Interaction

Si, de nos jours, la dimension culturelle est devenue pour tout théoricien ou praticien une composante évidente de l'apprentissage d'une langue étrangère - et même si elle a fait l'objet de nombreux débats - elle n'a pas bénéficié d'un réinvestissement méthodologique en didactique des langues. Cet ouvrage propose une méthodologie d'initiation à une «lecture» anthropologique des sociétés et des cultures, destinée à ceux qui forment des publics apprenant des langues étrangères à des fins éducatives, universitaires ou professionnelles. La constitution de compétences de communication dans un contexte bi/multiculturel repose sur l'apprentissage de savoirs et savoir-faire tant culturels que linguistiques, en vue de mieux maîtriser les dimensions implicites qui sous-tendent toute communication. Dans ce but, sont proposées des démarches d'observation et de décodage des valeurs, systèmes de référence, représentations, comportements des locuteurs en présence. Des formations à l'analyse de la dimension interculturelle sont indispensables à la constitution de compétences culturelles chez l'enseignant ou le formateur qui devra préparer les futurs usagers de la langue à leur environnement étranger et construire avec eux les stratégies de compréhension et d'ajustement nécessaires à l'aboutissement de leur projet.

Interaction: Langue et Culture

Ce guide de recherche s'adresse avant tout aux étudiants apprentis-chercheurs. Il leur présente l'ensemble des repères fondamentaux pour élaborer, réaliser, diffuser des connaissances par un processus de recherche scientifique en didactique des langues et des cultures : repères épistémologiques et théoriques (qu'est-ce un projet de connaissance scientifique à propos de l'enseignement-apprentissage des langues et des cultures ? Comment élaborer un projet de recherche ?), repères méthodologiques (qu'est-ce qu'une méthode de recherche scientifique ? Comment élaborer une méthode pertinente ? Comment susciter, traiter, analyser, interpréter l'information ?), repères disciplinaires (quels sont les principaux axes de recherches en didactique des langues et des cultures aujourd'hui ? quels grands types de recherches sont menés ?), repères expérientiels (comment d'autres ont-ils mené des recherches dans ce domaine et à ses frontières interdisciplinaires ?). Dès lors, cet ouvrage apportera probablement aussi aux chercheurs confirmés, spécialisés dans d'autres domaines, une information sur ce champ de la recherche et sur l'état des connaissances en didactique des langues et des cultures.

It attempts to widen the scope of the discussion about language and culture awareness by including aspects of linguistic, literary, philosophical, and teaching theories from the authors' own cultures, as well as from other traditions.

Interaction: Langue et culture

This book analyses an intercultural project undertaken by French and English 14-year-olds based on an exchange of materials created by the pupils and focused on the topic of law and order. The project was based on a view of learning as a dialogic process interacting with others. A first language and home culture is acquired through such interaction. This project sought to realise this dialogic process in a more meaningful way than is often the case in foreign language classrooms.

Cultural Mediation in Language Learning and Teaching

The book presents a new theory of the relationship between language and culture in a transnational and global perspective. The fundamental view is that languages spread across cultures, and cultures spread across languages, or in other words, that linguistic and cultural practices flow through social networks in the world along partially different paths and across national structures and communities.

Cultural Awareness and Language Awareness Based on Dialogic Interaction with Texts in Foreign Language Learning

La langue et les langages sont véritablement des concepts distincts en sciences du langage, mais ils présentent autant de moyens d'entrer en contact avec l'Autre. La thématique du laboratoire de rattachement étant : "l'interculturalité"

Student Activities Manual (cahier d'activités orales et écrites) for St. Onge/St. Onge/Powers' Interaction: Langue et culture

Public Internet discussion forums offer opportunities for intercultural interaction in many languages on a vast range of topics, but are often overlooked by language educators in favour of purpose-built exchanges between learners. The book investigates this untapped pedagogical potential.

Intéractions et didactique d'une langue-culture étrangère

Now featuring new audio, the workbook provides oral and written activities that help you progress methodically from comprehension to expression. "Prononcez bien!" sections aid you in overcoming specific pronunciation challenges that you may encounter in each given chapter and the manual's writing activities help you strengthen your writing skills. In addition, "A l'écran!" sections provide activities based on segments of the new video program that accompanies the Eighth Edition.

Interaction

This book opens up new lines of debate in language learning and intercultural communication through an investigation of tandem language learning (a method of language learning based on mutual language exchange between native speakers and learners of each other's language) in connection with intercultural learning and identity construction. Through an empirical study of face-to-face tandem conversations, Jane Woodin provides compelling evidence for the re-definition of the tandem partnership beyond the traditional native speaker–non-native speaker (NS-NNS) paradigm. By analyzing conversation shapes, learner identification of self and other and interactants' own focus on culture, this book reveals how interactants themselves address the complexities of language, learning, ownership and meaning. The book also questions the prevalence of models of intercultural competence which describe the competence of the individual, with little recognition of the role of the relationship or interaction. Woodin considers the broader applicability of the tandem framework of autonomy and reciprocity, and suggests new directions for further research on tandem learning.

Foreign Language and Culture Learning from a Dialogic Perspective

Cet ouvrage de synthèse s'adresse aux étudiants, enseignants, et chercheurs en didactique des langues étrangères. Il est présenté sous la forme d'un outil complet et maniable, qui cherche à faciliter le repérage et l'apprentissage des notions, tout en stimulant la réflexion et en soulignant les liens entre fondements théoriques et pratiques de classe. Après une brève mise en perspective des apports et limites des principaux courants en didactique, l'auteur se tourne vers les travaux récents qui ouvrent de nouvelles pistes pour la didactique des langues. Les recherches sur la métacognition et les stratégies, mais aussi sur l'approche par les tâches dans le cadre sociocognitif, ainsi que les apports des théories socioculturelles d'inspiration vygotkienne et du courant littéraire sont présentés de façon claire et synthétique. Les passerelles théoriques entre les travaux portant sur la métacognition et les recherches interactionnistes d'inspiration vygotkienne sont mises en évidence, afin de faire émerger leurs convergences et leurs dimensions complémentaires. Des questions de réflexion sont proposées à la fin de chaque chapitre. L'objectif principal de ce livre est de permettre au lecteur de se constituer un bagage théorique sur les travaux récents, tout en s'engageant dans un questionnement didactique. Un ouvrage de référence qui rend compte de façon synthétique des avancées significatives de ces dernières années, propose de nombreuses orientations de lecture et pose des jalons pour que puisse avancer la réflexion et que se renouvellent les approches et les pratiques de classe.

Language and Culture

Les besoins de communication entre personnes qui ne parlent pas la même langue n'ont jamais été aussi grands : dans un environnement géopolitique et informationnel globalisé, tout se sait, tout se dit, tout s'échange. Le recours à une langue commune est loin de faire l'unanimité et, parce qu'il est difficile d'apprendre une langue étrangère, il semble nécessaire et naturel de se demander comment en améliorer l'enseignement. La didactique est l'ensemble des méthodes, hypothèses et principes qui permettent à l'enseignant d'optimiser les processus d'apprentissage. Cet ouvrage, profondément mis à jour, dresse un historique du domaine et ouvre un débat que réoriente l'innovation technoscientifique.

Langue, langage et interactions culturelles

Written by a group of prominent scholars from around the globe, The Routledge Handbook of Language and Culture provides a vital resource for scholars and students working in this area.

Learning Language and Culture Via Public Internet Discussion Forums

L'image a fait de tout temps partie des moyens utilisés pour l'apprentissage des langues et son évolution est liée à celle des outils techniques et à la multiplicité des supports : papier, film, télévision, multimédia. Comme tout langage, l'image est chargée de sens, de culture, de communication quand la pédagogie ne la réduit pas à l'illustration. Mais quelles sont les spécificités de l'image et quels sont ses rapports avec la langue ? Comment tirer profit de sa diversité culturelle pour l'apprentissage ? C'est en développant un enseignement de l'image et avec l'image que l'enseignant comme l'apprenant pourront connaître le fonctionnement de la langue-culture, se former à la communication interculturelle et gagner en autonomie face aux médias. Cet ouvrage s'adresse prioritairement aux enseignants et formateurs en langue étrangère et maternelle, mais les étudiants en sciences humaines pourront, de manière générale, y trouver de nombreuses aides dans leur pratique des images.

Métacognition et interactions en didactique des langues

In recent years language learning has been increasingly viewed by some SLA researchers as an essentially social-psychological process in which the role of a wider sociocultural context should not be marginalized. This volume offers a valuable contribution to this growing body of research by providing theoretical considerations and empirical research data on themes such as the development of intercultural communicative competence, the role of English as a lingua franca in intercultural communication, and the place of cultural factors in SLA theorizing, research, second/foreign language teaching and teacher training. The volume also contains contributions which share the linguistic interest in the culture-related concepts and constructs such as time, modesty, politeness, and respect, discussing the culture-dependent differences in conceptualization and their reflection in particular language forms and linguistic devices.

La Didactique des langues étrangères

Cet ouvrage, accompagné d'un résumé en anglais de chaque chapitre, explore les liens entre comportements discursifs, contextes et valeurs culturelles à partir de plusieurs corpus d'interactions authentiques en anglais et en français. Il se donne pour objectif de mettre en évidence la spécificité culturelle de certains usages langagiers et les problèmes de communication qui en résultent en situation interculturelle. Pour ce faire, il s'appuie tour à tour sur l'approche comparative des interactions et sur l'analyse des malentendus interculturels. Les apports descriptifs de différents modèles d'analyse sont présentés et discutés, en particulier ceux de l'analyse pragmatique des interactions et de l'analyse conversationnelle. Trois phénomènes particulièrement sensibles à la variation culturelle font chacun l'objet d'un chapitre : la gestion des tours de parole, les aspects rituels des échanges et la formulation des actes de langage directifs. Dans un chapitre de synthèse, l'auteure brosse, à partir des résultats des analyses précédentes, les profils contrastés des ethos communicatifs des deux communautés étudiées.

The Routledge Handbook of Language and Culture

This edited research volume explores the development of what can be described as the 'critical turn' in intercultural communication pedagogy, with a particular focus on modern/foreign language education. The main aim is to trace the realisations of this critical turn against a background of unequal power relations, and to illuminate the role that radical culture educators can play in the making of a more democratic and egalitarian social order. The volume takes as a starting point the idea that criticality draws on a number of intellectual traditions, which do not always focus on social and political critique, and argues that because ideological hegemony impacts on the meanings that people create and share, intercultural communication pedagogy ought to locate itself within wider socio-political contexts. With reference points drawn from critical and transnational social theory, critical pedagogy and intercultural theory, contributors to this volume provide readers with powerful ways that show how this can be achieved, and together assess the impact that their understanding of criticality can make on modern/foreign language education. The volume is divided into three major parts, namely: 'theorising critically', 'researching critically' and 'teaching critically'.

Images et apprentissages

The history of "language teaching" is shot through with methods and approaches to language learning - most recently with "communicative language teaching" - but this book demonstrates that a more differentiated and richer understanding of learning a foreign language is both necessary and desirable. Languages and cultures are interlinked and interdependent and their teaching and learning should be too. Learning another language is part of a complex process of learning and understanding other people's ways of life, ways of thinking and socio-economic experience

Communication, culture, méthodologie, évaluation. Cet ouvrage offre d'explorer la didactique des langues à travers quatre mots-clés qui rendent le mieux compte de son histoire, de ses enjeux linguistiques et éthiques, de ses orientations contemporaines. Il s'adresse en priorité aux étudiants préparant l'épreuve pré-professionnelle sur dossier du CAPES d'anglais mais aussi aux professeurs stagiaires et à tous les enseignants de langue qui souhaitent actualiser leurs connaissances. Il allie théorie et pratique, références nombreuses et précises et activités d'entraînement. Ainsi trouverez-vous des illustrations extraites de manuels scolaires ou de dossiers de jury et plus de trente activités concrètes permettant de confronter immédiatement la réflexion théorique à l'analyse pratique. Que signifie communiquer, et apprendre à communiquer ? Peut-on concilier culture et communication ? De quelle culture parlons-nous aujourd'hui à l'heure où 70% des échanges en anglais se déroulent entre locuteurs non natifs ? Pourquoi est-ce difficile d'apprendre une langue étrangère ? Peut-on vraiment évaluer positivement comme y invite le Cadre Européen de Référence pour les Langues ? Autant de questions auxquelles cet ouvrage s'efforce d'apporter des réponses ou des pistes de réflexion étayées par la recherche en didactique des langues.

Language, Media and Culture

L'objectif principal de l'ensemble du projet consistait à favoriser l'intégration d'une formation à la communication interculturelle dans la formation des enseignants en Europe. Le travail de recherche et de développement décrit dans cette publication entend contribuer à l'intégration de la formation à la communication interculturelle aux programmes de formation des enseignants.

Interaction et discours dans la classe de langue

Aspects of Culture in Second Language Acquisition and Foreign Language Learning

Pour faire face au basculement du monde, avons-nous d'autre choix que de nous inter-comprendre pour agir ensemble ? Cette question invite les didacticiens à chercher ce qui nous rassemble en-deçà et au-delà de nos différences et à naviguer entre les langues et les cultures qui se constituent en une vaste système langagier dynamique et complexe. Plongés dans cette constellation de langues, nous sommes face à la nécessité d'en apprendre plusieurs au cours de nos vies sans pour cela renier nos attaches affectives et culturelles (souvent plurielles) avec nos premières langues. L'intercompréhension et l'interculturalisation reposent sur notre capacité à ressentir, à nous émouvoir, imaginer et empathiser tout autant que sur nos capacités cognitives de discernement et d'esprit critique. Cet ouvrage envisage les dynamiques de médiation propres à l'enseignement des langues dans une double perspective translangagière et transculturelle. En effet, penser les médiations invite à sortir de l'homogénéisation sur le plan méthodologique, de la standardisation sur le plan des évaluations et à imaginer une didactique qui s'intéresse aux espaces-entres les langues, les cultures, les croyances, les traditions, les expressions artistiques et scientifiques comme des espaces-temps de négociation et de tissage des interactions sociales. Penser les médiations conduit également à comprendre comment se négocient les valeurs culturelles, les mythes et les croyances qui émergent dans les interactions langagières. Enseigner dans le respect des diversités constitue un nouveau défi : inventer une pédagogie du « translangager ».

Les interactions quotidiennes en français et en anglais

We live in a world that is marked by the twin processes of economic and cultural globalization. In this thought provoking book, Kumaravadivelu explores the impact of cultural globalization on second and foreign language education.

The Critical Turn in Language and Intercultural Communication Pedagogy

This volume offers novel insights into linguistic diversity in the domains of spatial and temporal reference, searching for uniformity amongst diversity. A number of authors discuss expression of dynamic spatial relations cross-linguistically in a vast range of typologically different languages such as Bezhta, French, Hinuq, Italian, Japanese, Polish, Serbian, and Spanish, among others. The contributions on linguistic expression of time all shed new light on pertinent questions regarding this cognitive domain, such as the hotly debated relationship between cross-linguistic differences in talking about time and universal principles of utterance interpretation, modelling temporal inference through aspectual interactions, as well as the complexity of the acquisition of tense-aspect relations in a second language. The topic of space and time in language and culture is also represented, from a different point of view, in the sister volume Space and Time in Languages and Cultures: Language, Culture, and Cognition (HCP 37) which discusses spatial and temporal constructs in human language, cognition, and culture in order to come closer to a better understanding of the interaction between shared and individual characteristics of language and culture that shape the way people interact with each other and exchange information about the spatio-temporal constructs that underlie their cognitive, social, and linguistic foundations.

The Dutch Language in the Digital Age

This white paper is part of a series that promotes knowledge about language technology and its potential. It addresses educators, journalists, politicians, language communities and others. The availability and use of language technology in Europe varies between languages. Consequently, the actions that are required to further support research and development of language technologies also differ for each language. The required actions depend on many factors, such as the complexity of a given language and the size of its community. META-NET, a Network of Excellence funded by the European Commission, has conducted an analysis of current language resources and technologies. This analysis focused on the 23 official European languages as well as other important national and regional languages in Europe. The results of this analysis suggest that there are many significant research gaps for each language. A more detailed expert analysis and assessment of the current situation will help maximise the impact of additional research and minimize any risks. META-NET consists of 54 research centres from 33 countries that are working with stakeholders from commercial businesses, government agencies, industry, research organisations, software companies, technology providers and European universities. Together, they are creating a common technology vision while developing a strategic research agenda that shows how language technology applications can address any research gaps by 2020.

Media Policy for the Digital Age

An argument from the Netherlands Scientific Council for Government Policy in favour of a more creative and open-minded media policy

Heritage Languages in the Digital Age

Against the backdrop of social media and internet use and their impact on communication, those working with minority (or autochthonous) heritage languages, including teachers, language activists and planners and researchers, are reassessing the media, language policy and teaching practices which they had previously applied to stem the tide of language shift towards majority languages. The languages examined in this book are still spoken by a considerable number of speakers and enjoy varying and varied forms of institutional, legal, financial and ideological support. While their overall numbers of speakers are declining, their importance for identity construction and commodification processes continues to increase. This book addresses issues including the potential for a shift from a focus on oral to written practices; the rise of new communities of practice and communicative domains; and the need for resulting shifts in language policy and teaching methods.

The Welsh Language in the Digital Age

Traditionally, the Netherlands has enjoyed status as a test market for new media. But in the past decade, such innovations have been severely hampered by questions about the future of public broadcasting. This issue has led to abundant political grandstanding, but little in the way of definitive policymaking. In February 2005, the Scientific Council for Government Policy published a report with practical policy suggestions. Media Policy for the Digital Age summarizes the Council's recommendations, giving readers outside the Netherlands insight into the issues at stake and possible solutions, as well as a concise analysis that tackles the challenges of making robust media policy for the twenty-first century.

Media Policy for the Digital Age

This open access book presents a comprehensive collection of the European Language Equality (ELE) project's results, its strategic agenda and roadmap with key recommendations to the European Union on how to achieve digital language equality in Europe by 2030. The fabric of the EU linguistic landscape comprises 24 official languages and over 60 regional and minority languages. However, language barriers still hamper communication and the free flow of information. Multilingualism is a key cultural cornerstone of Europe, signifying what it means to be and to feel European. Various studies and resolutions have found a striking imbalance in the support of Europe's languages through technologies, issuing a call to action. Following an introduction, the book is divided into two parts. The first part describes the state of the art of language technology and language-centric AI and the definition and metrics developed to measure digital language equality. It also presents the status quo in 2022/2023, i.e., the current level of technology support for over 30 European languages. The second part describes plans and recommendations on how to bring about digital language equality in Europe by 2030. It includes chapters on the setup and results of the community consultation process, four technical deep dives, an overview of existing strategic documents and an abridged version of the strategic agenda and roadmap. The recommendations have been prepared jointly with the European community in the fields of language technology, natural language processing, and language-centric AI, as well as with representatives of relevant initiatives and associations, language communities and regional and minority language groups. Ensuring appropriate technology support for all European languages will not only create jobs, growth and opportunities in the digital single market. Overcoming language barriers in the digital environment is also essential for an inclusive society and for providing unity in diversity for many years to come.

Growing up in a Digital World - Social and Cognitive Implications

Offers a well-researched and highly readable survey of the language in all its historical, geographic, and social aspects

Dyslexia in the Digital Age

The internet and the mobile phone have disrupted many of our conventional understandings of our selves and our relationships, raising anxieties and hopes about their effects on our lives. This timely and vibrant book provides frameworks for thinking critically about the roles of digital media in personal relationships. Rather than providing exuberant accounts or cautionary tales, it offers a data-grounded primer on how to make sense of these important changes in relational life. The book identifies the core relational issues these media disturb and shows how the ways we talk about them echo historical discussions about earlier communication technologies. Chapters explore how we use mediated language and nonverbal behavior to develop and maintain communities, social networks, new relationships, and to maintain relationships in our everyday lives. It combines research findings with lively examples to address questions such as whether mediated interaction can be warm and personal, whether people are honest about themselves online, whether relationships that start online can work, and whether using these media damages the other relationships in our lives. Throughout, the book argues for approaching these questions with firm understandings of the qualities of media as well as the social and personal contexts in which they are developed and used. Personal Connections in the Digital Age will be required reading for all students and scholars of media, communication studies, and sociology, as well as all those who want a firmer understanding of digital media and everyday life.

This book presents a comprehensive approach to issues related to researching and teaching second language (L2) writing in digital environments. In the digital age, new technologies have revolutionized the ways we communicate and construct knowledge, and have also reshaped the traditional notions of writing and literacy, posing new challenges and opportunities for L2 teachers and students. This book provides up-to-date coverage of the main areas of L2 writing and technology, including digital multimodal composing, computer-mediated collaborative writing, online teacher and peer feedback, automated writing evaluation, and corpus-based writing instruction. It synthesizes the relevant literature, analyzes theoretical perspectives, compiles relevant resources, and offers research and pedagogical recommendations to guide scholars in undertaking new L2 writing research and instructional practice in technologically-supported educational contexts. This book will be of relevance and interest to researchers, language teachers, and graduate students in applied linguistics and education.

Personal Connections in the Digital Age

This collection makes the case for existing critical discourse analysis theory and methods to meaningfully engage with the communicative parameters, power dynamics, and technological affordances of contemporary digital spaces. This book lends a critical focus on discursive practices operating through the paradigm of social media communication, addressing the crucial interface of discourse and the participatory web with disciplinary rigour and a well-balanced focus. This volume features chapters highlighting a diverse range of methods, including multi-sited ethnography, multimodality, argumentation studies, and topic modelling, as applied to a global range of case studies to present a holistic portrait of the latest methodological and theoretical debates in this space. The collection demonstrates the many and pervasive impacts of digital mediation on established discursive practices that are (re-)shaping existing social values, practices, and demands. In so doing, the collection advocates for a new tradition in critical discourse research, one which is rigorous in accounting for both solid discursive frameworks and the evolving complexity of digital platforms, and which triangulates methodologies in order to fully make sense of contemporary discursive practices and power relations on the online–offline continuum. This collection will be of interest to students and scholars in critical discourse studies, digital communication, media studies, and anthropology.

Researching and Teaching Second Language Writing in the Digital Age

This book adds to the international research literature on contemporary Nordic childhoods in the context of fast-evolving technologies. It draws on the workshop program of the Nordic Research Network on Digital Childhoods funded by the Joint Committee for Nordic research councils in the Humanities and Social Sciences (NOS-HS) during the years 2019–2021. Bringing together researchers from Finland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Iceland, the book addresses pressing issues around children's communication, learning and education in the digital age. The volume sheds light on cultural values, educational policies and conceptions of children and childhood, and child–media relationships inherent in Nordic societies. The book argues for the importance of understanding local cultures, values and communication practices that make up contemporary digital childhoods and extends current discourses on children's screen time to bring in new insights about the nature of children's digital engagement. This book will appeal to researchers, graduate students, educators and policy makers in the fields of childhood education, educational technology and communication. The Open Access version of this book, available at www.taylorfrancis.com, has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution-Non Commercial-No Derivatives 4.0 license.

Discourse in the Digital Age

Translation is living through a period of revolutionary upheaval. The effects of digital technology and the internet on translation are continuous, widespread and profound. From automatic online translation services to the rise of crowdsourced translation and the proliferation of translation Apps for smartphones, the translation revolution is everywhere. The implications for human languages, cultures and society of this revolution are radical and far-reaching. In the Information Age that is the Translation Age, new ways of talking and thinking about translation which take full account of the dramatic changes in the digital sphere are urgently required. Michael Cronin examines the role of translation with regard to the debates around emerging digital technologies and analyses their social, cultural and political consequences, guiding readers through the beginnings of translation's engagement with technology, and through to the key issues that exist today. With links to many areas of study, Translation in the Digital Age is a vital read for students of modern languages, translation studies, cultural studies and applied linguistics.

Nordic Childhoods in the Digital Age

Jeffersonian Economic Architecture in the Digital Age By: Robert S. Ellinger Ph.D Jeffersonian Economic Architecture in the Digital Age is a book focused on how to synergically adapt to the catastrophic change in culture that humanity is currently undergoing. This is due to seismic change in technology at the dawn of the Digital Age. The author Robert S. Ellinger Ph.D. has created an architectural model using concepts from a variety of academic disciplines including spatial economics, history, systems engineering, information technology, enterprise architecture, and political science. He uses this model to demonstrate how humanity adapted to technology change in the past. He then transforms this model for the future Digital Age. And he does this while keeping Jefferson's and other founding father's concept of equal opportunity for all as envisioned in the US Declaration of Independence and Preamble of the US Constitution.

Translation in the Digital Age

Traditional critical editing, defined by the paper and print limitations of the book, is now considered by many to be inadequate for the expression and interpretation of complex works of literature. At the same time, digital developments are permitting us to extend the range of text objects we can reproduce and investigate critically - not just books, but newspapers, draft manuscripts and inscriptions on stone. Some exponents of the benefits of new information technologies argue that in future all editions should be produced in digital or online form. By contrast, others point to the fact that print, after more than five hundred years of development, continues to set the agenda for how we think about text, even in its non-print forms. This important book brings together leading textual critics, scholarly editors, technical specialists and publishers to discuss whether and how existing paradigms for developing and using critical editions are changing to reflect the increased commitment to and assumed significance of digital tools and methodologies.

Journalism in the Digital Age

This book studies how our personal memory is transformed as a result of technological and cultural transformations: digital photo cameras, camcorders, and multimedia computers inevitably change the way we remember and affect conventional forms of recollection.

Public Speaking for Beginners: How to Communicate Effectively in the Digital Age

As in all fields and disciplines of the humanities, Jewish Studies scholars find themselves confronted with the rapidly increasing availability of digital resources (data), new technologies to interrogate and analyze them (tools), and the question of how to critically engage with these developments. This volume discusses how the digital turn has affected the field of Jewish Studies. It explores the current state of the art and probes how digital developments can be harnessed to address the specific questions, challenges and problems that Jewish Studies scholars confront. In a field characterised by dispersed sources, and heterogeneous scripts and languages that speak to a multitude of cultures and histories, of abundance as well as loss, what is the promise of Digital Humanities methods--and what are the challenges and pitfalls? The articles in this volume were originally presented at the international conference #DHJewish - Jewish Studies in the Digital Age, which was organised at the Centre for Contemporary and Digital History (C2DH) at University of Luxembourg in January 2021. The first big international conference of its kind, it brought together more than sixty scholars and heritage practitioners to discuss how the digital turn affects the field of Jewish Studies.

Music Collection Development and Management in the Digital Age offers both a theoretical context and practical approaches to the issues facing today's music collection builders and managers. In this exciting new book, Kirstin Dougan Johnson engages readers with many of the core responsibilities involved with music collections, in both music library and general library settings. The author examines the whole of music collections, incorporating into that vision guidance on the principles and tasks involved with collection building, acquisitions, management, and assessment. Details include music formats and publishing, music identification and discoverability, the context of music collections and the tasks involved in building and scoping them, diversity and inclusion in music collections, budgets and acquisitions workflows, pre- and post-order tasks, collection management and assessment, and future directions for collection development in music. With its focus on issues related to music scores and media in physical and electronic forms, Music Collection Development and Management in the Digital Age directly addresses subject librarians who select music materials in academic libraries. The volume also serves music librarians in other settings, such as public and conservatory libraries. All in all, Music Collection Development and Management in the Digital Age is an essential reference for all who work with music collections, whether in music libraries specifically, general library collections with music holdings, or centralized library acquisitions departments.

Mediated Memories in the Digital Age

This book discusses the current socio-cultural situation of North African migrants in Europe, and analyzes migration, gender, and identity in their multiple dimensions, consequences and expressions, which range from sociological approaches to culture and literature. The chapters debate the topic of migration and culture from various angles, making this volume a forum where notions of dispossession, cultural identity, and otherness are debated. It comprises contributions that range in subject matter from sociological and anthropological studies of Maghrebi diaspora and migrants in Europe to reflections on transnational literature. It is an analysis of migration with all its complex aspects, and multiple expressions of 'exile', 'otherness', and 'pain'.

Jewish Studies in the Digital Age

This white paper is part of a series that promotes knowledge about language technology and its potential. It addresses educators, journalists, politicians, language communities and others. The availability and use of language technology in Europe varies between languages. Consequently, the actions that are required to further support research and development of language technologies also differ for each language. The required actions depend on many factors, such as the complexity of a given language and the size of its community. META-NET, a Network of Excellence funded by the European Commission, has conducted an analysis of current language resources and technologies. This analysis focused on the 23 official European languages as well as other important national and regional languages in Europe. The results of this analysis suggest that there are many significant research gaps for each language. A more detailed expert analysis and assessment of the current situation will help maximise the impact of additional research and minimize any risks. META-NET consists of 54 research centres from 33 countries that are working with stakeholders from commercial businesses, government agencies, industry, research organisations, software companies, technology providers and European universities. Together, they are creating a common technology vision while developing a strategic research agenda that shows how language technology applications can address any research gaps by 2020.
