Is There a Difference Between Brand Name Medications and Generics? - Is There a Difference Between Brand Name Medications and Generics? by Healthcare Triage 258,778 views 8 years ago 9 minutes, 17 seconds - We've already discussed drug, names, generic and "brand" ones. But are there differences, beyond the words? That's the topic of ...

Before a company can manufacture and market a generic drug in the United States it must submit an Abbreviated New Drug Application, or ANDA, to the FDA

Just because the brand and generic have identical drug molecules, and are bioequivalent and pharmaceutically equivalent does not mean that they are the same in every way

Excipients are the inactive ingredients in a drug product, or the stuff that's not the active drug molecule

Generic and brand drugs will always have the same active ingredients, but their excipients may vary. One or the other may have slightly more or fewer types of inactive ingredients depending on their manufacturing processes.

In the late 1960s an outbreak of intoxication occurred in Australia among patients taking the anticonvulsant drug phenytoin.

After evaluating the phenytoin capsules investigators discovered that in 1967 one manufacturer had changed its diluent, or bulking agent, from calcium disulphate dehydrate to lactose.

The lactose formulation allowed the phenytoin to dissolve more readily from the capsule, leading to higher concentrations in the blood.

A meta-analysis compared the clinical effectiveness of generic and brand name cardiovascular drugs. The study included 38 RCTs of 9 different subclasses of these medications.

A review article examined 5 RCTs and 6 observational studies comparing outcomes when switching patients from Coumadin to generic warfarin.

In the RCTs there were no significant differences reported at all. No studies showed that the branded drug was more effective than the generic.

A survey of 506 physicians in the US revealed that as many as 23% had negative opinions on the efficacy of generic drugs.

While 11.8% of doctors believed that generic drugs were less effective than the brand product, only 2.3% of pharmacists shared this opinion.
