

Muslims Parenting On Purpose Volume 1

#Muslim parenting #Islamic parenting #purposeful parenting #raising children Islam #Muslim family guidance

Discover the foundational principles of purposeful Muslim parenting with Muslims Parenting On Purpose Volume 1. This essential guide offers profound insights and practical strategies for raising children within an Islamic framework, empowering parents to cultivate strong, faith-centered families. Learn how to imbue every aspect of your Muslim family guidance with intention and divine wisdom, ensuring your children grow into well-rounded individuals grounded in their deen.

Thousands of students rely on our textbook collection to support their coursework and exam preparation.

Thank you for accessing our website.

We have prepared the document Muslim Parenting Purpose just for you.

You are welcome to download it for free anytime.

The authenticity of this document is guaranteed.

We only present original content that can be trusted.

This is part of our commitment to our visitors.

We hope you find this document truly valuable.

Please come back for more resources in the future.

Once again, thank you for your visit.

This is among the most frequently sought-after documents on the internet.

You are lucky to have discovered the right source.

We give you access to the full and authentic version Muslim Parenting Purpose free of charge.

MUSLIMS PARENTING ON PURPOSE VOLUME 1

This book on lays the foundation for more effective parenting by equipping parents with the skills, principles, and strategies they will need for raising well rounded and conscious Muslims. In order to empower, equip, and engage effectively, there are rules that must be followed and decisions that need to be made. This book spells out a great roadmap that can be customized to you as a parent while also providing access to excellent online resources as a training companion. OutstandingMuslimParents.com along with Nazir provide a plethora of resources for parents which has been otherwise almost impossible to attain in one place.

The Child in Islam

This book is a mothers' book—not that it can't be read by fathers as well—the outgrowth of a mothers' study group which met in Kuwait before the Gulf War, focused on rearing children in an Islamic way. The mothers were mostly American and British converts to Islam, although in cosmopolitan Kuwait there were women from many other backgrounds. The group was an offshoot of meetings for English-speaking Muslim women, held weekly in the home of Sister Zainab Ashry in Kuwait for more than ten years prior to the Gulf War. From their knowledge of Islam, the women involved wanted to study the implications of their faith on their child-rearing practices. The first step was to collect information—any Qur'anic verse or hadith—that a participant found relevant. Other information was collected from such knowledgeable people and books as were available. Monthly discussions were organized on different topics. Since the war, some of the participating sisters have returned to Kuwait, but many of our group are now scattered all over the world. All the notes and papers collected by the study group were in my home in Kuwait when the invasion occurred; fortunately my husband was able to salvage them and bring them here to our new home in the States. I felt an obligation to compile this collected information to share with other Muslims, especially converts like myself. My deepest thanks must go to my husband, whose support and cooperation gave me the means to carry out this task. This book begins with the birth of a child to Muslim parents, and the traditional Islamic response to the birth, following the example of Prophet Muhammad (S). Very few specific actions are defined, and these mostly relate to practices at the time of birth. All of these fall into the category of sunnah (following the Prophet's example or what he approved of in others), and though highly recommended, they are not fard (obligatory) actions. Aside from these few simple practices carried out when a baby comes into the world, Islam has no ceremonies devoted exclusively to children—no first communion, no coming-of-age celebrations. Children are not segregated into a special world separate from that of adults; they are members of families in the great, embracing cycle of human life. The family supports them when they are young; they support the family in their productive years, and in old age they are again supported by the family. They grow and develop gradually in a system that encourages growth and learning, but places little emphasis on milestones and anniversaries. A large portion of this book is given to defining relationships from the Qur'an and hadith. To understand the significance of the child in Muslim society, it is necessary to recognize the total number and value of his or her relationships within it, which are different from the relationships defined by other societies. Chapter 1 includes some of the traditions of the Prophet Muhammad that apply to the newborn. Chapter 2 describes the nature of the child's relationship with Allah and the spiritual world, with some suggestions for encouraging spiritual awareness. Chapter 3 contains Qur'anic verses and ahadith relevant to the child's relationship with his or her parents. In light of these definitions, and with reference to the Islamic teachings concerning morals, manners, and the purpose of life, an attempt is made in chapters 4, 5, and 6 to present an organized structure dealing with the practical how-to of rearing a child in an Islamic way, from a parent's viewpoint. Chapters Introduction ix 7 and 8 progressively broaden out the child's world by adding brothers and sisters, extended family, and community relationships. The practical suggestions for improving relationships among adult family members, in order to pave the way for improving the child's relations with his or her extended family, are an important aspect of chapter 8. The only relationship which really changes for the child as he or she grows up is that of accountability to Allah, since no child is accountable for his or her actions before reaching the age of understanding. All other relationships develop and deepen as the child grows but remain basically the same, for the general commands to honor parents, show respect to elders, be gentle with younger ones, and honor family ties continue for a Muslim throughout his or her life. I pray to Allah that this book may bring only good to mothers and their children, and that He protect them from any mistakes or misunderstandings. I have done my best to prepare the material contained within it in a suitable manner and hope to see other literature published on this important subject, expanding and enriching it. While I alone am responsible for the contents, I am deeply indebted to the many sisters who helped collect references and discussed the practical implications of our findings. I have no list to prompt me and consequently may have unwittingly forgotten some names, but I well remember Terry, Lianna, Salma, Noura, Mia, Khadijah, Sandra, Hicleir, Debbie, Sara, Maryam, Aneesah, Dianne, Karen, Kauthar and Nawal from Kuwait, all of us working together on this project. My friend Daaiyah Saleem in Ohio has also been very helpful, offering many suggestions for improvement and clarification as she aided in proofreading. My sister-in-law Ghada, of course, has helped along the way. In the course of preparing this book for publication, sister Zeba Siddiqui was chosen by the publisher to edit the text. I have known Zeba, a mother of four and a grandmother, and author of several excellent childrens' books as well as the THE CHILD IN ISLAM Parent's Manual: A Guide for Muslim Parents Living in North America, for several years. When I heard she had taken on this task, I asked her to add anything she felt was missing, from her years of experience and knowledge of the subject. She has supplied all of the hadith reference numbers in the text, in itself an enormous task. In addition to editing, she has filled out and amplified several topics, checking and adding material where needed. The sections on the Hereafter, tahara, respect for religion, and hospitality are prepared and written by her. It was only fair therefore that her name should appear on the title page of this book in recognition of her valuable contribution. I am deeply grateful to her for her help and input. I also need to thank my children, who suffered through my learning experience and projects for self-improvement in parenting skills, and my mother, whose life-long interest in the growth and development of children helped me understand the importance of the matter and the need for a book such as this. A final note, to the book's non-Muslim readers: I have chosen to use the word Allah throughout the book instead of the word God. The words are interchangeable in English for Muslims, but all of the women involved in this project have the habit, indeed, they have the love of referring to God, the God of Abraham, Moses, Jesus, and Muhammad, by His Arabic name, Allah.

Marriage holds a position of perpetual significance because of the central role it plays in human life. It is not surprising, therefore, that the scholars of Islam have discussed it extensively through the ages. Under the contemporary influence of non-Islamic cultures, however, misconceptions have crept into various areas of Islam - spilling into marriage, divorce, and other family-related matters. Viewing the needs of the Muslims who live in non-Islamic environments, and realizing that most Islamic writings on marriage are restricted in scope, we find quite a large gap that needs to be filled for the benefit of the English-speaking Muslims - which is what we attempt to accomplish over the span of this 4-book set that covers various aspects of marriage according to the authentic Sunnah. This book covers the obligations of the two spouses, the wife's rights, and the husband's rights. It contains biographies of the Mothers of the Believers, paints very realistic pictures from the life of the Prophet Mohammed with his wives and the interpretation of the hadith of Umm Zar.

Raising a Muslim Child

I believe that parenting is a serious job which must be undertaken consciously; clearly understanding what it entails. Children have a right to have good parents who can be role models for them and who can not only teach them the tools to succeed in this life, but also to take from the treasures of Allah and succeed in the life to come. Whether you like it or not, you are your child's role model. Your choice is to decide what kind of role model you want to be - one that they can look up to or one that they have to look down on. Children listen with their eyes. They don't care what you say until they see what you do. Today, young Muslim parents are anxious to ensure that their children are brought up as practicing Muslims and are a credit to themselves and their parents. This little book is a consolidation of all the things that I have said to people in answer to their questions.

Parent-Child Relations

This easy-to-read, comprehensive guide contains what you need to know on how to parent with confidence. Packed with advice and powerful tips, using the latest research on child development and parenting techniques, it offers a mine of information on how to let children flourish, take the frustration out of parenting and develop happy family relations. Authors provide guidance on developing character, knowledge, values, and skills, as well as a faith-based outlook in children, benefitting parents with kids of all ages. Many strategies and techniques offered include: teaching children how to problem-solve, make decisions, and develop self-esteem. Raising God conscious, moral, successful children, with a sense of civic responsibility in today's world is not easy. It is also not impossible. Effective parenting is the key.

Watering the Roots: A 1-2-3 Parent Wellbeing Guide (a Muslim Perspective)

This book is written out of a deep concern for the wellbeing of young people, in particular, Muslim children living in the West. The author offers a concise one-two-three step guide to improve parents' wellbeing first and foremost and, in turn, better nurture the next generation. This guide draws on Aminah's personal experiences as a parent and teacher. It is informed by her Master's and PhD research in parenting Muslim children and wellbeing support services in Australian Islamic schools, respectively. Within this book, Aminah offers some practical ways for caregivers, Muslims and non-Muslims alike, who are seeking to adopt a simplified framework to improve their own wellbeing, that will also positively impact their parenting.

Positive Parenting in the Muslim Home

The Islamic tradition is rich with values that parents strive to imbue in their children: respect, responsibility, integrity, love and more. Parenting is all too often filled with sleepless nights, tears, and anxiety followed by endless doubts: "Did I do my best?" "What could I have done differently?" "Am I responsible?" Positive Discipline, a philosophy conceptualized by Dr. Jane Nelsen, provides a powerful model for channeling parenting struggles into proven methods that yield results. Positive Parenting in the Muslim Home addresses real challenges faced by real families. This comprehensive book is essential for parents, caregivers, and educators seeking to nurture a grounded parent-child relationship built on connection. It is a book of home. It invites the reader to: - Approach parenting in Islam as a process of love and guidance - Apply Positive Discipline tools to nurture Islamic values in matters of faith, relationships, and everyday life - Empower children to be responsible, capable and proactive individuals - Address sensitive issues constructively, including sex, drugs, bullying, and youth radicalization - Resolve conflicts by focusing on solutions rather than punishments Authors Noha Alshugairi and Munira Lekovic Ezzeldine share timeless principles, describe 49 effective parenting tools, and guide through various parenting challenges. Their experience spans all stages of development from birth to adulthood. The authors masterfully transform theoretical Islamic principles into living realities.

Understand Your Child's Development

What does it mean to be a middle-class Muslim kid in India today? Talking to over a hundred children and their parents across twelve cities, Nazia Erum uncovers stories of religious segregation in classrooms and rampant bullying of Muslim children in many of the country's top schools.

Mothering a Muslim

Despite the growing multi-faith and multi-ethnic nature of Britain, there is insufficient knowledge about diversity in family practices across ethno-religious groups. This book fills that gap, exploring family practices – values, roles, relationships, support systems and daily routines – among South Asian Muslim families in Britain.

Family Practices in South Asian Muslim Families

In today's secular world, how can we, as parents of young children, impart upon them the same love for Allah and His Prophet that our parents gifted us, that will help nurture them to be practicing Muslims and good people? This book is meant to serve as a resource for parents, to teach our children basic aspects of our faith. It will also help us delve deeper, so our children gain an understanding of the Divine Wisdom behind these tenants and the everyday things we say and do. There are over 50 short chapters, including: · Allah – the One, True God · What did the Prophet (peace be upon him) look like? · Qur'an – the final Revelation · How should we spend our time? · Learning to control our anger · How should we treat our neighbours? · How important is it to tell the truth? · Mash'Allah – being happy for others and not feeling jealous · What will happen to good Muslims after they die? Each chapter is written in easy to understand English, with questions and activities to help enhance reflection and understanding.

Teach your child Islam, Iman, and Ihsan

Advice for parents, supported by the Hadith and Quran, on the upbringing and training of Children. This book is one of the many Islamic publications distributed by Ahlulbayt Organization throughout the world in different languages with the aim of conveying the message of Islam to the people of the world. Ahlulbayt Organization (www.shia.es) is a registered Organization that operates and is sustained through collaborative efforts of volunteers in many countries around the world, and it welcomes your involvement and support. Its objectives are numerous, yet its main goal is to spread the truth about the Islamic faith in general and the Shi'a School of Thought in particular due to the latter being misrepresented, misunderstood and its tenets often assaulted by many ignorant folks, Muslims and non-Muslims. Organization's purpose is to facilitate the dissemination of knowledge through a global medium, the Internet, to locations where such resources are not commonly or easily accessible or are resented, resisted and fought! In addition, For a complete list of our published books please refer to our website (www.shia.es) or send us an email to info@shia.es

Principles of Upbringing Children

This is a "household" book with 30 Chapters written for Muslim parents on the important subject of the Upbringing of Children with the application of Simple Psychology, Broad Parental Vision and Islamic Values. The Book is useful to the parents in helping their children develop a strong personality and assert it fully in the adult life to fare well in the society for a dignified survival as human life gets more complex with newer challenges and a wider spectrum of competition . Publisher: Tabligh Centre, Dar es Salaam First Edition: December, 2002 This book is one of the many Islamic publications distributed by Ahlulbayt Organization throughout the world in different languages with the aim of conveying the message of Islam to the people of the world. Ahlulbayt Organization (www.shia.es) is a registered Organization that operates and is sustained through collaborative efforts of volunteers in many countries around the world, and it welcomes your involvement and support. Its objectives are numerous, yet its main goal is to spread the truth about the Islamic faith in general and the Shia School of Thought in particular due to the latter being misrepresented, misunderstood and its tenets often assaulted by many ignorant folks, Muslims and non-Muslims. Organization's purpose is to facilitate the dissemination of knowledge through a global medium, the Internet, to locations where such resources are not commonly or easily accessible or are resented, resisted and fought! In addition, For a complete list of our published books please refer to our website (www.shia.es) or send us an email to info@shia.es

Child Psychology

No further information has been provided for this title.

Bringing Up Children in Islaam [sic]

When Allah sends us a baby, it is a gift from Him, and we receive the new child with joy. There is a blessing in this gift. This may not be the child we imagined, but this is the child Allah knew was good for us. The child is born pure, with no sins, and no sin will be recorded for him or her until the child reaches the age of understanding. How can we best remain true to this immense trust Allah has placed in us by granting us this child? What parenting methods align with the Qur'an and the example of Prophet Muhammad (s)? How do we grow in closeness to Allah as we guide our child in growth? Allah does not leave us without guidance. The author engages religious texts, parenting methods and gives practical examples as she discusses Muslim family life. This book is written for Muslims today, and it may be especially useful for those families struggling to raise their children in a place in which Muslims are a minority population. The eternal inspiration of the Qur'an and Hadith, combined with examples in the real world, make this book a great resource for mothers and fathers, book clubs and study circles, and discussions with family and friends. Norma Tarazi has over forty years of experience raising and educating children. She is a mother, grandmother, and teacher, and she has worked in school and daycare settings. This book encompasses her experience, insights, and vision about how a Muslim family can thrive in our world today. The author is a convert to Islam and has been active in the Central Ohio Muslim community for years as a teacher and community activist. Drawing on inspiration and knowledge from the Qur'an and Sunnah and also incorporating her vast personal experience, Norma Tarazi educates and inspires those who strive to be true to the trust of raising children in the Islamic tradition. This book is a must-read for anyone guiding Muslim children in the modern context.

A Guide to Parenting in Islam

How to instruct your child to pray without bringing a negative connotation to salah, is a question many parents ask. The book, Teach Your Child Salah and Make It Stick! is a Muslim parent's must-have read. It is written by a parent of six who shares her approach of teaching salah to her own children. You'll find tips on how to get your child more motivated to pray from a veteran and experienced parent of many kids. In This Book You Will Learn: - Valuable advice on what works and what doesn't when teaching your child salah. - How to teach salah to your child with love and understanding for younger and older kids. - 25 Ways to teach your child to perform salah with more success inshallah! This book is not about the fiqh (method) of teaching a child to make salah, rather it is a manual to assist a parent on how they can instruct and motivate their child to pray more effectively.

Practical Parenting for Muslims

As a minority group in North America Muslims are preoccupied with how to preserve their Islamic identity in their children. With schools playing no role in instilling ethical norms and values in children it becomes the responsibility of the family to undertake that role. The book is an excellent guide on how to take on that role in a holistic Islamic tarbiyyah.

Teach Your Child Salah

This book is one of the many Islamic publications distributed by Mustafa Organization throughout the world in different languages with the aim of conveying the message of Islam to the people of the world. Mustafa Organization is a registered Organization that operates and is sustained through collaborative efforts of volunteers in many countries around the world, and it welcomes your involvement and support. Its objectives are numerous, yet its main goal is to spread the truth about the Islamic faith in general and the Shi'a School of Thought in particular due to the latter being misrepresented, misunderstood and its tenets often assaulted by many ignorant folks, Muslims and non-Muslims. Organization's purpose is to facilitate the dissemination of knowledge through a global medium, the Internet, to locations where such resources are not commonly or easily accessible or are resented, resisted and fought!

Meeting the Challenge of Parenting in the West

Parenting is a highly challenging and rewarding experience at the same time. As infants and toddlers morph into young adults, parents can sometimes get overwhelmed by the duties and responsibilities that they have to fulfill in raising them. Muslim parents believe that raising children as righteous, morally upright Muslims is an obligation. So they might often think, "Am I raising them right?" This easy-to-read, concise book imparts advice to parents about how to raise their children in the light of Islam. It talks about many important issues that can help them successfully raise righteous children, such as identifying early signs of success, knowing the leadership mistakes that they should try to avoid, how to help their children safeguard prayers; how they should respect their teenagers' privacy, and how they can train them to handle various aspects of practical adult life, such as marriage and running a household. Buy this book now, if you want to gain more insight into how to raise righteous Muslim children!

Principles of Upbringing Children

This is an aid for parents to help bring up their pre-school age children in an Islamic setting. It offers advice from the Qur'an and Sunnah to the busy parent about a variety of issues from how to create a child-friendly, Islamic home environment right through to how to deal with a disruptive child.

Raising Righteous Muslims

The answers to the FAQs in this book represent crucial issues of concern occupying the minds of many parents. The methodology used in answering these questions draws heavily on verses of the Qur'an, teachings of Prophet Muhammad, and events in his Seerah, as well as the authors' wealth of practical experience.

The Muslim Parent's Guide to the Early Years

In "Raising Muslim Children in the Western World: A Quranic Approach to Parenting," the author addresses the challenges faced by Muslim parents in raising their children in a Western environment. This book provides valuable insights on how to raise children in a way that adheres to Islamic principles and values, while also integrating into Western culture. The book is divided into six main sections. The first section, "Introduction," provides background information on the topic and outlines the purpose and benefits of the book. The second section, "The Context of Raising Muslim Children in the Western World," highlights the challenges and difficulties that Muslim parents face in a Western society and stresses the importance of a Quranic approach to parenting. The third section, "Basic Principles of Education in Islam," discusses the concept of education in Islam and emphasizes religious education as the foundation of Muslim child education. The fourth section, "The Quran as a Source of Education in Muslim Families," focuses on the importance of the Quran in child education and provides guidance on how to read, memorize, and understand Quranic teachings with children. The fifth section, "Quranic Approach to Parenting Muslim Children in the Western World," presents a comprehensive guide to raising children according to Islamic principles. It covers topics such as understanding the role of parents as educators, educating children with love and respect, balancing children's obligations and needs, and introducing the concepts of halal and haram to children. The section also emphasizes the importance of motivating children to build a connection with Allah SWT and to be independent, critical, and creative individuals. The final section, "Overcoming Challenges in Raising Muslim Children in the Western World," addresses the challenges faced by Muslim families in maintaining their Islamic identity and beliefs in a Western environment. It also provides guidance on how to maintain family togetherness and effective communication while balancing Western and Islamic lifestyle needs. Overall, "Raising Muslim Children in the Western World: A Quranic Approach to Parenting" is an invaluable resource for Muslim parents who seek to raise their children according to Islamic principles in a Western society. It provides practical advice and guidance on how to instill Islamic values in their children while navigating the challenges of the Western world.

Answers to Frequently Asked Questions on Parenting:

No further information has been provided for this title.

Raising Muslim Children in the Western World

Islam places great emphasis on the child, right from infancy to the age of puberty. The reason for this is to prepare him to become a good member of the community. Children learn more by example than by words. Telling our children what to do and not showing them by a good example is a hypocritical act and drives children to confusion and away from us. It is for this reason we are presenting this booklet as a guideline for those parents who are concerned about their present and future offspring

A Guide to Parenting in Islam

Raising a child as a Muslim is getting harder in today's fast changing world. Whether you live in the West or in a Muslim country, concerned parents are struggling to create that balanced child that can be perfect for this world and the hereafter. After all, if God created us, has He not done so perfectly? Learn from an experienced mother of three teenagers and a youth mentor the steps needed to create that Perfect Muslim Child. A child you will be happy with and inshallah God will be happy with. Discover different methods required for each age group and how to balance yourself and your child during challenging moments. This book is an easy and contemporary read for anyone who wants to get started to correct themselves in their parenting or to start parenting before they are deep into it. Written primarily with a Muslim audience in mind, this book could help any parent with several techniques that they might have missed out on.

Muslim Teens

The first book in the exciting middle-grade series starring a Muslim boy with a huge imagination—now in paperback! Welcome to the imaginative brain of Omar! Omar and his family have just moved, and he is NOT excited about starting at a new school. What if the work is too hard or the kids are mean or the teacher is a zombie alien?! But when Omar makes a new best friend, things start looking up. That is, until a Big Mean Bully named Daniel makes every day a nightmare! Daniel even tells Omar that all Muslims are going to be kicked out of the country . . . Could that possibly be true? Luckily, Omar's enormous imagination and goofy family help him get through life's ups and downs. Omar's funny, relatable narrative is the perfect answer to the call for both mirrors and windows to fill bookshelves with diverse stories. An NPR Best Book of the Year A Kirkus Best Book of the Year A USBBY Outstanding International Book Selection A Top 10 NYPL Best Book of the year A Middle East Book Award Nominee A Fuse #8 Great Middle Grade Novels of 2020 list A Bluestem Book Award Nominee (Illinois) A Maine Student Book Award Nominee A Sasquatch Award Nominee (Washington)

Guidelines For Raising Children

Children are without doubt an amazing blessing of Allah Ta'ala. With their arrival while still being unable to speak, they give their parents a very powerful message: that the roles of these two individuals have now forever changed. From being a carefree youthful couple they have now transformed into a caring set of parents, whom the child will soon lovingly refer to as mum and dad. But as every parent knows, with children also comes an enormous responsibility that had never before been experienced. The parents both collectively and as individuals are now responsible for a life other than their own. O you who believe! Save yourselves and your families from a fire whose fuel is men and stones. at Tahrim 66:6 The above injunction of the Qur'an gives magnitude to the responsibility that accompanies parenthood. This has been further explained by the Prophet of Allah Ta'ala: Everyone of you is a shepherd (over your families), and every one of you will be questioned about his flock. al-Bukhari and Muslim It is clear that if anything has a divine injunction, it is no small matter. We should understand from this that if we are negligent of this duty of upbringing children then both we and our offspring, and in turn, their offspring will suffer in both this world and the Hereafter. If on the other hand we are vigilant and attentive to the responsibilities involved, we, our children and in turn their children will benefit. This benefit will be in this world, in the form of mutual love, affection and caring and also in the Hereafter through attaining the eternal pleasure of Allah Ta'ala. This booklet touches upon various issues revolving around bringing up children. Through this we hope that our children will become a means of directly benefitting their parents in both the worlds and also benefit Muslims in general. It is hoped that it will be an eyeopener for parents and allow them a more complete and deeper understanding of Islam, and what Islam says regarding children.

The Perfect Muslim Child

You're a big kid now so you should know. Big kids use the potty when they need to go. Muslims, big or small, must wash properly after they poo or pee. Rhyme along and you'll learn and see! This book, written in rhyme, serves as a gentle and fun introduction to potty training and Islamic toilet etiquette for little Muslims and Muslimahs. It aims to introduce and normalize "Muslim potty training," which includes istinja, to your child. Istinja is the act of cleaning oneself with water and then wiping oneself dry after using the bathroom. Muslims do this to keep themselves physically and spiritually clean and pure or in a state of Tahara.

Planet Omar: Accidental Trouble Magnet

Are you looking for a God-conscious husband who will be compatible with you? Getting married is one of the most important decisions of your life. So, before you embark on your marriage journey, you need answers so you have clarity and the confidence to find a compatible husband. Smart Single Muslimah is a thought provoking Muslim marriage guide for Muslim women. In the book, you'll discover: How to find a husband How to find out if you are compatible What questions to ask a potential spouse? How to deal with disappointment Adopting a smart Islamic approach to relationships is about following some simple prophetic principles that will help you change your habits and attitudes about getting married. If you want honest pre-marriage advice that addresses contemporary issues you're facing. Then you'll love Farhat Amin's perceptive book. Buy Smart Single Muslimah to begin your marriage journey today!

The Upbringing of Children

This easy-to-read, comprehensive guide contains what you need to know on how to parent with confidence. Packed with advice and powerful tips, using the latest research on child development and parenting techniques, it offers a mine of information on how to let children flourish, take the frustration out of parenting and develop happy family relations. Authors provide guidance on developing character, knowledge, values, and skills, as well as a faith-based outlook in children, benefitting parents with kids of all ages. The many strategies and techniques offered include teaching children how to problem-solve, make decisions, and develop self-esteem. Raising God conscious, moral, successful children, with a sense of civic responsibility in today's world is not easy. It is also not impossible. Effective parenting is the key.

My First Muslim Potty Book

This easy-to-read, comprehensive guide contains what you need to know on how to parent with confidence. Packed with advice and powerful tips, using the latest research on child development and parenting techniques, it offers a mine of information on how to let children flourish, take the frustration out of parenting and develop happy family relations. Authors provide guidance on developing character, knowledge, values, and skills, as well as a faith-based outlook in children, benefitting parents with kids of all ages. The many strategies and techniques offered include teaching children how to problem-solve, make decisions, and develop self-esteem. Raising God conscious, moral, successful children, with a sense of civic responsibility in today's world is not easy. It is also not impossible. Effective parenting is the key.

Smart Single Muslimah

This easy-to-read, comprehensive guide contains what you need to know on how to parent with confidence. Packed with advice and powerful tips, using the latest research on child development and parenting techniques, it offers a mine of information on how to let children flourish, take the frustration out of parenting and develop happy family relations. Authors provide guidance on developing character, knowledge, values, and skills, as well as a faith-based outlook in children, benefitting parents with kids of all ages. The many strategies and techniques offered include: teaching children how to problem-solve, make decisions, and develop self-esteem. Raising God conscious, moral, successful children, with a sense of civic responsibility in today's world is not easy. It is also not impossible. Effective parenting is the key.

Bringing Up Children In Islam

This book is based not only on years of specialised study in this field but also reflects my own personal experiences in a family filled with children over 30 years of married life. I was brought up in a conservative and deeply religious family in the Indian subcontinent. I had my own turbulent experiences of helping my wife raise our own six children, initially in a simple Asian/African community in Kenya, and later in the complex multicultural environment of Britain. Through the progress of my progeny from school to university, I learned of the British educational system, from the egalitarian approach of modern comprehensive schools, an idealistic concept often defeated by lack of funding, to the elitist and successful private sector which insists on rigorous discipline, tradition and high academic achievement. Life in Britain opens the door to a myriad of contrasts in value systems, customs, races and beliefs. The Muslim discovers that his Islamic values and faith are not only alien to the dominant western culture throughout the society, but that the two insist on locking horns in battle. This struggle of two opposing yet equally dogmatic belief systems engulfs and threatens to drown the Muslims. Some fortunate ones swim through the ocean of parenthood with smiling faces, having successfully negotiated the obstacles thrown their way. They smile because not only have they survived the test with their own faith and values intact, but have also succeeded in transmitting their beliefs and norms to their children. Imagine the content and sense of achievement parents must feel when observing their adult children who too share the same love and devotion to the Mosque, the Quran and the many Islamic precepts. In a world obsessed with materialism and denial of God, this is truly a great achievement. Unhappily there are many more parents who flounder and sink, who do not share this sense of achievement and jubilation, and who weep with sorrow and failure when observing their own offspring: aged parents confronted with the dreadful spectacle of their indecently dressed daughter going to the pub with her arms around her current boyfriend, or their beloved son who buys the attentions of street women and even fathers illegitimate children. These parents feel as if the earth is dropping from under their feet and they are being swallowed by quicksand, powerless and helpless. They wish they could have a second chance at raising their children but there is never a second chance. This small booklet is presented to those young men and women beginning the long journey of parenthood, in the hope that they may never shed the tears of the defeated.

Parent-Child Relations (Albanian Language)

This book brings the voices of Muslim mothers into the discourse on parent-school relations. Over 50 women from a wide range of backgrounds and social class speak about their identities, experiences and challenges as they choose state schools and support their children through their education in Britain. Essential reading for teachers.

Parent-Child Relations (Bulgarian Language)

This book is one of the many Islamic publications distributed by Ahlulbayt Organization throughout the world in different languages with the aim of conveying the message of Islam to the people of the world. Ahlulbayt Organization (www.shia.es) is a registered Organization that operates and is sustained through collaborative efforts of volunteers in many countries around the world, and it welcomes your involvement and support. Its objectives are numerous, yet its main goal is to spread the truth about the Islamic faith in general and the Shi`a School of Thought in particular due to the latter being misrepresented, misunderstood and its tenets often assaulted by many ignorant folks, Muslims and non-Muslims. Organization's purpose is to facilitate the dissemination of knowledge through a global medium, the Internet, to locations where such resources are not commonly or easily accessible or are resented, resisted and fought! In addition, For a complete list of our published books please refer to our website (www.shia.es) or send us an email to info@shia.es

Parent-Child Relations (Persian Language)

Raising Children in Islam