Were Beings of Unnatural Proportions or Parts Usually Regarded with Terror as Possessing Immense Strength and Ferocity Which They Employed for the Injury and Annoyance of Men some of Them Were Supposed To Combine the Members of Different Animals Such with the Sphinx and Chimera and to these All the Terrible Qualities of Wild Beasts Were Attributed Together with Humans Sagacity and Faculties Others as the Giants Differed from Men Chiefly in Their Size and in this Particular We Must Recognize a Wide Distinction among Them the Human Giants if so They May Be Called Such as the Cyclopes Anteus Orion and Others Must Be Supposed Not To Be Altogether Disproportioned to Human Beings for They Mingled in Love and Strife with Them

Yet Not Daring Entirely To Disobey Tied Up the Child by the Feet and Left Him Hanging to the Branch of a Tree in this Condition the Infant Was Found by a Peasant Who Carried Him to His Master and Mistress by Whom He Was Adopted and Called Oedipus or Swollen Foot Many Years Afterwards Layers Being on His Way to Delphi Accompanied Only by One Attendant Met in a Narrow Road a Young Man Also Driving in a Chariot on His Refusal To Leave the Way of Their Command the

Attendant Killed One of His Horses and the Stranger Filled with Rage Slew both Layers and His Attendant the Young Man Was Oedipus Who Thus Unknowingly Became the Layer of His Own Father Shortly after this Event the City of Thebes Was Afflicted with a Monster Which Infested the High Road It Was Called the Sphinx

With the Condition that those Who Could Solve It Should Pass Safe but those Who Failed Should Be Killed Not One Had Yet Succeeded in Solving It and all Had Been Slain Oedipus Was Not Daunted by these Alarming Accounts but Boldly Advanced to the Trial the Sphinx Asked Him What Animal Is that Which in the Morning Goes on Four Feet at Noon on Two and in the Evening upon Three Oedipus Replied Man Who in Childhood Creeps on Hands and Knees in Manhood Walks Erect and in Old Age with the Aid of a Staff the Sphinx Was So Mortified at the Solving of Her Riddle

The Sphinx Asked Him What Animal Is that Which in the Morning Goes on Four Feet at Noon on Two and in the Evening upon Three Oedipus Replied Man Who in Childhood Creeps on Hands and Knees in Manhood Walks Erect and in Old Age with the Aid of a Staff the Sphinx Was So Mortified at the Solving of Her Riddle that She Cast Herself Down from the Rock and Perished the Gratitude of the People for Their Deliverance Was So Great that They May D Deepest Their King

He Did So and as He Slept Minerva Came to Him and Gave Him a Golden Bridle When He Awoke the Bridle Remained in His Hand Minerva Also Showed Him Pegasus Drinking at the Well of Pyrene li and at Sight of the Bridle the Winged Steed Came Willingly and Suffered Himself To Be Taken Bellerophon Mounted Him Rose with Him into the Air Soon Found the Chimaera and Gained an Easy Victory over the Monster after the Conquest of the Chimaera Bellerophon Was Exposed to Further Trials and Labor's by His Unfriendly Host

It Is Said He Even Attempted To Fly Up into Heaven on His Winged Steed but Jupiter Sent a Gadfly Which Stung Pegasus and Made Him Throw His Rider Who Became Lame and Blind in Consequence after this Bellerophon Wandered Lonely through the Alley Unfilled Avoiding the Paths of Men and Died Miserably Milton Alludes To Bellerophon in the Beginning of the Seventh Book of Paradise Lost Descend from Heaven Urania by that Name if Rightly Thou Art Called Whose Voice Divine Following above the Olympian Hill I Saw above the Flight of Pegasi

I Have Presumed an Earthly Guest and Drawn Imperial Air Thy Tempering with Like Safety Guided Down Return Me to My Native Element lest from this Flying Steed Unruhe and as once Bellerophon Though from a Louis Fear Dismounted on the Alien Field I Fall Erroneous There To Wander and Forlorn Young in His Night Thoughts Speaking of the Skeptic Says He Who's Blind Thought Futurity Denies Unconscious Bears Bellerophon like Thee His Own Indictment He Condemns Himself Who Reads His Bosom Reads Immortal Life or Nature They'Re Imposing on Her Sons Has Written Fables Man Was Made a Lie Volume 2 Page 12 Pegasus Being the Horse of the Muses

He Was Not Fit for Such Service and His Clownish Master Could Make Nothing of Him but a Youth Stepped Forth and Asked Leave To Try Him As Soon as He Was Seated on His Back the Horse Which Had Appeared at First Vicious and Afterwards Spirit Broken Rose Kingly a Spirit a God Unfolded the Splendor of His Wings and Swords towards Heaven Our Own Poet Longfellow Also Records an Adventure of this Famous Steed in His Pegasus Impound Shakespeare Alludes to Pegasus in Henry the Fourth Crevan Describes Prince Henry

The Most Distinguished Heroes of Grecian Story Were His Pupils among the Rest the Infant High School a Pious Was Entrusted to His Charge by Apollo His Father When the Sage Returned to His Home Bearing the Infant His Daughter Ocoee Came Forth To Meet Him and at Sight of the Child Burst Forth into a Prophetic Strain for She Was a Prophetess for Telling the Glory that He Was To Achieve a Skill a Pious When Grown Up Became a Renowned Physician and Even in One Instance Succeeded in Restoring the Dead to Life Pluto Resented this and Jupiter at His Request Struck the Bold Physician with Lightning and Killed Him but after His Death Received Him into the Number of the Gods

And as the Liquor Boiled and Bubbled and Sometimes Ran over the Grass Wherever the Sprinklings Fell Shocked Forth with a Verger like that of Spring Seeing that all Was Ready Medea Cut the Throat of the Old Man and Let Out All His Blood and Poured into His Mouth and into His Wound the Juices of Her Cauldron As Soon as She Had Completely Imbided Them His Hair and Beard Laid by Their Whiteness and Assumed the Blindness of Youth

Yet He Must Have Had some Good Qualities for His Daughters Loved Him and When They Saw What Medea Had Done for a Essen They Wished Her To Do the Same for Their Father Medea Pretended to Consent and Prepared Her Cauldron as Before at Her Request an Old Sheep Was Brought and Plunged into the Cauldron Very Soon a Bleating Was Heard in the Kettle and When the Cover Was Removed a Lamb Jumped Forth and Ran Frisking Away into the Meadow the Daughters of Pelier Saw the Experiment with Delight and Appointed a Time for Their Father To Undergo the Same Operation but Medea Prepared Her Cauldron for Him in a Very Different Way She Put In Only and a Few Simple Herbs in the Night She with the Sisters Entered the Bedchamber of the Old King while He and His Guards Slept Soundly under the Influence of a Spell Cast upon Them by Medea

But Medea Prepared Her Cauldron for Him in a Very Different Way She Put In Only and a Few Simple Herbs in the Night She with the Sisters Entered the Bedchamber of the Old King while He and His Guards Slept Soundly under the Influence of a Spell Cast upon Them by Medea the Daughters Stood by the Bedside with Their Weapons Drawn but Hesitated To Strike till Medea Chid There a Resolution Then Turning Away Their Faces and Giving Random Blows They Smote Him with Their Weapons He's Starting from His Sleep Cried Out My Daughters What Are You Doing Will You Kill Your Father Their Hearts Failed Them and Their Weapons Fell from Their Hands but Medea Struck Him a Fatal Blow and Prevented His Saying

She Enraged at His Ingratitude Caught on the Gods for Vengeance Sent a Poisoned Robe as a Gift to the Bride and Then Killing Her Own Children and Setting Fire to the Palace Mounted Her Serpent Drawn Chariot and Fled to Athens Where She Married King Aegeus the Father of Theseus and We Shall Meet Her Again When We Come to the Adventures of that Hero the Incantations of Medea Will Remind the Reader of those of the Witches in Macbeth the Following Lines Are those Which Seem Most Strikingly To Recall the Ancient
