As someone who has experienced many different types of legal work, please tell our viewers how you ended up specializing in space law?

Prior to working at Airbus, you founded the NGO "Cheer" and it focuses on the rehabilitation of trans people in Tamil Nadu, India. Could you please tell us more about the organization's work?

There's so much work to be done, in the Indian context especially. It is amazing to see you take that initiative! And now you are Commercial Contracts Officer and Bid Manager at Airbus. Could you tell us what a typical day looks like at the office?

Is there any advice that you have, particularly for students and young professionals who are interested in a commercial space law career?

On the subject of work culture, it's a known fact that our sector is also severely gendered and male-dominated. So what are your thoughts on work culture in the aerospace industry?

How can we build a more supportive environment?
