The Leader Co Created Process - The Leader Co Created Process by GreggU 373 views 3 years ago 1 minute, 24 seconds - The name of this approach almost seems like a misnomer because it implies that it is about leadership, rather than followership.

Intro

CO-CREATED The leadership co-created process framework conceptualizes followership as a give-and-take process where one individual's following behaviors interact with another individual's leading behaviors to create leadership and its resulting outcomes.

BEHAVIORS Leading behaviors are influence attempts-that is, using power to have an impact on another. · Following behaviors, on the other hand, involve granting power to another, complying, or challenging.

Because followership research is in the initial stages of development, the two frameworks- reversing the lens and the leadership co-created are initial attempts to create a theory of followership.
