The Efficiency Rationale • Policy intervention is justified if there are market or government failures Based on efficiency rationale territory matters because: Market and government failures impact on different places in different ways

The Equity Rationale Policy intervention is justified if market outcomes lead to unequal distribution of resources, and if this is seen as unfair

In applying the 3E Framework . There are often tensions and always trade-offs between efficiency, equity and environmental objectives.

Theory-based evaluation Raises question about the underlying assumptions behind the programme intervention logics and their implementation chains

Realist approaches to evaluation • Aim to find patterns and regularities in the interaction between: - context or circumstance, mechanisms, and outcome

The intangible added values of territorial cooperation • Increases horizontal and vertical coordination

- Reduces fragmentation in decision making and policy formulation
- Creates synergetic actions
- Forms relation of trust and social capital
- Enables knowledge exchange & learning
- Promotes respect for socio-cultural differences
- Reduces antagonistic tendencies

Aligning multiple intervention logics and implementation chains
