Tschumi Parc de La Villette

Tschumi Parc de la Villette is the first publication to document comprehensively Bernard Tschumi's first, and arguably still most celebrated project. With new and republished writing including a text by Bernard Tschumi and Anthony Vidler's "Trick-Track" originally published in 1986, alongside a newly-commissioned essay assessing the Parc from a contemporary and historical perspective, this book documents Parc de la Villette from its conception, through the 30 years of its existence, to the present. Tschumi Parc de la Villette includes drawings, concept sketches, models and photographs showing the development of the Parc over three decades, brought together in a single volume for the first time since the 1980s. One of the "Grands Projets" commissioned by the French Government in the 1980s, Parc de la Villette set a benchmark for urban parks in the latter part of the twentieth century and into the twenty-first. Tschumi constructed a series of follies across the site, creating what he called "the largest discontinuous building in the world". Published to coincide with the 30th anniversary of the Parc, Tschumi Parc de la Villette broadly celebrates the project, and particularly the way in which it has been embraced by generations of Parisians and a diverse international public.

"Including an exhaustive presentation of sketches, models, computer renderings, working drawings, and photographs of the construction process and the finished work, this book documents the project at a level of detail that allows complete and careful study from its conception to its completion. This in-depth graphic presentation is accompanied by commentaries from the architect, as well as series editors Jeffery Kipnis and Todd Gannon, that further explore both the cultural and technical significance of this important building."--BOOK JACKET.

Bernard Tschumi/Zenith de Rouen

Avant-garde theorist and architect Bernard Tschumi is equally well known for his writing and his practice. Architecture and Disjunction, which brings together Tschumi's essays from 1975 to 1990, is a lucid and provocative analysis of many of the key issues that have engaged architectural discourse over the past two decades—from deconstructive theory to recent concerns with the notions of event and program. The essays develop different themes in contemporary theory as they relate to the actual making of architecture, attempting to realign the discipline with a new world culture characterized by both discontinuity and heterogeneity. Included are a number of seminal essays that incited broad attention when they first appeared in magazines and journals, as well as more recent and topical texts. Tschumi's discourse has always been considered radical and disturbing. He opposes modernist ideology and postmodern nostalgia since both impose restrictive criteria on what may be deemed "legitimate" cultural conditions. He argues for focusing on our immediate cultural situation, which is distinguished by a new postindustrial "unhomeliness" reflected in the ad hoc erection of buildings with multipurpose programs. The condition of New York and the chaos of Tokyo are thus perceived as legitimate urban forms.

Architecture and Disjunction

Bernard Tschumi achieved fame early by winning the competition to design the Parc de la Villette in north-eastern Paris, and he has led the Graduate School of Architecture, Planning and Preservation at New York's Columbia University since 1988. This book documents the full extent of Tschumi's career.

Bernard Tschumi

The author here presents an architectural history of Paris, stretching from the 3rd century BC up until the end of the 20th century.

Cinégramme folie

Through a set of theoretical drawings developed between 1976 and 1981. Bernard Tschumi argues that the disjunction between spaces and their use, objects and events, being and meaning is no accident today. But when this disjunction becomes an architectural confrontation, a new relation of pleasure and violence inevitably occurs. 'They found the Transcripts by accident ... a lifetime's worth of urban pleasures - pleasures that they had no intention of giving up. So when she threatened to run and tell the authorities, they had no alternative but to stop her. And that's when the second accident occurred ... the accident of murder ... They had to get out of the Park - quick. And the only thing which could help them was Architecture, beautiful trusting Architecture that they had used before, but never so cruelly or so selfishly ...

The Architecture of Paris

Architect and educator Bernard Tschumi is one of the most influential figures in architectural theory and practice. This fascinating volume presents, in a sequence of ten "conversations," his autobiography in architecture, from his conceptual proposals of the early 1970s through his major current buildings and projects. Tschumi approaches his work as the gradual construction of an argument. The conversations, drawn from a six-year series of interviews with critic Enrique Walker, represent that argument in an analysis of Tschumi's writings, buildings, and other works. The conversations offer a clear-eyed analysis of Tschumi's work, suggesting the interwoven relationship between the strategies of each individual design and the formation of the architect's overarching theoretical project. Among the major works of architecture investigated are Parc de la Villette in Paris; Le Fresnoy National Studio for Contemporary Arts in Tourcoing, France; and the New Acropolis Museum in Athens. Also included are Tschumi's conceptual works and writings such as The Manhattan Transcripts and Architecture and Disjunction.

The Manhattan Transcripts

Architectural Drawings as Investigating Devices explores how the changing modes of representation in architecture and urbanism relate to the transformation of how the addressees of architecture and urbanism are conceived. The book diagnoses the dominant epistemological debates in architecture and urbanism during the 20th and 21st centuries. It traces their transformations, paying special attention to Le Corbusier and Ludwig Mies van der Rohe's preference for perspective representation, to the diagrams of Team 10 architects, to the critiques of functionalism, and the upgrade of the artefactual value of architectural drawings in Aldo Rossi, John Hejduk, Peter Eisenman, and Oswald Mathias Ungers, and, finally, to the reinvention of architectural programme through the event in Bernard Tschumi and the Office for Metropolitan Architecture (OMA). Particular emphasis is placed on the spirit of truth and clarity in modernist architecture, the relationship between the individual and the community in post-war era architecture, the decodification of design process as syntactic analogy and the paradigm of autonomy in the 1970s and 1980s architecture, the concern about the dynamic character of urban conditions and the potentialities hidden in architectural programme in the post-autonomy era. This book is based on extensive archival research in Canada, the USA and Europe, and will be of interest to architects, artists, researchers and students in architecture, architectural history, theory, cultural theory, philosophy and aesthetics.

Le Parc de la Villette de Bernard Tschumi

It could be argued that deconstruction has to a considerable extent been formed by critical accounts of it. This collection reprints a cross section of these important works, charting the ways in which deconstruction is conceptualized and demonstrating the impact it has had on a wide range of traditions. The essential pieces in this set include writings by Jacques Derrida, Jonathan Culler, Paul de Man, Barbara Johnson, and a wide range of key thinkers in areas as diverse as psychoanalysis, law, gender studies, and architecture. The major themes covered include: * Vol. 1: Part I: "What is Deconstruction?" Part II: "Philosophy" * Vol. 2: Part III: "Literary Criticism" Part IV: "Feminism and Queer Theory" * Vol. 3: Part V: "Psychoanalysis" Part VI: "Religion/Theology" Part VII: "Architecture" * Vol. 4: Part VIII: "Politics" Part IX: "Ethics"

Tschumi on Architecture

Conceived for new art forms of the twenty-first century, Bernard Tschumi's Le Fresnoy, the National Studio for Contemporary Arts in Tourcoing, France, is part experimental art laboratory, part multimedia production center, part school, part cinema and exhibition and performance space. This highly celebrated building defies categorization, encouraging crossovers between architectural programs and art forms. A huge, technologically advanced roof covers both existing and recent construction, housing the renovated spaces of a former entertainment complex built in the 1920s. In Tschumi's remarkable building, the "in between" or residual spaces located between the existing tiled roofs and the new, hovering steel structure punctuated by glass "clouds" becomes a place where artists can take cover. Much as Tschumi invented a new concept of urban park with his Parc de la Villette in Paris, he brings to Le Fresnoy an innovative concept about the spaces generated by collisions between forms, programs, and the varied systems of contemporary culture. A group of essays by authors including Sylviane Agacinski, Alain Guiheux, Alan Fleischer, and Sylvia Lavin, among others, provides a theoretical and historical context. Extensive photographs and illustrations document the design, construction, and completion of this most polemical of new buildings.

Architectural Drawings as Investigating Devices

[Winner of the 2016 Bronze medal in Architecture, Independent Publisher Book Awards] This book comprises a series of 22 case studies by renowned experts and new scholars in the field of architecture competition research. In 2015, it constitutes the most comprehensive survey of the dynamics behind the definition, organization, judging, archiving and publishing of architectural, landscape and urban design competitions in the world. These richly documented contributions revolve around a few questions that can be summarized in a two-fold critical interrogation: How can design competitions - these historical democratic devices, both praised and dreaded by designers - be considered laboratories for the production of environmental design quality, and, ultimately, for the renewing of culture and knowledge? Includes 340 illustrations, bibliographical references and index of over 200 cited competitions. Keywords: Architecture / International competitions / Architectural judgment / Design thinking / Digital archiving (databases) / Architectural publications / Architectural experimentation / Landscape architecture / Urban studies

Deconstruction

Great City Parks is a celebration of some of the finest achievements of landscape architecture in the public realm. It is a comparative study of twenty significant public parks in fourteen major cities across Western Europe and North America. Collectively, they give a clear picture of why parks have been created, how they have been designed, how they are managed, and what plans are being made for them at the beginning of the twenty-first century. Based on unique research including extensive site visits and interviews with the managing organisations, this book is illustrated throughout with clear plans and professional photographs for each park. This book reflects a belief that well-planned, well-designed and well-managed parks remain invaluable components of liveable and hospitable cities.

Tschumi Le Fresnoy

Focusing on six leading contemporary architects: Peter Eisenman, Frank Gehry, Bernard Tschumi, Zaha Hadid, Rem Koolhaas and Steven Holl, this book puts forward a unique and insightful analysis of "neo-avant-garde" architecture. It discusses the spectacle and excess which permeates contemporary architecture in reference to the present aesthetic tendency for image making, but does so by applying the tectonic of theatricality discussed by the 19th-century German architect Gottfried Semper. In doing so, it breaks new ground by opening up a dialogue between the study of the past and the design of the present. The work of each discussed architect is seen as addressing a historiographical problem. To this end, and this is the second important aspect of this book, the chosen buildings are discussed in terms of the thematic of the culture of building (the tectonic of column and wall for example) rather than the formal, and this through a discussion that is informed by the latest available theories. Having set the aesthetic implication of the processes of the digitalization of architecture, the book's conclusion highlights "strategies" by which architecture might postpone the full consequences of digitalization, and thus the becoming of architecture as ornament on its own right.

Architecture Competitions and the Production of Culture, Quality and Knowledge

Constructing Gardens, Cultivating the City is the first cultural history of major new parks developed in Paris in the late twentieth century, as part of the city's program of adaptive reuse of industrial spaces. Thanks to laws that gave the city more political autonomy, Paris's local government launched a campaign of park creation in the late 1970s that continued to the turn of the millennium. The parks in this book represent this campaign and illustrate different facets of their cultural and historical context. Archival research, interviews, and analyses of the parks reveal how postmodern debates about urban planning, the historic city, public space, and nature's presence in an urban setting influenced their designs. In sum, the city adopted the garden as a model for public parks, investing in complex, richly symbolic and representational spaces. These parks were intended to represent contemporary twists on traditional designs and serve local residents as much as they would contribute to Paris's role as a world city. The parks' development process often included points of conflict, pointing to differing views on what Parisian space should represent and fundamental contradictions between the characteristics of public space and the garden as it is traditionally defined. These parks demonstrate the ongoing cultivation of the city over time, in which transformed sites not only fulfil new functions but also engage with history and their surroundings to create new meaning. They stand for landscape as a form of signifying cultural production that directly engages with other art forms and ways of knowing. Just as the Luxembourg Gardens, the Tuileries, and the Buttes-Chaumont parks exemplify their eras' cultural dynamics, such parks as the Jardin Atlantique, Parc André-Citroën, and the Jardin des Halles express contemporary French culture within the archetypal space of their era, the city. Finally, they point the way to current trends in landscape architecture, such as citizen gardening and ecological initiatives.

Great City Parks

Looking back over the twentieth century, Hartoonian discusses the work of three major architects: Peter Eisenman, Frank Gehry and Bernard Tschumi, in reference to their theoretical positions and historicizes present architecture in the context of the ongoing secularization of the myths surrounding the traditions of nineteenth century architecture in general, and, in particular, Gottfried Semper's discourse on the tectonic. Providing a valuable contribution to the current debates surrounding architectural history and theory, this passionately written book makes valuable reading for any architect.

Architecture and Spectacle: A Critique

The derelict slaughterhouse of La Villette, located in the then notoriously rough northern Paris, became the unlikely focal point of every major architecture firm in the world when in 1971, the Paris city council decided to finance a major makeover. Recalling the genesis of one of the most ambitious architectural and social challenges in recent history, this book features exclusive interviews with the likes of Christian de Portzamparc and Rem Koolhaas, and offers numerous illustrations. It will please architecture lovers, but also appeal to socially-conscious readers interested in learning how a slum became a major cultural venue. A brilliant and unusual essay about architecture at its best, it is also a powerful political statement unafraid to tackle the burning issue of urban wastelands and how to give them a revitalized future.

Constructing Gardens, Cultivating the City

Drawing on the work of a wide range of architects, artists and writers, this book considers the relations between the architect and the user, which it compares to the relations between the artist and viewer and the author and reader. The book's thesis is informed by the text 'The Death of the Author', in which Roland Barthes argues for a writer aware of the creativity of the reader. Actions of Architecture begins with a critique of strategies that define the user as passive and predictable, such as contemplation and functionalism. Subsequently it considers how an awareness of user creativity informs architecture, architects and concepts of authorship in architectural design. Identifying strategies that recognize user creativity, such as appropriation, collaboration, disjunction, DIY, montage, polyvalence and uselessness, Actions of Architecture states that the creative user should be the central concern of architectural design.

Crisis of the Object

This book offers an exciting journey into the most recent architectural achievements, seen in their complexity and plurality, and described in the most objective and truthful way. The development of contemporary architecture is presented as it commenced more than a century ago, as it tried to reconcile democratic ideals with the forces of the Industrial Era. In contrast to many books on the modern-day art of building, the development of architecture is not described chronologically here, but, rather, independently for each selective architectural trend. This allows a better explanation of some evolutionary processes and the continuity of each trend. Thanks to such an approach, this book will serve as a convenient tutorial for courses on history of contemporary architecture in all art and architectural schools.

Operative Mapping investigates the use of maps as a design tool, providing insight with the potential to benefit education and practice in the design disciplines. The book's fundamental aim is to offer a methodological contribution to the design disciplines, both in conceptual and instrumental terms. When added to the resources of contemporary design, operative mapping overcomes the analytical and strictly instrumental approaches of maps, opening up the possibility of working both pragmatically and critically by acknowledging the need for an effective transformation of the milieu based on an understanding of pre-existing conditions. The approach is pragmatic, not only discussing the present but, above all, generating a toolbox to help expand on the objectives, methodologies and formats of design in the immediate future. The book joins together a review of the theoretical body of work on mapping from the social sciences with case studies from the past 30 years in architecture, planning and landscape design in the interest of linking past practices with future ones.

Actions of Architecture

The theme is related to "Large Parks on Post-industrial Sites in Contemporary Urban Landscape Conceptions", which is expounded in the fields of landscape architecture, landscape ecology and urban planning. A worldwide perspective is created so as to conduct cross-cultural research on the theories and practices of large-scale urban parks in North America, Germany and China. Through the scientific approach of 'critical rationalism', three design paradigms of large parks in different conceptions of contemporary urban landscapes are formulated based on quantitative and qualitative analysis, which are classified as the organic parks of North American 'landscape urbanism', the structural parks of German 'landscape structuralism' and the large parks of Chinese 'urban inventory renewal'. By means of critical thinking in diverse cultural interpretations, the research aims to reveal remarkable similarities and differences between the cultures in the Western world according to their understanding of landscapes (coherent vs. creative), landscape and ecology (representation vs. metaphor), and landscape and life (diversity vs. unpredictability). Through theoretical analysis and case studies, it demonstrates that the international park paradigms characterised by complexity, diversity, sustainability, appropriation and identity can influence various socio-cultural, ecological, and aesthetic developments. Finally, the analytical results of the two park paradigms in Western countries are adopted in the examination of landscape architectural park models and urbanistic theoretical frameworks in China. This monograph is written primarily for scholars, professionals and students in the fields of landscape architecture, urban planning and architecture. The book, involving in-depth analysis about urban parks, green open spaces, green infrastructure and post-industrial landscapes, will have international appeal. It will appeal to readers at different levels. Above all, it may be of interest to professionals who are concerned with the topics urban parks and post-industrial landscapes, as well as Chinese scholars and experts, particularly those looking at China's urban renewal and the ongoing transformation of post-industrial sites at different scales. This book will have strong implications for relevant urban landscape practices in China. Furthermore, it will be supported by the author's colleagues from various countries such as Germany, Italy, USA, Canada, Brazil and China. Moreover, students to whom the author teaches courses of Landscape Architecture History and Theory and Landscape Planning and Design at BUCEA, as well as the international students at Collaborative Classes organized by BUCEA, TUM, and POLIMI (Politecnico di Milano, Italy), are encouraged to read this book.

Contemporary Architecture

The remaining corner of an old farm, unclaimed by developers. The brook squeezed between housing plans. Abandoned railroad lines. The stand of woods along an expanded highway. These are the outposts of what was once a larger pattern of forests and farms, the "last landscape." According to William H. Whyte, the place to work out the problems of our metropolitan areas is within those areas, not outside them. The age of unchecked expansion without consequence is over, but where there is waste and neglect there is opportunity. Our cities and suburbs are not jammed; they just look that way. There are in fact plenty of ways to use this existing space to the benefit of the community, and The Last Landscape provides a practical and timeless framework for making informed decisions about its use. Called "the best study available on the problems of open space" by the New York Times when it first appeared in 1968, The Last Landscape introduced many cornerstone ideas for land conservation, urging all of us to make better use of the land that has survived amid suburban sprawl. Whyte's pioneering work on easements led to the passage of major open space statutes in many states, and his argument for using and linking green spaces, however small the areas may be, is a recommendation that has more currency today than ever before.

Operative Mapping

Topics covered in the book include the role of the state and civil society in the construction of civic spaces, aesthetic and architectural dimensions of realism, individual and collective uses of urban space, and how civic places constitute as well as represent the civic aspects of our lives. The examples, mostly from the modern period, include recent public spaces in Barcelona, several of the Grand Projects in Paris, neorealist projects in postwar Rome, contemporary transformations of the Manhattan grid, and Plecnik's water axis in prewar Ljubljana.

Large-Scale Urban Parks on Post-Industrial Sites in Contemporary Urban Landscape Conceptions

Architecture as imprint, as brand, as the new media of transformation—of places, communities, corporations, and people. In the twenty-first century, we must learn to look at cities not as skylines but as brandscapes and at buildings not as objects but as advertisements and destinations. In the experience economy, experience itself has become the product: we're no longer consuming objects but sensations, even lifestyles. In the new environment of brandscapes, buildings are not about where we work and live but who we imagine ourselves to be. In Brandscapes, Anna Klingmann looks critically at the controversial practice of branding by examining its benefits, and considering the damage it may do. Klingmann argues that architecture can use the concepts and methods of branding—not as a quick-and-easy selling tool for architects but as a strategic tool for economic and cultural transformation. Branding in architecture means the expression of identity, whether of an enterprise or a city; New York, Bilbao, and Shanghai have used architecture to enhance their images, generate economic growth, and elevate their positions in the global village. Klingmann looks at different kinds of brandscaping today, from Disneyland, Las Vegas, and Times Square—prototypes and case studies in branding—to Prada's superstar-architect-designed shopping epicenters and the banalities of Niketown. But beyond outlining the status quo, Klingmann also alerts us to the dangers of brandscapes. By favoring the creation of signature buildings over more comprehensive urban interventions and by severing their identity from the complexity of the social fabric, Klingmann argues, today's brandscapes have, in many cases, resulted in a culture of the copy. As experiences become more and more commodified, and the global landscape progressively more homogenized, it falls to architects to infuse an ever more aseptic landscape with meaningful transformations. How can architects use branding as a means to differentiate places from the inside out—and not, as current development practices seem to dictate, from the outside in? When architecture brings together ecology, economics, and social well-being to help people and places regain self-sufficiency, writes Klingmann, it can be a catalyst for cultural and economic transformation.

The Last Landscape

This book considers the post-68 French city as a prism through which to understand the contemporary world and France's specificity within it. The reader is invited to join in a series of exploratory strolls through texts, buildings, and neighborhoods, and thereby share in a process of discovery. Zeroing in on international architectural debates, a range of key Parisian exhibitions, and major urban design decisions in Paris, Montpellier, and Lille, Yaari unravels an often-acerbic French critique of both modern and postmodern positions on culture, technology, and the city. This critique—stemming from the competing claims of national identity, the ethics of architecture and display, and an anthropologically informed revision of prevailing views on the city—has sparked in France a passionate search for a third path, which the author proposes to term après-moderne. Breaking new ground in the field of French Studies through cultural analysis of the contemporary city, this study brings new insight to scholars and professionals in architecture and urbanism, and will interest all others for whom France and cities in general hold special appeal.

Civic Realism

Verbalising the Visual: Translating Art and Design into Words by Michael Clarke introduces readers to a broad range of language and terminology: formal and informal, academic and colloquial, global and local, all of which can be found in current art and design discourse. Exploring the complex relationship between language, objects and meaning, Verbalising the Visual shows students how to select and effectively employ language to present oral and written critical assessments of visual culture. It includes a variety of examples and case studies that explore the many ways in which language is used to discuss, describe, analyze and critically evaluate art and design.

From animals to robotization, climate change to migration, Rem Koolhaas presents a new collaborative project exploring how countryside everywhere is transforming beyond recognition. Rethinking the French City

The Routledge Companion to Contemporary Architectural History offers a comprehensive and up-to-date knowledge report on recent developments in architectural production and research. Divided into three parts – Practices, Interrogations, and Innovations – this book charts diversity, criticality, and creativity in architectural interventions to meet challenges and enact changes in different parts of the world through featured exemplars and fresh theoretical orientations. The collection features 29 chapters written by leading architectural scholars and highlights the reciprocity between the historical and the contemporary, research and practice, and disciplinary and professional knowledge. Providing an essential map for navigating the complex currents of contemporary architecture, the Companion will interest students, academics, and practitioners who wish to bolster their understanding of built environments.

Verbalising the Visual

Examines the influence of twentieth-century avant-garde movements on the contemporary architectural landscape through the work of “disruptors” such as Frank Gehry, Rem Koolhaas, and Zaha Hadid. With an irregular format designed by celebrated graphic designer Abbott Miller of Pentagram. In Architecture Unbound, noted architecture critic Joseph Giovannini proposes that our current architectural landscape ultimately emerged from transgressive and progressive art movements that had roiled Europe before and after World War I. By the 1960s, social unrest and cultural disruption opened the way for investigations into an inventive, antiauthoritarian architecture. Explorations emerged in the 1970s, and built projects surfaced in the 1980s, taking digital form in the 1990s, with large-scale projects finally landing on the far side of the millennium. Architecture Unbound traces all of these developments and influences, presenting an authoritative and illuminating history not only of the sources of contemporary currents in architecture but also of the twentieth-century avant-garde and the twenty-first-century digital revolution in form-making, and profiling the most influential practitioners and their most notable projects, including Frank Gehry's Guggenheim Bilbao and Walt Disney Concert Hall, Zaha Hadid's Guangzhou Opera House, Daniel Libeskind's master plan for the World Trade Center, Rem Koolhaas's CCTV Tower, and Herzog and de Meuron's Bird's Nest Olympic Stadium in Beijing.

Countryside

A comprehensive look at the eagerly anticipated New Acropolis Museum in Athens, Greece, and the celebrated collection it houses. Marking the opening of the New Acropolis Museum, this book examines both its architecture and the archaeological treasures it was built to house. The building addresses the dramatic complexities of the collection and the site with minimalist simplicity by using three main materials—glass, stainless steel, and concrete. "There's no way at the beginning of the twenty-first century you can try to imitate even superficially the art of 2,500 years ago," Tschumi says. The "precision of the concept was really what counted." The book provides an in-depth look at the creation of the building, set only 280 meters from the Parthenon, as well as the restoration, preservation, and housing of its exhibits through over 200 photographs, drawings, and texts.

The Routledge Companion to Contemporary Architectural History

This fascinating argument from Jonathan Hill presents the case for the significance and importance of the immaterial in architecture. Architecture is generally perceived as the solid, physical matter that it unarguably creates, but what of the spaces it creates? This issue drives Hill's explorative look at the immaterial aspects of architecture. The book discusses the pressures on architecture and the architectural profession to be respectively solid matter and solid practice and considers concepts that align architecture with the immaterial, such as the superiority of ideas over matter, command of drawing and design of spaces and surfaces. Focusing on immaterial architecture as the perceived absence of matter, Hill devises new means to explore the creativity of both the user and the architect, advocating an architecture that fuses the immaterial and the material and considers its consequences, challenging preconceptions about architecture, its practice, purpose, matter and use. This is a useful and innovative read that encourages architects and students to think beyond established theory and practice.

Architecture Unbound

Studying the relation of architecture to society, this book explains the manner in which the discipline of architecture adjusted itself in order to satisfy new pressures by society. Consequently, it offers an understanding of contemporary conditions and phenomena, ranging from the ubiquity of landmark buildings to the celebrity status of architects. It concerns the period spanning from 1966 to the first years of the current century – a period which saw radical change in economy, politics, and culture and a period in which architecture radically transformed, substituting the alleged dreariness of modernism with spectacle.

The New Acropolis Museum

Chora L Works documents the unprecedented collaboration, initiated in 1985, between philosopher Jacques Derrida and architect Peter Eisenman on a project for the Parc de la Villette in Paris. Woven into the volume are discussion transcripts, candid correspondence, and essays, as well as sketches, presentation drawings, and models. Derrida and Eisenman's design process was guided by Plato's chora text from the Timeaus; their unique reciprocal relationship was an interchange - and transformation - of voices.

Immaterial Architecture

Urban Design: A Typology of Procedures and Products, 2nd Edition provides a comprehensive and accessible introduction to urban design, defining the field and addressing the controversies and goals of urban design. Including over 50 updated international case studies, this new edition presents a three-dimensional model with which to categorize the processes and products involved: product type, paradigm type, and procedural type. The case studies not only illuminate the typology but provide information that designers can use as precedents in their own work. Uniquely, these case study projects are framed by the design paradigm employed, categorized by procedural type instead of instrumental or land use function. The categories used here are Total Urban Design, All-of-a-piece Urban Design, Plug-in Urban Design, and Piece-by-piece Urban Design. Written for both professionals and those encountering urban design in their day-to-day life, Urban Design is an essential introduction to the field and practice, considering the future direction of the field and what can be learned from the past.

Architecture, Crisis and Resuscitation

Continuing the themes that have been addressed in The Humanities in Architectural Design and The Cultural Role of Architecture, this book illustrates the important role that a contradiction between form and function plays in compositional strategies in architecture. The contradiction between form and function is seen as a device for poetic expression, for the expression of ideas, in architecture. The book contributes to the project of re-establishing architecture as a humanistic discipline, to re-establish an emphasis on the expression of ideas, and on the ethical role of architecture to engage the intellect of the observer and to represent human identity.

Pour bien découvrir La Réunion, il faut s'arracher à la pesanteur. Ce n'est que du ciel qu'on peut découvrir ces immensités vertes, ces vallées en coup de sabre, ces montagnes déchiquetées qui cachent leurs richesses au promeneur terrestre. Seule la dimension aérienne offre les vues d'ensemble qui permettent de comprendre le chaos géologique d'un cirque, de découvrir cette pente mousseuse qui est une forêt, de déceler des ravines là où l'eau, pourtant, ne semble jamais couler. C'est aussi un moyen d'aller, par le regard, en ces endroits inaccessibles où personne ne va jamais... C'est à ce voyage que vous invitent un jeune photographe né dans cette île, et qui l'aime, et un pilote d'engins à peine plus lourds que l'air, issu de trois générations de fous volants...

Cet ouvrage dresse un vaste panorama de la fabrication tant matérielle que scientifique de la Connaissance des temps, héritière des éphémérides de l'astronome Johannes Kepler. Elle est la plus ancienne des éphémérides astronomiques et nautiques, publiée sans discontinuité depuis 1679, et actuellement publiée par l'Institut de Mécanique Céleste et de Calcul des Ephémérides (IMCCE) à l'Observatoire de Paris. Placée par Louis XIV sous la responsabilité de l'Académie royale des sciences au tout début du XVIIIe siècle, elle a été ensuite publiée par le Bureau des longitudes, de 1795 à 1998. Le présent ouvrage laisse une large place aux rôles des différentes institutions, aux propos des acteurs de cette publication, astronomes, directeurs, imprimeurs-libraires, calculateurs et calculatrices de l'éphéméride. La Connaissance des temps a été profondément et durablement modifiée par l'astronome Jérôme Lalande au cours des années 1760 et ces modifications se sont faites sentir jusqu'à la seconde moitié du XXe siècle. La découverte de nouvelles archives inédites du Bureau des longitudes a permis de lever le voile sur les modalités de la concurrence avec le Nautical Almanac, l'éphéméride rivale de la Connaissance des temps. Plus de 140 calculateurs ont pu aussi être identifiés permettant d'étudier et d'humaniser considérablement la production d'une éphéméride astronomique de référence sur près de 250 années.

Cinema has been long associated with France, dating back to 1895, when Louis and Auguste Lumi_re screened their works, the first public viewing of films anywhere. Early silent pioneers Georges Méliès, Alice Guy Blaché and others followed in the footsteps of the Lumi_re brothers and the tradition of important filmmaking continued throughout the 20th century and beyond. In Encyclopedia of French Film Directors, Philippe Rège identifies every French director who has made at least one feature film since 1895. From undisputed masters to obscure one-timers, nearly 3,000 directors are cited here, including at least 200 filmmakers not mentioned in similar books published in France. Each director's entry contains a brief biographical summary, including dates and places of birth and death; information on the individual's education and professional training; and other pertinent details, such as real names (when the filmmaker uses a pseudonym). The entries also provide complete filmographies, including credits for feature films, shorts, documentaries, and television work. Some of the most important names in the history of film can be found in this encyclopedia, from masters of the Golden Age_Jean Renoir and RenZ Clair_to French New Wave artists such as Fran_ois Truffaut and Jean-Luc Godard.

"Supplément au Voyage de Bougainville" est une œuvre écrite par le philosophe et écrivain français Denis Diderot. Il a été rédigé dans la seconde moitié du XVIIIe siècle, mais il n'a pas été publié de son vivant en raison de ses aspects controversés. Ce texte est un dialogue entre deux personnages, un Tahitien et un Français, qui discutent des différences culturelles et des points de vue sur la société. L'œuvre explore la question de la moralité, de la civilisation et des rapports entre les cultures européennes et polynésiennes à l'époque de l'exploration. Denis Diderot était un des philosophes majeurs de l'époque des Lumières en France et l'un des principaux contributeurs de l'Encyclopédie. "Supplément au Voyage de Bougainville" s'inscrit dans le contexte de la philosophie des Lumières, remettant en question les préjugés et les valeurs de l'époque, tout en encourageant la tolérance et la compréhension interculturelle. Il est reconnu pour sa réflexion sur le relativisme culturel et la manière dont les sociétés européennes percevaient d'autres cultures lors de l'exploration du monde.

L'histoire urbaine en France

La mer, les marins, la marine marchande, la marine de guerre, la pêche : autant de termes qui évoquent un monde à part, l'aventure, les horizons lointains, l'homme qui se construit à l'épreuve du danger... pourvu qu'il soit question des flibustiers des temps héroïques de la voile. Car ce qui s'est passé sur les mers du globe depuis 1805 n'incite pas nécessairement au romantisme, qu'il s'agisse de la suprématie anglo-saxonne, des voiliers livrés à la rationalisation avant de céder la place aux navires mécanisés, de l'intégration des chemins de l'océan à une économie mondialisée, de la chasse industrielle aux cétacés ou du choc entre cuirassés puis entre porte-avions. Pour comprendre ce que fut le travail des gens de mer et ainsi mettre en perspective les réalités actuelles, il faut s'embarquer à bord des navires, étudier la logique technique de leur mise en oeuvre, s'intéresser au fonctionnement de leur espace socioprofessionnel. Il faut aussi pénétrer dans les bureaux des armateurs et des ministres de la marine. Le présent ouvrage invite à un tel voyage virtuel. La mer étant le monde de l'imprévu, il reprend le dossier d'événements maritimes célèbres (naufrages de la Méduse et du Titanic ; batailles de Trafalgar, de Midway, etc.), mais il propose aussi un éclairage concret sur des aspects plus méconnus telles l'intensification du travail à bord des voiliers rapides ou les relations sociales à bord d'un grand cuirassé. Les gens de mer, passeurs et nourriciers indispensables, ont su s'adapter à la révolution technique permanente, mais celle-ci va peut-être les faire disparaître des océans. On nous prédit la fin de la pêche en mer au profit de l'aquaculture. On nous prédit la mise en service de cargos et de porte-avions automatisés, sans personne à bord. Les verrons-nous bientôt croiser la route des derniers hommes à affronter la haute mer, les skippers des catamarans de compétition ? Jean-Louis Lenhof, agrégé d'histoire, docteur en histoire contemporaine, est maître de conférences à l'Université de Caen Basse-Normandie, où il co-dirige un pôle pluridisciplinaire d'études maritimes. Ses recherches portent sur la modernisation économique et la gestion de la main-d'oeuvre dans l'Europe du XIXe siècle, avec une attention plus particulière portée aux derniers voiliers de commerce au long cours. Les temps des révolutions (1780-1880). La situation à la fin du XVIIIe siècle et l'avènement de la suprématie britannique. La révolution de la vapeur et du fer « au commerce ». Hands-on science in the Age of Exploration. Winner of the John Lyman Book Award in Naval and Maritime Science and Technology by the North American Society for Oceanic History and the Leo Gershoj Prize by the American Historical Association Throughout the Age of Exploration, European maritime communities bent on colonial and commercial expansion embraced the complex mechanics of celestial navigation. They developed schools, textbooks, and instruments to teach the new mathematical techniques to sailors. As these experts debated the value of theory and practice, memory and mathematics, they created hybrid models that would have a lasting impact on applied science. In Sailing School, a richly illustrated comparative study of this transformative period, Margaret E. Schotte charts more than two hundred years of navigational history as she investigates how mariners solved the challenges of navigating beyond sight of land. She begins by outlining the influential sixteenth-century Iberian model for training and certifying nautical practitioners. She takes us into a Dutch bookshop stocked with maritime manuals and a French trigonometry lesson devoted to the idea that "navigation is nothing more than a right triangle." The story culminates at the close of the eighteenth century with a young British naval officer who managed to keep his damaged vessel afloat for two long months, thanks largely to lessons he learned as a keen student. This is the first study to trace the importance, for the navigator's art, of the world of print. Schotte interrogates a wide variety of archival records from six countries, including hundreds of published textbooks and never-before-studied manuscripts crafted by practitioners themselves. Ultimately, Sailing School helps us to rethink the relationship among maritime history, the Scientific Revolution, and the rise of print culture during a period of unparalleled innovation and global expansion.

Un serial killer poursuit son cycle macabre... Les enquêteurs pourront-ils l'arrêter ? Minuit. Quand le capitaine Dumoulin entre dans la petite villa d'un quartier paisible d'Orléans, il découvre une mise en scène macabre évoquant un meurtre rituel. Aucun doute, encore une victime de celui qu'on nomme déjà l'équarrisseur. Cette fois, les enquêteurs en ont la certitude, un fil ténu relie les assassinats : la Guyane. Appelée en renfort, l'officier de gendarmerie Adriana Wayakalin, amérindienne d'origine, s'envole pour Cayenne et la jungle des garimpeiros dans l'espoir d'empêcher d'autres crimes annoncés. Une enquête qui va la mener dans une spirale infernale. Ce thriller signé Yves-Marie et Nathalie Clément entraîne leur héroïne fétiche dans une nouvelle enquête sous le ciel de Guyane. EXTRAIT Déstabilisé, Jalabert jeta un coup d'oeil par-dessus la tête de l'Indien. L'autre restait impassible, les yeux dans les yeux de Jalabert, la main gauche fermement accrochée à la sangle d'un sac à dos bleu. Un éclat métallique le long de sa jambe attira son regard : une machette. Belkacem, Gauthier... lui, Lucas Jalabert, se trouvait aussi sur la liste... — Je tue, dit calmement l'Indien. Lucas Jalabert voulut refermer la porte. Trop tard. La foudre le transperça. Souffle coupé. Douleur fulgurante. Une violence sans égale. À PROPOS DE L'AUTEUR Yves-Marie et Nathalie Clément connaissent la Guyane pour y avoir vécu une dizaine d'années. Dans ce polar, ils font vivre une deuxième aventure à leur héroïne déjà mise en scène dans Terminal 2A.

Paroles de Rétais

Comme un photographe de mode dirige un mannequin, Philip Plisson semble commander aux vents et aux marées tant il sait mettre en valeur et refléter la personnalité des côtes de Bretagne, captant les plus beaux moments d'un paysage toujours changeant. Regroupant les volumes de l'Ille-et-Vilaine, des Côtes-d'Armor, du Finistère Nord et du Finistère Sud, ainsi que du Morbihan et de la Loire-Atlantique, cet album est une invitation au voyage entre ciel et mer, tout le long du littoral breton. De Nantes à Saint-Malo en passant par Saint-Nazaire, Quiberon, Lorient, Douarnenez et Saint-Brieuc, Philip Plisson a parcouru ces côtes de Bretagne au caractère si fort. Tantôt à pied, en promeneur attentif, tantôt en bateau, avec l'œil du pêcheur sur la mer, ou encore porté par les ailes d'un hélicoptère, ce pêcheur d'images dévoile toutes les facettes de la Bretagne, méritant bien, une fois de plus, son titre de Peintre de la Marine.

« La tête de Paul roula sur l'herbe tendre ». À Rome, en mars 68, dernière année du règne de Néron, Loukas assiste, impuissant, à l'exécution de son ami le plus cher. Un tourbillon d'images le saisit, toute l'odyssée de sa vie lui revient en mémoire. Vingt-sept années plus tôt, de retour d'Alexandrie après de brillantes études, Loukas a devant lui un avenir tout tracé. Issu d'une riche famille d'Antioche, le jeune homme épouse en effet les projets conçus par son père, s'installe comme médecin et se marie. Mais, deux ans plus tard, le double deuil de sa femme et de son enfant le plonge dans une intense crise spirituelle. Porté par le souffle prophétique du christianisme que prêche Paul de Tarse, Loukas demande le baptême et décide de tout abandonner pour suivre l'"apôtre des Nations". Leur périple missionnaire les conduira d'Antioche à Philippi, de Corinthe à Jérusalem, et jusqu'à Rome, où Paul, accusé de propager une nouvelle superstition\

Les mystères de l'Alsace du XIXe siècle sont dévoilés à travers les aventures d'un trio attachant. Une atmosphère mystérieuse, une enquête dans les ruines des châteaux de Ribeauvillé. Alsace, printemps 1826. Depuis quelques mois, Gaspard étudie le dessin comme il le désirait. Pourtant, enfermé dans une salle où les sujets sont imposés, il peine à travailler. Pour qu'il reprenne confiance en lui, Martin l'emmène avec Basile et Margot en expédition jusqu'aux ruines de Ribeauvillé. Mais leur séjour n'est pas aussi tranquille qu'ils l'imaginaient... Alors qu'une menace plane déjà au-dessus des trois amis depuis l'évasion de l'Anguille, deux précieuses coupes sont volées dans le trésor de la ville. Qui est le coupable? Le vieux Hans, dont tous se méfient? Un seigneur des Trois Châteaux revenu d'entre les morts? Et qui est ce pâle jeune homme dont la route croise un peu trop souvent celle de Gaspard, Basile et Margot? Autant d'énigmes à résoudre pour les compagnons de la cigogne!

La Charente-Maritime entre ciel & mer

STRASBOURG, 1825. Gaspard s'ennuie au Collège royal, et n'aime que le dessin. Il rêve de devenir sculpteur comme son père, et de veiller à son tour sur la cathédrale... même si l'on raconte qu'un lac mystérieux se cache sous ses fondations et que des morts y seraient condamnés à ramer pour l'éternité ! Afin de susciter l'admiration de son père, et des élèves du collège qui l'ignorent, Gaspard décide de partir à la recherche du légendaire lac des Damnés avec l'aide de son ami Basile, un jeune batelier de l'Ill. Mais un curieux personnage encapuchonné rôde dans la capitale alsacienne et semble déterminer à voir les deux garçons échouer, au point d'enlever la jolie Margot, la sœur de Basile...

Where does our dark side come from?

How to pursue that thing you've always wanted to do

The unseen importance of creating a sense of urgency

How to know if you're following a false purpose

Should a young person just be saying yes to everything?

How to manage other people that get in the way of what we want to do

Do we have to lie to be successful?

How to read someone's body language

A smile says loads about how someone feels about you

People's personalities are contagious

Frenemies, what they mean and how to spot one

What's the most controversial point from your book?

Does equality exist when we all strive for power?

Becoming the best, what it really means

Is death a motivator for you?

The importance of relationships

How to deal with dark thoughts

Advice for people going through self-doubt & hard moments

Why did you write this book, The Sublime?

THE 33 STRATEGIES OF WAR

DECLARE WAR ON YOUR ENEMIES

DO NOT FIGHT THE LAST WAR

AMIDST THE TURMOIL OF EVENTS, DO NOT LOSE YOUR PRESENCE OF MIND

CREATE A SENSE OF URGENCY AND DESPERATION

AVOID THE SNARES OF GROUPTHINK

SEGMENT YOUR FORCES

TRANSFORM YOUR WAR INTO A CRUSADE

PICK YOUR BATTLES CAREFULLY

TURN THE TABLES

CREATE A THREATENING PRESENCE

TRADE SPACE FOR TIME

LOSE BATTLES, BUT WIN THE WAR

KNOW YOUR ENEMY

OVERWHELM RESISTANCE WITH SPEED AND SUDDENNESS

CONTROL THE DYNAMIC

HIT THEM WHERE IT HURTS

DEFEAT THEM IN DETAIL

EXPOSE AND ATTACK YOUR OPPONENT'S SOFT FLANK

ENVELOP THE ENEMY

MANEUVERING THEM INTO WEAKNESS

NEGOTIATE WHILE ADVANCING

KNOW HOW TO END THINGS

WEAVE A SEAMLESS BLEND OF FACT AND FICTION

TAKE THE LINE OF LEAST EXPECTATION

OCCUPY THE MORAL HIGH GROUND

DENY THEM TARGETS

SEEM TO WORK FOR THE INTERESTS OF OTHERS WHILE FURTHERING YOUR OWN

GIVE YOUR RIVALS ENOUGH ROPE TO HANG THEMSELVES

TAKE SMALL BITES

PENETRATE THEIR MINDS

DESTROY FROM WITHIN

DOMINATE WHILE SEEMING TO SUBMIT

SOW UNCERTAINTY AND PANIC THROUGH ACTS OF TERROR

It was intense. He walked me through the nine seduction, types in ...

Intro

Introduction to this week's guest Robert Greene

How Robert got interested in writing about power and strategy.

Common manipulation techniques

The difficulty of being honest

The ruthless industry and power structures of Hollywood and the music industry.

The 48 Laws of Power

Using power without being evil or manipulative.

Robert's favorite laws

"You think that the person above you, your boss, he or she seems so powerful and in control, you don't realize that they have insecurities, that they have an ego, that they have weaknesses and vulnerabilities. You assume that if you say something a little ambiguous that they laugh it off because they are above you and don't care about what you think or say, but the truth is the higher up you go in any hierarchy, the more insecure you become." Robert Greene

The Art of Seduction

The nine seduction types

The Star

Quote on seduction types. "You have one of these qualities in you; it's natural to you; you were born with it. Seduction isn't about beauty. It's about understanding human psychology." Robert Greene

The Coquette

The Natural

"Revealing to that other person that you have fallen under their spell is almost the most seductive thing you can do because it is deeply, deeply exciting to feel that that other person is charmed by us, but in order to do that, you have to be vulnerable." Robert Greene

Tips on being vulnerable

The negative lash back from Robert Greene's books.
