the rule of law - was designed in Britain's interests alone. He goes on to show how Britain's Industrial Revolution was founded on India's deindustrialisation, and the destruction of its textile industry. In this bold and incisive reassessment of colonialism, Tharoor exposes to devastating effect the inglorious reality of Britain's stained Indian legacy.

Historical Sketches Of The South India In An Attempt To Trace The History Of Mysore.

Tiger of Mysore

An Indian politician looks back at her journey and recounts how the going got tougher with her every success, perhaps because she was a woman. Life among the Scorpions recounts the deeply fascinating and often tumultuous events that mark thirty years of Jaya Jaitly's political journey. From arranging relief for victims of the 1984 Sikh riots, to joining politics under firebrand leader George Fernandes, to becoming the president of Samata Party-a key ally in the erstwhile NDA Government, Jaitly's rise in Indian mainstream politics invited both awe and envy. But the going has been far from smooth. Trouble began with George Fernandes sacking Admiral Vishnu Bhagwat in 1998. Jaitly became the target. She was soon hounded by Tehelka's stings-first concerning her son-in-law-to-be Ajay Jadeja and then herself in an alleged bribery case. Eventually, Fernandes had to resign as India's Defence Minister, despite being the best, and Jaitly quit as the Samata Party President. Meanwhile, she spiritedly fought booth capturing in Bihar as well as fellow party men's egos, intervened and ensured the installation of the Samata government in Manipur. All this, even as she continued her parallel fight for the livelihood of craftsmen on the one hand, and conceptualized and ensured establishment of the first Dilli Haat (crafts market place) in 1994 on the other. With all the backstories of major events in Indian politics between 1970-2000, including her experience of dealing with the Commission of Inquiry and courts regarding the Tehelka stings, the story of Jaya Jaitly makes for a riveting read. A powerful narrative on why being a woman in politics was for her akin to being surrounded by scorpions; this hard hitting memoir offers a perspective on the functioning of Indian politics from a woman's point of view.

Curating empire explores the diverse roles played by museums and their curators in moulding and representing the British imperial experience. This collection demonstrates how individuals, their curatorial practices, and intellectual and political agendas influenced the development of a variety of museums across the globe. Taken together, these contributions suggest that museums are not just sites for accessing history but need to be considered as historical sites of significance in themselves. Individual essays examine the work of curators in museums in Britain and the colonies, the historical display and interpretation of empire in Britain, and the establishment of 'museum networks' in the British imperial context. Curating empire sheds new light on the relationship between museums, as repositories for objects and cultural institutions for conveying knowledge, and the politics of culture and the formation of identities throughout the British Empire.
