Compounds Some of the matter around you is in the form of uncombined elements such as copper, sulfur, and oxygen. Like many other sets of elements, these three elements unite chemically to form a compound when the conditions are right. • The green coating on the Statue of Liberty and some old pennies is a result of this chemical change. The compound formed when elements combine often has properties that aren't anything like those of the individual elements

A chemical formula tells what elements a compound contains and the exact number of the atoms of each element in a unit of that compound. The compound that you are probably most familiar with is H₂O, more commonly known as water. This formula contains the symbols H for the element hydrogen and O for the element oxygen Notice the subscript number 2 written after the H for hydrogen.

A subscript written after a symbol tells how many atoms of that element are in a unit of the compound. If a symbol has no subscript, the unit contains only one atom of that element. A unit of H₂O contains two hydrogen atoms and one oxygen atom

Atomic Stability • The electric forces between oppositely charged electrons and protons hold atoms and molecules together, and thus are the forces that cause compounds to form. • Atoms of noble gases are unusually stable. • Compounds of these atoms rarely form because they are almost always less stable than the original atoms.

Stability Is Reached • When atoms gain, lose, or share electrons, an attraction forms between the atoms, pulling them together to form a compound. • This attraction is called a chemical bond. A chemical bond is the force that holds atoms together in a compound.

Stability in Bonding. - Stability in Bonding. by Ms. KC 271 views 3 years ago 8 minutes, 6 seconds - Liquidambarschool.

FORMULAS Every element has a chemical symbol. For example, the chemical symbol Na represents the element sodium, and the symbol Cl represents the element chlorine.

An atom is chemically stable when its outer energy level is complete. The outer energy levels of helium and hydrogen are stable with two electrons. The outer energy levels of all other elements are stable with eight.

In contrast, helium's outer energy level contains two electrons as represented by its electron dot diagram with two dots a pair of electrons-next to its symbol. Helium already has a full outer energy level by itself and is chemically stable. As a result, helium rarely forms compounds. Compare the electron dot diagrams of helium and hydrogen below.

Intro

Combining Elements Most elements are not found by themselves in nature

Chemical Formulas Chemical formula – used to tell what elements and how many of each element are in a unit of a compound

Why do elements form compounds?

Would elements ever not benefit from forming compounds? • YES if they are already stable ' which the noble gases are!

Bonds • When atoms gain, lose or share electrons in order to become stable, they form chemical bonds

Ionic Bonds Ions: atoms or molecules that have a charge due to having lost or gained electrons

Elements in the same group have the same number of valence e

Oxidation Numbers Oxidation numbers: the charge of an ion within a compound

Using Electron Dot Diagrams to show Bond Formation

Practice Time! Key Use electron dot structures to write chemical formulas for the following combination of elements
