MINISTER'S COMPANION BIBLE: MARK (VOLUME 1)

Excerpt from The Pulpit Cyclopaedia, and Christian Minister's Companion: Containing Three Hundred and Sixty Skeletons and Sketches of Sermons; And Eighty-Two Essays on Biblical Learning, Theological Studies, and the Composition and Delivery of Sermons Among the auspicious "Signs of the Times," the increase of the demand for accurate scriptural knowledge, and the multiplying facilities for extending its hallowed influence, are not the least grateful. One of the circumstances which portends unspeakable public benefit to the churches of Christ is the growing attachment to pulpit eloquence, instead of the drowsy reading which so long has thrust out the legitimate preaching of the gospel. Without controversy, no one defect in the services of the sanctuary, more incongruous and incompatible with all the ostensible purposes of social devotion and ministerial instruction, can be designated, than the modern practice of reading discourses in the "house of prayer." Theological tutors, and writers on sacred literature, who proscribe and endeavor to extirpate that wretched perversion of every principle of natural sensibility, common sense, and genius, merit the support and thanks of all those "who love the Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity," and who long for the splendid day, when "all shall know him from the least to the greatest." This view is peculiarly impressed upon us by the fact, that with the exception of Simeon's Horae Homileticae, and his volumes of Skeletons which preceded it - scarcely an attempt, for a century, was made to disseminate those textual expositions generally known as an Analysis or Sketches of Sermons. The few specimens of that class of the seventeenth century are so ramified and minute, that their protracted discussion rendered them almost useless for the brevity of our modern discourses. Exclusive of Hannain's "Pulpit Assistant," which has passed through five editions in Britain, that department of biblical literature remained almost an entire void. Hannam's selected "Outlines or Skeletons of Sermons" are unexceptionable in their truthful sentiments and pious tendency, but they are both redundant and defective; and want that terse, vivid, and comprehensive condensation, in which modern Pulpit Orators, especially Bradley, Hall, Jay, and Melville excel. The volume of Hannam, in the last improved edition, combines a rich fund of didactic exposition and instruction; but owing to its derivation from the protracted discussions of the never-tired and inexhaustible commentators two hundred years ago, their multifarious details are frequently complex and tedious. Called To Serve... The Minister in the Making

How can we, God's masterpiece, created in HIS image, think of situations as funny, unless the whole idea came from God in the first place? Many say that the nature of God is unknowable, but I'm certain of one thing at least. God Almighty does have a sense of humor. And we need to see this side of Him as well, in order to totally appreciate Him. Today, we live in a world that most times seems so overwhelming, where a good laugh and a real smile are rarely ever seen or heard. The everyday stresses of life can leave us feeling hassled, hurried, hopeless and harassed. Add to that a fragile economy during a time of threatened security, and we could be left feeling frightened, vulnerable, and totally off on the stress meter. We therefore need tools for coping, as it's easy to lose simple joy. But, maintaining a close relationship with God, who "sits in the heavens and laughs" (Ps. 2:4) will release that grace to enjoy this 'joy and laughter' in our lives, for in His "presence is fullness of joy" (Ps. 16:11). HE is that 'spring of happiness' that will enable us to overcome the pressures and trials of life. And joy helps break down those barriers allowing laughter to freely flow. Humor and laughter will not just change your day; they can change your life! It is said that young children laugh as much as 100 to 200 times a day, compared to the majority of adults that only get zero to a few daily laughs a day. Yet laughter is good not only for the body but also for the soul and Spirit. This reservoir of: Christian Jokes for the 'Serious Religious' Folks! is an exhaustive collection of rib-tickling, humorous jokes with the purpose being twofold: To help bring joy and laughter into our everyday lives and to help as a great preaching resource for Preachers, Ministers and Teachers of the Word, by helping to tickle any congregation's funny bone -- and grab their attention. So, given the above "license to laugh" now, just enjoy the rib-tickling pages that follow and learn to laugh and laugh and laugh, so you'll last and last and last!

The Young Minister's Companion

Excerpt from The Pulpit Cyclopaedia, and Christian Minister's Companion: Containing Three Hundred and Sixty Skeletons and Sketches of Sermons; And Eighty-Two Essays on Biblical Learning, Theological Studies, and the Composition and Delivery of Sermons The Essays from page 498 to 555, are intended to specify those distinct features in the discharge of the ministerial work, essential to its efficiency and success. The Essays from page 555 to 611 relate to revivals of religion, with the onerous duties of the pastoral office. It is presumed, that none can read the essays on the fulfilment of their sacred and solemnly responsible work, selected from forty-four eminent writers, without instruction and profit; but for the student, the young minister, and those who have to engage in secular employments, and yet usefully proclaim the word of salvation, is this work chiefly intended. To render it easy of reference, Indices to the Authors of the essays, and to the texts of the skeletons and sketches in scriptural order, have been added. In concluding these prefatory remarks the author begs to observe, that his aim has not been to present a novel treatment of subjects, or to startle by striking and uncommon modes of expression, but to present a. The Literary Companion to Parliament

Excerpt from Pastor's Companion for Weddings and Funerals There are many books of forms for the use of ministers; but most of them contain other matter besides that which is needed at a wedding or a funeral. This compact handbook has been prepared to meet a need often experienced. I desire to acknowledge my indebtedness to E. T. Hiscox, D. D., for the use of two Marriage forms taken from his Star-book, published by Ward & Drummond, New York. They are Numbers II. and III., used by W. R. Williams, D. D., and R. H. Neale, D. D. This little book is sent forth with an earnest prayer that it may be useful to those who are the Ministers of life and death.
