What to expect after radiation and chemotherapy are done

What's next after chemotherapy and radiation treatment.

Things to remember

Make sure you have enough TMZ (chemo pills).

The effects of the radiation peak about a month after the radiation has finished.

You may feel more tired. You may be more confused. You may feel that your usual routine may be more difficult for you.

or are becoming so sleepy you can't get out of bed or very confused

Many times, they can be improved with some extra doses of Dexamethasone (steroid).

It should be booked within one month of completing treatment.

At the follow up appointment we'll decide if you need to continue with chemotherapy.

Each month you will have blood taken and see the Nurse Practitioner or Neuro-oncologist.

Advanced Care Planning
