Urban the Fourth

Canon Law

And Fresh and Who Would Correct the Many Mistakes He Had Made Then to the Profound Astonishment of the Cardinals in Front of Him straightway Descending from the Throne He Took Off One after another the Insignia of the Papacy His Mitre with Its Crown the Red Mantle the Ring and the Other Pontifical Even to the Hob All this He Did with every Sign of Joy if He Took the Chair of Peter with Sorrow He Left It with Gladness He Then Withdrew and Returned Wearing the Simple Garb of His Order and Taking the Lowest Step on the Throne Said Behold My Brethren I Have Resigned the Honor of the Papacy and Now I Implore You by the Blood of Jesus and His Holy Mother Quickly To Provide for the Church a Man Who Will Be Useful for It

He Then Withdrew and Returned Wearing the Simple Garb of His Order and Taking the Lowest Step on the Throne Said Behold My Brethren I Have Resigned the Honor of the Papacy and Now I Implore You by the Blood of Jesus and His Holy Mother Quickly To Provide for the Church a Man Who Will Be Useful for It for the Whole Human Race and for the Holy Land When He Had Said this He Rose To Go but the Cardinals Who Had Not Been Able with Dry Eyes To Look at the Scene

So Touching in Its Simple Humility and Treated Him Not To Leave Them until He Had Duly Provided for the Future To Put the Situation in Order It Would Be Well if He Would Decree that a Pope Could Resign and that the Cardinals Could Accept Such a Resignation a Decree to that Effect Was Accordingly a Once Drawn Up and Signed and Afterwards Inserted by Boniface and His Lever Sextus of Kennin Law Celestine's Best Deed Was His Self-Sacrificing Acceptance of the Papacy Thereby Putting It into Its Disasters Vacancy and His Second Best Act Was His Humble Resignation of It Whereby He Naturally Feared that Designing Men Who Hoped Everything from Peter De Moroni Might Succeed in Persuading Him that He Could Not Resign the Papacy and so that Especially in View of His Popularity with the Multitude a Dangerous Schism Might Be Brought About He Was Aware that Many Had Disapproved a Celestine's Renunciation and So He Judged It Better To Keep Him under His Eye Peter's Subsequent Conduct Showed How Well-Founded Were the Suspicions of Boniface the New Pope Had Naturally Decided To Leave Naples As Soon as Possible in 1295

The New Pope Had Naturally Decided To Leave Naples As Soon as Possible in 1295 and To Go to Rome Bidding Peter Accompanied Him He Left Naples Perhaps before December Was Out but at any Rate in the Beginning of January as He Reached Rome on January 17th Having Told Peter To Journey in His Company Boniface Presumed that He Would Do So and Evidently Did Not Order any Very Strict Watch To Be Kept over Him Meanwhile However Peter Had Allowed Himself To Be Influenced by those around Him They Had Put all Kinds of Ideas into His Mind as to What Boniface

Intended To Do with Him among

Other Things They Said that He Was Taking Him into Campania To Imprison Him There Arguing that He Had Only Resigned in Order that He Might Be Able To Lead the Same Sort of Life as He Had Done before His Election Peter Decided To Return to It despite Anybody He Had Left with Quite a Large Company Including His Former Disciple and Hilarious Abbot of Monte Cassino When However He Reached San Germano He Quickly with the Aid of a Priest Slipped Away and Returned to His Cell on Mal Moroni amidst the Greatest Manifestation of Joy on the Part of the People of All the Country Round on Hearing of His Secret Departure Boniface Was Perturbed and Justly Annoyed He Feared that the Simple Monk Had Been Induced To Resume the Papacy

He Quickly with the Aid of a Priest Slipped Away and Returned to His Cell on Mal Moroni amidst the Greatest Manifestation of Joy on the Part of the People of All the Country Round on Hearing of His Secret Departure Boniface Was Perturbed and Justly Annoyed He Feared that the Simple Monk Had Been Induced To Resume the Papacy He Accordingly Straightaway Dispatched His Chamberlain Theodoric of Ovett Jo and the Abbot of Monte Cassino To Seek Him They Had no Difficulty in Tracking Him to His Cell Where They Found Him Giving Thanks to God that He Had Brought Him Back There They Abraded Him for Having Gone Off without the Pope's Permission and Made Him Return at Once Les Boniface Should Be Angry with Him Peter However Replied by Pointing Out that He Had Resigned in Order To Be Able To Return to His Former Mode of Life and He Begged the Pope's Messengers To Entreat Him To Allow Him To End His Life in Solitude

However Replied by Pointing Out that He Had Resigned in Order To Be Able To Return to His Former Mode of Life and He Begged the Pope's Messengers To Entreat Him To Allow Him To End His Life in Solitude as He Had Begun It He Undertook Moreover Not To Speak to Anyone but to His Monks Extracting a Promise from Him that He Would Not Leave His Cell till They Should Return with the Pope's Answer the Messengers Departed on Their Two Return Journey and They Were Met by another Papal Messenger Who Informed Them that They Were To Bring Peter Back with Them whether He Wanted To Come or Not before the Chamberlain Could Retrace His Steps Word of His Errand Had Reached the Hermit so that When the Messenger Reached the Cell Peter Was Not To Be Found It Was to no Purpose that He Had the Chamberlain Scoured the Country out of Threats and Offered Rewards Peter's Hiding-Place Was Not To Be Discovered

And They Were Met by another Papal Messenger Who Informed Them that They Were To Bring Peter Back with Them whether He Wanted To Come or Not before the Chamberlain Could Retrace His Steps Word of His Errand Had Reached the Hermit so that When the Messenger Reached the Cell Peter Was Not To Be Found It Was to no Purpose that He Had the Chamberlain Scoured the Country out of Threats and Offered Rewards Peter's Hiding-Place Was Not To Be Discovered However the Irate Official Seized the Two Monks Whom He Found in the Hermits

But When on that Day a Benedictine Abbot Searching for Him Passed through the Wood Peter Resolved a Fly across the Sea To Grease some of His Monks Accordingly Engaged some Sailors of Rody on the Coast below the Northern Slopes of Mount Gargano To Convey Him across the Adriatic for Five or Six Weeks However Storms and Contrary Winds Prevented Their Putting to Sea and When at Last They Sailed Out They Were Driven Back and Had To Come Ashore Close to Vesti Only 15 Miles from Rody round the Promotora Again for Several Days the Sailors Were Unable To Launch Their Boats and Word Reached the Captain of St That the Ex Pope Was in the Neighborhood Overjoyed at the News the Captain Seized Him and at Once Sent Word to the Pope and to the King of Naples

He Was Therefore after Being Retained Two Months while Such a Place Was Being Prepared Conveyed by Knight to the Castle on Mount a Fomo nay some Eight Miles above Farentino the Little Town of Ramon a Standing on a Round Stony Isolated Hill and Commanding the Whole District Forms like the Italian Hill Towns Generally as It Were a Large Fortress with Its Castelo as a Sort of Citadel in Its Centre It Was in a Very Small Room in this Castle That the Ex Pope Was Confined August of 1295 When He Saw It He Gave Thanks to God Exclaiming I Have Longed for a Cell and a Cell I Have Got at His Request Two of His Brethren
