Since the invention of the computer virtual reality, theories have been ...

Intro

Belief VS questioning

Seeing the world for survival VS for knowing reality as it truly is

Competing strategies to maximise 'fitness' in the evolutionary sense

Fitness payoff's can be calculated as mathematical functions, based on different organisms, states and actions

Evolutionary Game Theory computer simulations at UC Irvine
The payoff functions that govern evolution do not contain information about the structure of the world
The world is NOT as it seems VS The world is NOTHING like it seems Space-time cannot be fundamental
Local and non-contextual realism have been proved false
A User-Interface network of conscious agents
A virtual reality computer analogy
Space and time and physical objects are merely a user interface
Reductionism is false
User Interface theory VS Simulation theory
Panpsychists are fundamentally physicalists
Making mathematical predictions about conscious agents
Like space and time maths are invented metrics, so must we start with consciousness metrics
Experiences lead to actions, which affect other agent's conscious experiences
The notion of truth is deeper than the notion of proof and theory
Consciousness projects space-time so it can explore infinite possibilities
'Not that which the eye can see, but that whereby the eye can see', Kena Upanishad
Is nature written in the language of Maths?
Consciousness is like the living being, and maths is like the bones
Don Hoffman on Max Tegmark's 'Everything that is mathematically possible is real'
Different analogies for different eras
