Distance visual acuity and near visual acuity tests

Contrast Sensitivity Test

Lux IQ Optimal Task Lighting Test

Enhance vision with devices/technology to use remaining vision optimally

Level of acuity impairment determines level of magnification needed. We provide a show and tell of low vision devices/technology

Table 1. Patients who chose contrast enhancing devices. Counts and (column percentages).

Patients with some diseases are more likely to choose contrast enhancing or lighted devices

Worse contrast sensitivity, more likely to choose contrast enhancing device

Worse acuity, more likely to choose contrast enhancing device

Higher brightness preference on Lux IQ test, more likely to choose contrast enhancing device

As ocular disease progresses, patients lose both visual acuity and contrast sensitivity. Yet some diseases have worse contrast sensitivity than others for comparable acuity loss level
