Epistemic Logic?

True Justified Belief

DOXASTIC For the first half of this month we are going to investigate doxastic logic (the logic of belief) and epistemic logic (the logic of knowledge) which are very closely tied.

Justification For the second half of the month we will investigate justification logic, the logic of justification, which will both relate to the other modal logics in form, and epistemic logic as it is a component of knowledge.

Because we are covering effectively three different kinds of modal logic, this month will not be as in depth as the previous months, but it will offer a broader view of epistemic logics.
